STATE SAYS 'NO'

Georgia Woman Wants Her Candy-Loving Fawn

GRIFFIN, Ga. (UPI)—A 3-week-old fawn that sleeps with a protective dachshund, drinks Coca-Cola and eats peppermint candy is the center of a struggle between its keeper, who wants it for a pet, and state game and fish officials.

The fawn now lives at the home of Mrs. Darryl Crumbley, who took it in after "a friend of mine was harvesting a field, cutting wheat, and almost ran over him with a combine. I can't give the friend's name because it's illegal to take a deer. The deer still has scars on his face where he was cut."

The trouble is that state officials won't give Mrs. Crumbley, who already has three children, six goats, four cats, four dogs and a wild turtle, a permit to keep the fawn.

State law makes it illegal to "hold or possess birds or animals for the purpose of propogation or pets" without first obtaining a state permit.

"We're not granting any new permits," State Game and Fish Director Jack Crockford said Tuesday.

"We now issue permits only for public facilities like zoos and for the University of Georgia, which has a wildlife disease study program," said Crockford.

But attempts to take the fawn away from Mrs. Crockford so far have been unsuccessful.

When Game and Fish Department officials came to her house last week to get the deer, after refusing her application for a permit, Mrs. Crockford packed the little fawn into the back seat of her car., its legs wrapped to prevent it from jumping, and went to see Gov. Jimmy Carter and Lt. Gov. Lester Maddox.

She led it around the state Capitol on a leash and "he wasn't any problem. He thoroughly enjoyed it. He won the heart of everybody at the state Capitol that day," she said.

Though Carter and Maddox were sympathetic, she said, there was nothing either could do. Those matters come under the authority of fish and game officials.

And those officials aren't budging.

Crockford noted that Mrs. Crumbley keeps the deer in an 18 by 6 utility room that he shares with a pet dog, and said of the Cokes and candy, "it doesn't seem like much of a diet to me."

Wild deer become troublesome when they reach maturity, Crockford said, and their keepers "have second thoughts."

"By then, it's too late. If they are released into the wild, they can't take care of themselves.

"They become a real problem, particularly with bucks, and particularly in the fail during breeding season. It's a truly dangerous animal. No matter how gentle they've been, they'll turn on you. No matter how tame you think they are, during the fall of the year they simply cannot be trusted."

North Vietnamese Push Stalls, Attacks Begin On New Front

SAIGON (UPI)—North Vietnamese troops, unable to penetrate the My Chanh River defense line north of Hue, launched big artillery and ground attacks today on the western approach to the old imperial capital.

The South Vietnamese said the attacks were repulsed and that the Communists lost 71 dead against light government losses.

In the air war, U.S. planes flew to within two miles of Hanoi Monday and attacked a major airfield with guided bombs. They also blasted a main thermal plant barely a mile from the center of the port city of Haiphong, also with guided bombs.

The U.S. command said about 100 B52s dumped another 2,500 tons of bombs on Communist positions in Quang Tri Province, north of the defense lines, and that U.S. 7th Fleet ships and hundreds of Air Force, Navy and Marine fighters took up where the B52s left off.

The naval bombardment cost the lives of two American sailors killed when the forward gun mount on the destroyer Benjamin Stoddert blew up from unknown causes. Four other sailors were wounded.

UPI reporter Chad Huntley, reporting from Hue, said the Communists fired more than

CLAIM LAW UNCONSTITUTIONAL

Nude Sunbathers Go To Court

If eight persons charged with nude sunbathing have their way in court, Marin's nudity ordinance will soon be as passe as their bathing suits.

In a petition filed yesterday in Marin Superior Court, the sunbathers asked that their prosecution in municipal court be barred because the ordinance prohibiting exposure of the "private parts" or female breasts on public lands is unconstitutional.

Before the filing, Judge Henry J. Broderick ordered the lower court to stop the case or show cause during a July 6 court hearing why it shouldn't stop the case.

The suit — filed by Mill Valley attorney Bernard S. Strick for the eight arrested on Little Beach near Muir Beach — claims the county ordinance violated their right to free expression, is vague and too broad, denies women equal protection of the law and governs a field taken over by state laws.

"Sunbathing in the nude is a form of expression and communication and as such is entitled to protection under the First Amendment," the suit said. "People who practice nudism are committed to various ideals such as the promotion of health, brotherhood and pacifism, all of which can be expressed by the nude human body."

For example, the suit contends, nude pacifists maintain that war would be almost impossible if soldiers were nude and couldn't tell friend from foe.

Obscenity is not covered by the First Amendment, according to Strick, but nude sunbathing has been ruled not obscene. "The fact that several cliffside inhabitants of the Muir Beach area are able, by craning their necks, to observe nude persons sunbathing on the beach below and to take offense therefrom, does not warrant the infringement of said sunbathers' rights to assemble together and express and communicate ideas," Strick wrote.

He said the ordinance is an attempt to regulate morals, even on secluded private beaches.

The suit maintained that the ordinance numbered 6.76.010 is too broad because it bars nude sunbathing in areas where a person can't be seen — a legal activity — as well as in public.

Furthermore, women are refused the privilege of exposing their breasts, but men are not, a violation of equal protection, according to the suit.

"If such is the portion of the feminine anatomy at which the above ordinance is directed, it is difficult to see why the nipple portion of a man's breast, which is similar if not identical in most cases to that of woman's, is not similarly prohibited," Strick said.

He called banning the bare breast "an archaic remnant of our puritanical past."

He further argued that the state has passed laws governing nudity and left only the governance of nude entertainment to local discretion.

Municipal Court Judge David R. Baty had rejected argument by the eight that, even if they were naked on the beach, there was no valid reason to prosecute them.

He ordered Debbie Irene Martin, Peter Anthony Alongi, Sharon Elaine Hacker, John Francis Witowski, Patricia Jane Barbour Hughes, Gail Ellen Kuric, Clayton Burt Clarkson and Frances Dorothy Wheeler to plead June 26 when he heard the demurrer June 2.

Broderick's order prevents that proceeding.

Alongi, Miss Hacker and Miss Martin were arrested April 27; the rest were picked up May 1.

Action On Outlawing Handguns

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee today approved a bill to outlaw the commercial sale of small, concealable type handguns not suitable for sporting purposes. (See related story, page 1.)

The measure, sponsored by Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., was approved by a 12 to 2 vote after the committee turned down by a 9 to 5 vote a rival measure of Sen. Roman Hruska, R-Neb.

Three bills offered by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., to require the registration of all firearms, or the licensing of both long guns and handguns and of only handguns were rejected by one-sided margins.

The handguns used in the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy in 1968 and in the attempted assassination of Alabama Gov. Goerge C. Wallace last month would be banned from sale under the legislation.

The shooting of Wallace during his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination spurred action by the committee of Bayh's bill, which had been lying dormant for over a year.

The only two committee members who voted against approval of Bayh's bill were chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., and Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark.

Hruska supported Bayh's bill after his own proposal, based on standards of safety and reliability for the sale of handguns, was defeated.

Gun-control proponents argued, as they have following the assassination of other political figures, that the Wallace shooting was further evidence of the need for greater restrictions.

But the National Rifle Association, the most visible opponent of restrictions, replied that new prohibitions would not keep guns out of the hands of a determined assassin.

Voting with Hruska for his bill were Eastland, McClellan, and Sen. Strom Thurmond, RS.C., and Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla.

Kennedy's proposal to require registration of all firearms-rifles and shotguns as well as pistols and revolvers, was defeated by an 11 to 8 vote. Voting with Kennedy for it were Sens. John Tunney, D-Calif., and Hiram Fong, R-Hawaii.

Rejected by votes of 1 to 4 were Kennedy proposals first to

Tiburon Will Seek Open Space Money

By JAY GOODWIN

After months of deliberation, the Tiburon City Council last night authorized an election this fall on a bond issue designed to raise $1.25 million for the acquisition of open space along the Tiburon Peninsula Ridgeline. (Another Tiburon City Council story, page 5.)

The action, which Mayor Albert H. Sennett called "the most important decision the community may ever make," was taken by a unanimous vote of the council.

The council's resoltuion began the legally required 100-day countdown to the election, but did not officially specify the date of the election or the dollar amount of the proposed bond issue.

Both questions will be decided at the council's next meeting July 10.

Though it omitted the $1.25 million figure from its authorizing resolution, the council instructed its bond counsellor to draft the ordinance with that amount included.

According to an estimate by financial consultant Vernon Perry, payments on the proposed bonds would increase the city's tax rate by approximately 29 cents per $100 assessed value. The budget for 1972-73 — which does not include any bond payments — carries a tentative tax rate of 78 cents.

According to Perry's computations, the bonds would cost the owner of a $50,000 home in Tiburon an additional $36 per year.

The first and second Tuesdays in October (Oct. 3 and Oct. 10) as well as election day, Nov. 7, were suggested.

The October dates drew support from those who wished to separate the bond election from a national election day. They speculated that the bond issue would fare better at the polls if it didn't coincide with a presidential vote.

Councilman Branwell D. Fanning suggested that an October election would eliminate the possibility that the Watson Property Tax Amendment — which is on the statewide November ballot — might prevent a bond election until the next municipal elections scheduled for spring of 1974.

Other members of the audience predicted that a bond election on a national election day would help the bond issue. They also argued that a large voter turnout was more democratic, despite the outcome, and that such a date would save the city the cost of a special election.

In addition to indecision on the election date, the council moved no closer to specifying which parcels of open space it intended to purchase.

Fanning, as part of a summary report by the council's lands and development committee, stated, "We can't be terribly specific because we still have to negotiate with the property owners."

According to Perry, the city should expect to pay between $7,000 and $15,000 per acre of open space that it acquires.

While admitting that the $1.25 million bond issue is a large expense for Tiburon, Fanning tossed in a new argument for the bond issue: "A $1.25 million bond issue is a considerable bond issue, no doubt about it, but it would cost this much or more if we had to build another school for the children who might move onto the open space areas we're hoping to acquire."

After passing an authorizing resolution, the council appointed the San Francisco law firm of Orrick, Herrington, Rowley and Sutcliff to serve as the city's bond counsellors.

Councilman M. Carlisle Becker was absent throughout the meeting.

A McGovern Racist Blast

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—Sen. George McGovern stumped the South today to pick up the additional delegate support he needs to win the Democratic presidential nomination and said the administration of President Nixon is racist.

At a news conference before leaving for Arkansas, McGovern was asked if he was trying to imply in his recent statements that the Nixon administration is racist.

"There is no question that this administration is playing on racist emotions in this country," McGovern replied. "The President has done that from the very beginning. That's what the Southern strategy is all about."

At a rally Monday night, McGovern said Nixon's Southern strategy was designed in a "cynical attempt to trick the people of the South into voting against themselves" next November.

McGovern said today Nixon played on racist emotions when he nominated G. Harrold Carswell to the Supreme Court, when he ordered the Justice Department to slow down its enforcement of civil rights cases and "the fantastic efforts of the President" to raise the issue of school busing to one of national importance.

"This whole thing is kind of a cynical play on racism," McGovern said.

Meanwhile, it was learned today that McGovern plans to make a major bid for party unity among old-line party regulars in New Jersey on Thursday night in Atlantic City.

Most of the regulars lost bids to McGovern supporters in the New Jersey primary to be delegates to the national convention. One of Sen. Edmund S. Muskie's supporters, Sen. Har-

Demo Examiner Upholds Bidding To Bar Seating Daly Delegation

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A Democratic Credentials Committee hearing examiner has upheld a challenge to bar seating of Chicago Mayor Richard Daley and 58 other "uncommitted" delegates at the Democratic National Convention, Chicago Alderman William Singer said today.

Singer told reporters "It is almost impossible for me to conceive" of anything but the seating of the 59 delegates challenging Daley by the 150member Democratic Credentials Committee and the full party convention.

Singer, citing excerpts from "findings of fact" by hearing examiner Cecil Poole, said, "We are saying at this point that those 59 are not entitled to seats." Singer is one of the challengers of the Daley delegation.

Copies of Poole's report were not available immediately but the excerpts cited by Singer indicate he found violations in slate-making processes which had produced a gross underrepresentation of women, blacks

$27,000 Goal Reached To Halt Double Sessions

The Petaluma Save Our Schools Committee has promised $27,000 to the Petaluma School District, enough funds to keep schools off double sessions and keep Grant School open.

Committee members said they have received $23,519 in cash and have firm pledges for $3,275 they expect will be received this week. Joyce Shmatovich of the committee said an additional $6,411 in pledges is still outstanding, but they expect the realistic total of $27,000 will finally be collected.

The board of education had previously told the committee that if $27,000 is raised — enough to plug gaps in the budget — they will be able to keep schools on regular single sessions and will not close Grant School as planned.

The committee staged several fund raising events and contacted nearly each parent in the elementary district to raise funds.

Gun-Control Problems Bring Blast By Mandel

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Maryland Gov. Marvin Mandel said today he felt "frustration and anger" at how easily the handgun used in the shooting of George Wallace was bought in Wisconsin and transported to Maryland.

"It illustrates precisely the difficulties states have in regulating the flow of handguns," Mandel said in testimony to the House Judiciary subcommittee supporting federal gun control legislation.

The subcommittee began today the first hearings in the House this year on gun control.

"You can imagine the frustration and anger I felt when evidence developed by the FBI showed that the suspect in the shooting of Gov. Wallace had purchased his handgun in Milwaukee, as easily as if he was purchasing peppermint sticks at the corner candy store, and transported it through any number of states before the sights finally pointed at Gov. Wallace," Mandel said.

"Handguns are a national problem," he said. "The states can only go so far with controls because of their limited authority over the mails and the market place."

The three days of hearings concentrate on Judiciary Committee Chairman Emansel Celler's proposed registration and licensing bill, which would prohibit the sale of handguns except to police departments, gun clubs and other authorized organizations such as the military.

The Celler bill also would outlaw cheap handguns, called "Saturday night specials," and would require permits and registration for all firearms.

Anyone who owned a handgun could keep it, but could not sell it or buy a new one, although the government would buy it from him if he wished. A registration certificate would be required to purchase ammunition.

The hearings also will consider other similar bills as well as a number of bills to increase penalties under present gun control laws.

The Senate has taken no action on gun control although Sen. Birch Bayh's bill to outlaw Saturday Night specials has been approved by committee.

Bremer Attorneys Seek Dropping Of U.S. Charges

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Attorneys for Arthur H. Bremer have filed six pretrial motions in an attempt to get all federal charges dropped against the accused assailant of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace.

U.S. District Judge Edward S. Northrup set a July 7 date to hear the motions filed Monday by attorney Benjamin Lipsitz, Bremer's court-appointed attorney.

The defense previously had argued similar motions in a state court, contending that federal and state charges overlap and only one court has jurisdiction over the case.

The state has accused him of assault with intent to murder, which would carry the death penalty. His trial is set to begin July 12.

His federal trial is slated to start five days later on July 17. He faces a federal charge of violating a 1968 law prohibiting interference with a candidate for federal office as well as wounding of a federal officer—a Secret Service agent who was one of three other persons wounded besides Wallace.

Bremer is being held at Baltimore County Jail in lieu of $400,000 bond.

Wallace, paralyzed from the waist down, is still at Holy Cross Hospital in Silver Spring, Md., where he was taken shortly after the shooting.

Wallace was formally served a subpena Monday to appear in Prince Georges County Circuit Court in Upper Marlboro, Md., for the scheduled start of Bremer's state trial July 12, but the Alabama governor said he would not be able to do so.

Agnes Fund Action Set In Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Congress has joined President Nixon in an effort to make more federal help available for regions devastated by tropical storm Agnes.

Sens. Hugh Scott and Richard S. Schweiker of Pennsylvania introduced legislation Monday that would provide an additional $200 million in relief funds. A House Banking subcommittee agreed to substantially lower the interest rate on federal disaster loans.

Nixon has signed an executive order declaring five Eastern states disaster areas and clearing the way for government agencies to channel large amounts of money into the states hard hit by flooding.

Ronald L. Ziegler, the White House press secretary, said the Office of Emergency Preparedness (OEP) and 25 other federal agencies involved in the recovery efforts "have direct instructions from the President to provide all federal assistance needed and to do it immediately by cutting through red tape."

Flood Victims Visit Silt-Covered Homes

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (UPI) —Civil defense officials permitted the 145,000 residents of this coal mining region who fled their homes before the floods to return for a brief cheerless homecoming today.

The flooded areas were opened to residents at 9 a.m. Vehicles were barred from the silt-covered, muddy streets because of the open manholes, broken glass and caved-in pavements. ,

Civil defense officials banned smoking because of the possibility of flash fires from ruptured oil tanks and gas lines. They cautioned that rain swollen doors would not close after being opened.

All those who returned, officials said, should leave before nightfall after throwing ruined furniture into the streets for pickup and scouring their sinks with quicklime.

Gen. Frank Townsend, civil defense co-ordinator, was asked, when the people would be able to move back.

Gov. Milton J. Shapp said his earlier damage estimate, "well over $1 billion," was far too low. He said he now thinks the damage will be "well over $1.5 billion."

Overall damage in 10 states hit by tropical storm Agnes was expected to surpass $2 billion and deaths to rise from the 130 reported so far when communications improved in rural areas.

In Pennsylvania, 49 persons perished and 250,000 fled their homes. Among the victims were three television newsmen and a pilot who were killed in a helicopter crash near Harrisburg.

Deaths totalled 24 in New York, 19 in Maryland, 17 in Virginia.

San Rafael Pay Flap May Need Mediator

The San Rafael City Council last night failed to reach an agreement on salary increases for the city's safety employees.

"We presume that the next step will be mediation," said Mayor C. Paul Bettini after a fruitless two-hour session with representatives of the city's police and fire personnel.

The city offered police a 3.5 per cent cost of living increase, but negotiators argued for a 6 per cent increase for patrolmen and a 9.5 per cent increase for sergeants and lieutenants, Bettini said.

Firemen were offered the 3.5 per cent increase plus a two-hour reduction in their 62-hour work week, but they wanted the same as police were asking, he said.

The council did come to an agreement with the city's department heads, administrative and technical employees for the 3.5 cost-of-living increase, and boosted the city clerk's salary by $600 a year.

Asst. City Mgr. William J. Bielser, who now receives $1,300 monthly — was granted a 12 per cent salary increase. Bielser was hired at a minimum rate and has "proven a very adequate oyee," Bettini said.

The council adopted a $5.4 million tentative operating budget in a five-minute open hearing that followed last night's closed session on employee salaries.

$1,500 For Tennis Courts Swells New Fairfax Budget

The Fairfax City Council last night reviewed four portions of its $727,113 budget for fiscal 1972-73 and added a $1,500 item.

At the request of the men's and women's tennis clubs, the $1,500 was added for resurfacing the two city-owned tennis courts. The two tennis clubs agreed to add $500 to the city's share to raise the $2,000 which City Mgr. Robert E. Crowe estimated it would cost.

They left unchanged the $10,600 city council budget. They id not change the $29,787 city administrator budget, but questioned the purchase of a $600 calculator. Crowe was asked to get one for demonstration to the council.

The proposed $20,969 parks department budget and the $18,556 recreation budget were reviewed but not changed.

It was during discussion of the recreation and parks budget that the eight members of the two clubs asked for the resurfacing of the tennis courts. The $1,500 increased to $70,500 the capital improvement portion of the budget.

Councilman Lee Nelder said he knew of cases where adults claiming to be members of the tennis clubs had chased youngsters off the courts so they could use them. The council then asked that the parks and recreation commission review the rules governing the courts.

The council discussed at length whether to spend $128 for portable toilets for the remainder of the summer when permanent ones should be constructed. Crowe reported that bids had not yet been called for on the permanent toilets.

Another lengthy unresolved discussion centered around where to install the garbage cans which the city crew has constructed.

Crowe reported that Pacific Gas and Electric Co. has promsed to install the remainder of the street light poles in the business district, an item that has been hanging fire for more than a year.

The council adjourned to 8 p.m. today at the Fairfax Women's Club either to review the master plan of Gentry Corp. for 19 townhouses on two acres at the west end of the city, or if the developer is not available, to continue budget review.

Marin Suicide Center Plans Crisis Course

The Marin Suicide Prevention Center will conduct a volunteer training course in crisis intervention at the First Presbyterian Church, 72 Kensington Road, San Anselmo, beginning July 13 at 1 p.m.

More than 200 volunteers have already been trained to staff the center's 24-hour telephone counseling service, according to Richard Reubin, executive director.

Final Report Set By School-Saving Group

The Petaluma Save Our Schools Committee will give a final report on its fund raising campaign at the Petaluma Board of Education meeting at 8 p.m. today.

The committee formed to raise $34,000 to keep schools off double sessions and to avoid closing Grant School. The board will consider what donations have been received in relation to the 1972-73 budget.

The board will also meet in closed session to consider appointing a successor to Sol Fishman who will leave the board July 7.

Ruling Delay On Marinview

After long discussion, the Marin County Planning Commission yesterday postponed decision on the proposed fifth unit of Marinview, a subdivision of single-family residences and townhouses above Tamalpais Valley.

Residents of the first four units of the project, already built atop ridges, apparently have either become disenchanted with the developer or simply object to more dwellings.

More than 200 residents had signed a petition objecting to the 46-unit addition on the grounds of increased traffic, aesthetics and poor soil conditions.

After listening to residents describe slides and natural springs on the property, commissioner Margaret Azevedo said that unless new information showed there were soil problems that couldn't be solved, the project ought to be approved.

"We shouldn't go back on a commitment made by the county" unless there are such problems, she said, noting the board of supervisors had approved the project's master plan some time ago.

It was finally agreed to postpone decision on the matter until the July 14 meeting, when further geological information is to be provided by the county staff.

In other business yesterday, commissioners chided department of public works staff for appealing an action in which the staff itself had not acted within legal time limits. "I don't think a county department ought to be able to appeal its own goof," Mrs. Azevedo said.

The commission then voted unanimously to allow a land division for owners J. L. Schultz and G. C. Rogers on property south of Nicasio Reservoir. The department of public works had objected to the split of the property, about 40 acres, into four large parcels because of inadequate roads.

The department's recommendation for denial, however, had come later than the date when the subdivision, already approved by the planning staff, would have become automatically in effect.

Mrs. Azevedo and other commissioners agreed it would be unfair for county officials not to be bound by an ordinance time limit, the same as anyone else.

In the meantime, it was reported by attorney Joseph E. Sheeks, representing the land owners, that they had agreed to make road improvements.

The Marin County Planning Commission also:

$1.1 Million School Budget Approved

A $1,136,425 tentative budget for 1972-73 was approved last night by Sausalito School District trustees.

The spending program, approximately $50,000 less than this year's, will eliminate one and a half nonteaching positions in the district but will leave the teaching staff unchanged, according to Supt. Lawrence A. Lindberg.

He said representatives of the district's classified employees association appeared in order to protest the move to eliminate the jobs of utility maintenance man and half-time carpenter, saying needed services would be cut.

As adopted, the tentative budget will raise the district's total tax rate by one-half cent, from $2.995 to $3 per $100 assessed valuation. Of the total spending program, $680,217 will be raised through local property taxes, Lindberg said.

The budget, adopted by the board with no major changes, will be the subject of a public hearing in August before it becomes final.

It includes these major expenditures: administration, $62,769; instruction, $650,427; health, $6,033; transportation, $39,626; plant operation, $80,948; plant maintenance, $36,418; fixed charges, $105,400; food services, $15,607; capital outlay, $18,336; outgoing transfers (money paid to other school districts for students who live in the Sausalito district but attend school outside), $58,425; undistributed reserves, $55,436.

Corte Madera Design Board Vacancy Filled

Robert Overstreet was seated last night on the Corte Madera Board of Design, bringing the board to its full three-member capacity.

The Corte Madera Town Council had appointed Overstreet to replace Morgan Griffith, who resigned from the board two weeks ago.

Overstreet, 47, is a partner in the San Francisco architectural firm of Botsai Overstreet Associates. He lives at 326 Summit Drive, Corte Madera.

The design board also reelected William Gilbert, chairman, and Overstreet, vice-chairman. William Thomas is the board's third member.

The board set a special hearing July 5 in town hall to consider plans for the first phase of the proposed Madera Del Presidio development of 128 units on 16 acres. When completed, the planned unit development will include 525 units on a 79-acre plot.

A request to construct a 10-unit multiple dwelling at 5170-88 Paradise Drive was turned down because the area is zoned for single dwelling units. Gilbert recommended that developer Karl Treffinger of San Francisco pursue his application for a zoning change with the planning commission before bringing his plans to the design board for approval.

The board requested Henry Hullett, owner of the North Bay Lumber Co., 25 Clemente Drive, plant trees "harmonious with the overall with the overall tree-plantingplan" previously adopted for San Clemente Drive; approved an application by N. R. Cox of Mill Valley for a day school at 5168 Paradise Drive, and approved a new office building at the corner of Tamalpais Drive and Sierra Street to replace an existing building.

Recall Move Brings Plea By Norville

Corte Madera Mayor Holmes S. (Pete) Norville today called on citizens to refuse to support the threatened recall petition against him.

Norville rejected charges that he supports developers and multiple-density housing in Corte Madera.

The mayor said he had voted to zone the controversial Meadowsweet Station development low-density residential to insure "maximum control over the development."

The 528 units now allowed at Meadowsweet may be reduced during further review, he said.

Norville said he had urged reduction in density for parcels south and north of the rail tracks on Tamal Vista and that he had encouraged the projected 80-acre regional shopping center east of the freeway for the "future economy of the town."

His three-page reply, entitled "Response of Mayor Holmes S. (Pete) Norville to the Petition for Recall," said he had attempted to reach "effective balance" among recommendations of town staff, commissions, consultants and citizens.

Holmes's rejection of accusations brought by those who seek to oust him was delivered just within the seven-day legal deadline for publication in tomorrow's Independent-Journal. The notice of intent to circulate recall petitions appears today.

No further development in the threatened recall movement was reported today by Nancy A. Urbani, town clerk-stenographer.

The recall move is headed by Larry P. Weingarth, president of the Marin Estates Homeowners Association, who has filed with the town clerk a notice of intent to circulate petitions calling for a recall election.

Four Diamond Rings Stolen

Clerk Frank Jereb Jr. said that a man about 22 to 25 years of age came into the store shortly before noon and stood by a display case while he waited on other customers. The man left without being waited on.

About 90 minutes later, Jereb saw a ring on the floor and discovered four others missing from a case, he reported to police.

Horse Steps On Chest Of Rider

Ron Ciffa, 26, of Birch Street, Bolinas, was reported in serious condition today at Marin General Hospital with multiple rib fractures suffered Sunday when a horse stepped on him.

According to Fire Chief Jose Silva of Bolinas, Ciffa was riding toward his barn on Birch Street between Elm and Alder Streets about 1:30 p.m. when the horse veered and he fell off. The horse stepped on his chest directly over his heart.

Bolinas firemen gave Ciffa artificial resuscitation until the arrival of the ambulance, the chief said.

Man Owes His Life To A Cat

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —Richard Trujilla was chasing a cat that had run under a car when he heard a cry of "Let me out of here."

Trujillo opened the trunk of what he thought was an abandoned car and found Franklin E. Radcliff "drenched in perspiration."

Radcliff told police Monday he was the victim of a kidnapping that began 60 miles south of here in Long Beach. He said a man and woman pushed their way into his car at a stop light and stuffed him in the trunk.

About 12 hours later the cat and Trujillo came along to rescue him in Sacramento.

Radcliff said he'd like to find the cat and thank it.

Clearinghouse Boss To Speak

Patrick Heffernan, director of the Environmental Information Clearinghouse, will speak at the Marin Jewish Community Center, San Rafael, at 8 p.m. tomorrow.

The clearinghouse, a Bay Area group, provides "a way for anybody to get in touch with the right person in the right-place for specific facts on an environmental problem," according to Heffernan.

Woman Injured In Car-Truck Accident

Cheryl Harper, 21, of 311 Lakeville Street, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for a head injury suffered in a car-truck accident at 7:45 p.m. yesterday on Petaluma Boulevard North at Corona Road, Petaluma.

The California Highway Patrol said her car collided with a truck driven by Peter Rasmussen, 18, of South San Francisco.

Improvement Project Is Widened

The improvement was to be from Lu Sutton School to Wilson Road, but property owners in the center of the area opposed, and the council decided last week to reduce the project.

At a budget session last night the council agreed to have City Atty. Clark M. Palmer Jr. evaluate a proposal to have the payment for improvements delayed until property was transferred, City Mgr. Charles A. Brown reported.

The council also increased the chamber of commerce allocation from $8,000 to $10,000 and allocated $2,000 toward completion of the Novato prehistory museum.

The chamber had asked for $11,500 and the museum for $4,000. Councilmen also held a closed session on salaries for department heads, which are scheduled to be set at a meeting of the council at 8 p.m. today at the Novato Community House.

GUNS

require the licensing of both long guns and hand guns and second the licensing of handguns only. Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., voted with Kennedy, Tunney and Fong for these proposals.

Bayh told newsmen that an estimated 2.6 million handguns are sold in this country annually and that his bill would eliminate the sale of about one million of them.

Individuals who now possess handguns that no longer could be sold and dealers and manufacturers having stocks on hand could turn them into the government and be compensated at a reasonable value for the weapons.

The sale of the handguns would still be permitted to law enforcement officers and also to research organizations.

July 31 Study Set For Budget

Homestead Valley Sanitary District directors last night said they will consider a 1972-73 budget at 8:30 p.m. July 31 in Homestead School.

Board President James G. Macnichols said the spending program is expected to be about $30,000, carrying with it a probable increase in the tax rate. He said expenses have been going up in recent years but income has been dropping.

The July 31 date is a change from the board's regular session on the fourth Monday of the month.

Hearing Asked On Phone Rates

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Pacific Telephone Co. has asked the state Supreme Court for a re-hearing on its recent decision to roll back phone rate increases.

The company also asked for a stay in the rollback on rates totalling $143 million a year, so it can appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court against the decision.

The high court on June 9 rescinded the rate hike and ordered refunds to customers, effective July 9.

Pacific said in its application for re-hearing that the court "erred and deprived Pacific of its property without the due process of law guaranteed by the federal constitution."

Car Runs Stop Sign, Petaluma Man Hurt

Lawrence L. Bolan, 23, of 11 Focha Drive, Petaluma, was reported in fair condition today at Community Hospital of Sonoma County with a broken right leg and face cuts suffered in an accident at 2:40 a.m. Sunday on Bodega Avenue at Pepper Road, north of Petaluma.

The California Highway Patrol said Bolan failed to stop his car for a stop sign and it struck an embankment.

and young people on the Daley delegation.

Refusal to seat Daley at the convention would touch off an explosive floor fight. If the Credentials Committee refuses to seat him, the matter would have to be decided at the full convention, provided that 10 per cent of the Credentials Committee sought a floor vote —seen as virtually certain.

"We are asking the Credentials Committee to deny seating of the 59 Daley delegates and seat the challengers," said Singer.

He said Poole had found the Daley organization totally ignored party rules on slatemaking and the representation of women, young persons and blacks in a prolortion roughly equal to their proportion in the state's population.

The platform panel completed action on all major items by midday, then moved on to procedural ground rules for presenting the platform to the convention and other cleanup matters.

A convention floor fight over the platform was assured when the committee supported submission of Gov. George Wallace's proposed planks which were in sharp opposition to those adopted by the committee majority.

The committee adopted a probusing stance after Wallace backers were voted down overwhelmingly in their effort to put the party on record in the presidential campaign as unalterably opposed to busing to obtain racial balance in schools.

But even in the defeat, the Wallace delegation got 16 votes for their position —one more than needed to make it a subject of convention floor debate. Ten per cent (15) of the 150 committee members must favor a minority position to move it to the convention floor.

The committee adopted a plank saying busing must be retained as a method "to eliminate legally imposed segregation." A platform drafting subcommittee had come up with somewhat milder language but the committee approved a stronger position.

A Wallace representative, Fred Folsom, warned the platform writers that the probusing stand would lose votes in November for the Democrats. "Busing of little children around the country, my friends, to achieve racial balance in schools is very unpopular with a vast majority of Americans," Folsom told the committee.

In the closing moments of the long session, the committee rejected Wallace delegation efforts to knock out the platform call for abolition of capital punishment and for outlawing the sale of "Saturday night special" handguns.

Defeated on a 59 to 41 vote was a motion by actress Shirley McLaine, a California delegate, which would have declared that abortion "should be a matter between a woman, her doctor and anyone she wishes to consult including her religious counselor."

The committee, after another heated debate of more than an hour, rejected 54 to 34 a so-called "gay liberation" provision which would have put the party on record opposed to any type of discrimination based on sexual orientation. The original platform drafting subcommittee had included language saying "Americans should be free to make their own choice of lifestyles and private habits without being subject to discrimination and prosecution." That language remained in the platform.

rison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J. arranged the meeting after being called by McGovern.

"Our intention is really focused on the fall campaign," said Rick Stearns, regional coordinator for McGovern. "We'd like to have a united party."

While McGovern campaigned, Vice President Spiro T. Ag Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said Monday night in St. Louis that the Democrat hopeful had indicated he still endorsed the policies of Henry A. Wallace, who as the Progressive party presidential candidate in 1948 called for government ownership of major utilities and some industries. Agnew said McGovern was a delegate to the Progressive party convention.

But two powerful Democrats spoke well of McGovern. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said in New York that McGovern appeared to have the nomination locked up and added he would enthusiastically support McGovern. Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley described McGovern as "an outstanding senator" but declined to say who he was supporting for the nomination.

2,000 rounds of mortar, artillery and rocket fire at the 13 government outposts west of Hue and that North Vietnamese made heavy battalion-sized attacks (about 450 men) on three outposts.

The North Vietnamese sent large forces against the My Chanh River line in suicidal attacks which were turned back with heavy losses. They also have sent large forces through the A Shah Valley west of Hue and it was these forces involved in today's unsuccessful attacks.

Hue is believed to be the main object of the Communist spring offensive which began March 30 and quickly overran Quang Tri Province just to the north. The South Vietnamese stabilized their lines near the My Chanh River about 20 miles north of Hue.

Huntley said the Communists had hit Hue's western outposts with 4,000 rounds of rockets and artillery fire in the past three days, the heaviest shelling there in almost two months. Some of the probing attacks began Sunday with bigger assaults today.

The main assaults:

—Artillery Post Checkmate, 13 miles southwest of Hue. The Communists hit the base with 700 rounds of fire and then made a ground attack against a 1st Infantry Division battalion defending it. Field reports said North Vietnam lost 45 dead and the South Vietnamese nine killed and 33 wounded.

—Artillery Base Birvingham, seven miles southwest of Hue. Another Communist battalion fired 400 mortar rounds and then attacked the 1st Division defenders. The defenders said they pushed the Communists back, killing 11 and suffering "light" losses.

—Artillery Base King, eight miles southwest of Hue. The Communists fired 310 rounds of recoilless rifle and mortar fire and tried to storm the outposts. They charged to the outskirts of the base, dug into foxholes and began firing with accurate recoilless rifles. They charged again, firing automatic rifles and tossing grenades. They were thrown back with loss of 15 dead and "light" government casualties.

—Artillery Base Bastogne, 12 miles southwest of Hue, and T-Bone, five miles west. The Communists hit the two bases with 450 rounds of rocket and artillery fire. Government losses were reported as "light."

U.S. command spokesmen said the 320 raids Monday over the North included a second consecutive day of attacks on the Xuan Mai military training area 15 miles southwest of Hanoi.

THE SKYJACKER'S WEAPON

A weapon believed used by the skyjacker of an American Airlines plane rests in the hand of an unidentified man at Peru, Ind. Earlier yesterday a farmer found what he thought was a groundhog, but it tunred out to be the pouch containing $500,000 ransom carried by the hijacker who parachuted from the plane four days ago. Meanwhile, FBI agents and airline officials believe the bandit is dead. The identity of the hijacker is still not known. He took charge of the jetliner over the St. Louis area.

Pay Hikes Due Firemen, Police

The San Anselmo City Council in closed session last night agreed to give "a great number" of the city's police and fire personnel a 5.5 per cent salary increase on July 1, according to Alfred C. Kaeppel, city administrator-controller.

"Some employees received more, some less," he said, explaining that salary increases in San Anselmo "are probably higher than other cities because our employees haven't received an increase since 1970."

He said that a complete salary schedule will be announced at tonight's city council meeting.

He said that the council tonight would consider park and recreation commission recommendations regarding open space, including the appointment of a citizens' open space committee and a proposed study to analyze the political, legal and economic problems involved with open space acquisition.

The council will also consider the commission's recommendation that the city "rehabilitate" the Corte Madera Creek through gradual acquistion of property along its length. Kaeppel said that the commission felt that creek land purchases would result in an excellent strip park.

Marinwood CSD Directors Cut $2,000 From Budget

The Marinwood Community Services District board last night trimmed $2,000 from a preliminary budget of $257,738 for 1972-73 and knocked two cents off an anticipated tax rate of $1.27 per $100 assessed valuation.

The action came when directors decided to hire a maintenance man at $405 monthly rather than a gardener at $586 monthly, according to Genevieve T. Bolding, district manager.

She said that although the district's spending program includes funds to cover a 5 per cent wage increase for hourly employees, directors took no action on the proposed increase last night.

The board decided to review employees' salaries again at an adjourned budget session on July 12, she said.

Pair Selected For Drafting Ordinance

The San Anselmo Planning Commission last night appointed commissioners John H. Colteaux and Cynthia Barrows, as a committee to draft a horse control ordinance.

About 25 horseowners attended last night's special meeting, but no decision was made regarding control of horses, according to Jeanne Wright, planning secretary.

Subdivision Park Plans Approved

Plans for a five-acre park in the Holiday Park subdivision were approved after revisions last night by the Rohnert Park Recreation Commission.

Recreation Director James Pekkain said the commission approved plans after suggesting the proposed baseball diamond be removed from the park site and relocated on an adjacent school site. Pekkain said the commission hoped the extra acre of land could be used for extensive landscaping to promote more passive activities in the park.

Also included in the plans were a tot lot, wading pool, group picnic area, parking lot, restrooms and storage room. Pekkain said the commission agreed not to name the park, but to wait until the 90 homes are built in the area and to allow the residents to pick a name.

Tax Rate To Be Lower For 60 Pct.

For about 60 per cent of Marin County property owners, the county portion of their tax bills in 1972-73 will be lower than this year, County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell said yesterday.

Mitchell said he was misquoted in an article in Saturday's Independent-Journal in which he was reported as saying taxpayers will pay about the same in taxes next year even though the tax rate will be about 17 cents less than this year.

Mitchell explained yesterday that owners whose property was not reassessed this year (about 60 per cent countywide) will actually pay less taxes — at least to the county — next year.

He said the owner of a $40,000 house, for example, will pay about $272 in taxes during 1972-73 as compared to $289 this year. (These figures, of course, do not reflect taxes levied by cities, school and sanitary districts and other taxing agencies in the county.)

For the approximately 40 per cent of the property owners whose land and buildings were reassessed in the annual effort to keep the assessments at approximately 25 per cent of fair market value, the new lower county tax rate will probably not mean lower taxes, Mitchell said. Some will pay about the same and others more, depending on the percentage of their assessment increase.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors Friday adopted a $47.3 million budget for 1972-73. Mitchell estimated this will require a $2.72 tax rate per $100 assessed valuation as compared to $2.89 for the current year.

F111 Fighters Cleared Again

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The 215 F111 fighter-bombers of the Air Force's Tactical Air Command (TAC) have been cleared for flying again.

The Pentagon grounded the planes a week ago after two F111s crashed, but it suspended the order Monday. A spokesman said no common cause could be found between the crash June 18 of a plane at Elgin Air Force Base, Fla., and the crash three days later of another F111 flying from Mountain Home AFB, Idaho.

Both crewmen were killed in the Idaho crash. In the Florida crash, both men parachuted to safety.

Horses Booted At Tiburon Church

Shortly after adopting a horse licensing ordinance, the Tiburon City Council last night declared that three horses stabled at the Community Congregational Church were public nuisances and gave their owners 60 days to remove them from the church property. (Another Tiburon City Council story, page 1.)

The horse licensing ordinance was the second of two companion ordinances which enable the city to control the ownership of horses within the city limits. The two ordinances require that all prospective owners obtain use permits and licenses before they may quarter a horse in Tiburon.

A few Belvedere residents who stable their horses in Tiburon asked the council to exempt Belvedere from the ordinance's rigid prohibition against nonresident owners.

The council adopted the licensing ordinance with the ban on nonresidents, but declared their intent to exempt Belvedere residents from the prohibition.

The city staff was instructed to advise the council how it might work out such an exemption.

Having adopted the general ordinance, which becomes effective in 30 days, the council moved to an immediate problem: the three horses at the church.

Several disturbed neighbors of the church property requested the council to abate the horses, while an equal number asked the council to permit the horses to remain.

Realizing it would probably have to listen to a replay of the public hearng on the three horses when their owners apply for use permits and licenses, the council shut off debate after about 30 minutes.

The council then declared the horses nuisances in that they were illegal in RO-2, (multifamily residential) zones.

The Tiburon City Council Also:

SWIMMING POOL — Declared an unfenced swimming pool al 7 Corte Las Casas a nuisance and ordered that the unsafe condition be corrected within seven days.

AVENIDA MIRAFLORES — Rezoned 16.5 acres on Avenida Miraflores, near 4 Hacienda Drive, from single-family residential to single-family cluster zoning at the request of R. B. Ham, who told the council he plans to construct 16 single-family houses on the 16 acres and dedicate the remaining five acres of the parcel as open space to the city.

RESTAURANT — Referred to the lands and development committee the master plans for a restaurant and store building adjacent to the Windjammer Restaurant on Main Sreet. The plans were submitted by Mario Gaidano for Frederick Zelinsky.

OUTGOING SHERIFFS — Approved a resolution of appreciation and commendation of the Marin County Sheriff's Department for eight outstanding years of police protection of Tiburon which will end at 3 p.m. Friday when the new Tiburon police force takes over.

LYFORD DRIVE — Adopted a tentative map for a 10-unit condominium submitted by Michael King for property located at 90 Lyford Drive. The planning commission had previously approved the tentative map request.

SEASONAL PERMITS — Adopted an ordinance which would allow certain seasonal and outdoor uses by temporary use permit in planned development zones.

APPOINTMENTS — Went into closed session to discuss appointments to the city's planning and parks and recreation commission.

MEETING — Adjourned to a regular meeting July 10.

A DAY FOR BIKES

Little Joey Shanahan looks pretty apprehensive as he's followed by Seattle policemen while he pedals down a Seattle street. But Joey, 4, is not in trouble. The police were only patrolling Lake Washington Boulevard to keep it free of cars during "bicycle Sunday," when only bikes were permitted.

Action Delayed On Sewer Charge

Directors of the Tiburon Sanitary District last night postponed action on an ordinance establishing procedures for collecting a new sewer service charge after members of the audience asked for more time to study the proposal.

Director Robert A. Sterling said the proposed ordinance would put the charge on annual county property tax bills, rather than bill directly the district's approximately 4,000 residents.

County billing would save the district approximately $1,800 a year, he said.

The district adopted a sewer service charge in April, according to Sterling. The approved charge is $12 a year for single-family homes and approximately $75 per year for apartment and duplex units, he said.

Eighteen persons attended last night's public hearing on the ordinance to set collection methods.

The board agreed to consider the matter further at its July 10 meeting.

The board praised John McFarlane, district superintendent and plant manager who retired yesterday after 11 years with the agency.

Four Backed For Prevention Panel

The Marin County Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission, after reviewing 21 applications, yesterday recommended to the board of supervisors the appointment of four persons to fill vacancies on the panel.

Leaving the commission are Inspector Gerald Green of the San Rafael police, Natalie Lewis, Rev. James C. Upshaw and Archie Williams.

San Rafael Girl Accident Victim

A 21-year-old San Rafael girl injured in a two-car collision on Second Street in San Rafael was reported in satisfactory condition in Marin General Hospital.

Hospital officials said that Estelle Ross, of 1342 Lincoln Avenue, was being treated for facial cuts and bruises.

She was the driver of a car that was hit broadside Saturday by a vehicle driven by John J. Robello, of 80 The Alameda, San Anselmo, at the intersection of Second and Lindaro streets, police said.

Paper Says Kissinger Used As Asia Peace Go-Between

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon Papers reveal that Henry A. Kissinger was American contact for two Frenchmen's efforts in 1967 to persuade North Vietnam to move toward peace, the Washington Post said today.

Herbert Marcovich, a French microbiologist, and Raymond Aubrac, his friend, flew to Hanoi on July 24, 1967, for lengthy conferences with North Vietnamese Premier Pham Van Dong, the Post said.

Dong replied that the North Vietnamese wanted a permanent, unconditional end to the bombing, and a withdrawal of U.S. forces. He said Hanoi sought a "broad, coalition government" in South Vietnam rather than necessarily a Communist regime.

The Post said Kissinger met Marcovich and Aubrac in Paris, and his 17-page report was rushed to Washington for high-level meetings involving the White House, the Pentagon and the State Department.

The Post account was based on four volumes of the 47-volume Pentagon study of the Vietnam war that were not published last summer. Most of the so-called Pentagon Papers were published at that time. The Post said it got the four additional volumes from columnist Jack Anderson.

At the time of the Hanoi visit in 1967, Kissinger was a Harvard professor and a foreign policy consultant to New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, then a possibility for the GOP nomination for President. Kissinger now is national security affairs adviser to President Nixon.

The 1967 negotiations, to which the code name "Pennsylvania" was attached, according to the Post, took place at the height of the U.S. buildup in Vietnam.

The Post said that according to the documents, President Lyndon B. Johnson on Aug. 11, 1967, sent a message to Dong via Marcovich and Aubrac. In it he said the United States would be willing to stop the bombing of North Vietnam if it "will lead promptly to productive discussions between the representatives of the U.S. and the D.R.V. (North Vietnam)".

The message was close to the position Johnson took in his San Antonio address several weeks later.

Kissinger gave the message to the Frenchmen in Paris Aug. 17. But the Frenchmen were turned down by Hanoi in their request for a visa to go there. They sought talks with Mai Van Bo, North Vietnam's senior minister in Paris.

On Sept. 10, Bo told the Frenchmen that North Vietnam had rejected the U.S. proposal to end the bombing because it contained "conditions."

The meetings continued after that for a few weeks, and Kissinger carried other messages back and forth. None was successful, and finally, on Oct. 10, the two Frenchmen told Kissinger that Bo refused to see them again.

Woman Reports Attack Is Made

She told them that she was hitchhiking on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard toward Fairfax and was picked up by a man in a van. He drove to Upper Toyon Road, where he produced a pocket knife and raped her.

He then allowed her to get out of the truck while he drove away. She went to a nearby house at 1:30 a.m. and phoned Ross police, who turned the case over to San Rafael police as it happened in their jurisdiction.

Agreement For Service Worked Out

The Sausalito-Marin City Sanitary District will provide sewage disposal for 466 proposed apartment units in two other districts, directors agreed last night.

President Cyril J. Hansen said the board approved agreements with the Richardson Bay Sanitary and the Tamalpais Community services districts, clearing the way for the developments delayed by Regional Water Quality Control Board requirement of such agreement.

Under the contract with Richardson Bay, the district will take on 400 units in the Strawberry area over the next two years, Hansen said. In exchange, the Richardson Bay district has agreed o building a holding tank near the Sausalito district's Ricardo Street pumping station in Strawberry.

The president said the tank will permit the additional wastes to be treated in other than peak hours.

The board also approved a request from the community services district to expand its sewer service to include 66 apartments in the Allen-Marin subdivision on the Ridge above Tamalpais Valley.

The Sausalito-Marin City Sanitary District board also:

HOUSEBOATS — Adopted an ordinance requiring immediate sewering of more than 200 houseboats at Waldo Point in the Arques, Kappas and Tellis houseboat marinas. The regulation, similar to one already approved by the county, was needed, according to Hansen, because the district will dispose of sewage from the boats and had to "have some control" over how the proposed sewering system is installed.

CHARGE — Approved first reading of an ordinance to continue the district's annual $12 sewer service charge to single family residences. The ordinance will also levy such charges on floating homes, floating home marinas and trailer parks for the first time next year.

SALARIES — Approved these wage hikes for district employees for 1972-73: 10 per cent raise, or $144 a month, for Supt. William Dabner; 5.7 per cent monthly increase, or $30, for secretary Edwin S. Long; 8 per cent hike of $60 monthly for plant operator Jesse Coffman Jr. and a 44-cent-an-hour increase for part-time employee Raymond Mullis.

Fairfax School Board Continues Budget Review

The Fairfax School District Board, meeting at 7:45 p.m. today at White Hill School, will continue its review of a preliminary $1,252,430 budget for 1972-73.

The board, which has already approved the proposed spending program, will reevaluate allocations and assign spending priorities, according to Gwyneth McGee, board secretary.

Trustees will consider a proposal to reduce the glare of the white thermal roof of Manor School. Residents who live in back of the school at 150 Oak Manor Drive have complained that the reflection from the roof is distracting, Mrs. McGee said.

Trustees will hear reports on the district's fall testing, health services and summer school programs.

Foot-Chase Escapee Believed Dangerous

A young man, who escaped San Rafael police on foot after a high-speed chase early yesterday morning, was found to be wanted by the sheriff's department and supposed to be armed and dangerous, San Rafael police reported today.

Police are looking for David Townsell, 25, no known address, who is wanted by the sheriff on a warrant charging burglary and assault with a deadly weapon with bail set at $25,000. Police reported that he is thought to have two pistols and is dangerous.

Sgt. Charles Brobeck stopped a 1969 Toyota Corona at 4:30 a.m. on Francisco Boulevard for a routine check. As he approached the car, the driver told him he did not have a driver's license, and sped away.

Brobeck chased him east on Francisco Boulevard at speeds in excess of 75 miles per hour with the other car driving on the wrong side of the street.

Brobeck pushed the car with the patrol unit trying to get it to stop whereupon the car spun around and hit the patrol car. Brobeck rammed the car again on Jacoby Street and the driver either got out of the car or was thrown from the car, police reported.

He escaped on foot with other officers chasing him.

The car was registered to Charles William Hodges of 29 Park Circle, Marin City, who told San Rafael police that Townsell had the use of the car.

Highest-Paid City Gives Raise

Corte Madera town employees got a 2 per cent cost-of-living raise last night after councilmen and members of the audience at the town council meeting had debated Corte Madera's position on the pay totem pole for the Bay Area.

It is, employees and employers agreed, on the top.

And councilman Edward W. Colthurst said Corte Madera recently got 183 applications for one fireman's job ... "from pilots, teachers, civil engineers."

Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels, recommending a 2 per cent hike for town employees, said it was in keeping with the council's declared policy of paying higher than average salaries to attract and retain the best personnel.

The Corte Madera Employees Association had requested an across-the-board 4.5 per cent cost-of-living increase. They got a 7 per cent cost of living hike on July 1 last year, and in April this year after job positions were restructured, salary raises averaging 4.5 per cent.

John Fitzgerald, association president, said they were basing their cost-of-living request on a base line of March 1971, the date on which restructuring was based.

Sasso, who is a member of the Corte Madera Board of Adjustments, claimed the town "hadn't got its money's worth" from the salary schedule report in April.

He said it compared salaries with communities like San Francisco, Richmond and Oakland ... "but consider what policemen and firemen face in Corte Madera compared to San Francisco."

Mayor Norville agreed the town's problems were different from Richmond's or San Francisco's — "but by the same token our public employees are working here and a lot of them can't afford to live here. You and I would love to work in our own community but they can't support us."

Councilmen Robert Flahive and Harold B. Wagstaff favored giving employees a 3 per cent raise. Mayor Norville and Councilman Herber C. Leney concurred with the town manager's recommendation of a 2 per cent hike.

But Councilman Colthurst said he was against any raise at all. Noting that the town was faced with a record proposed budget with a potential 86 per cent tax increase, Colthurst said the council's first responsibility is to the taxpayers.

After more than an hour's debate on the proposal the council voted unanimously to grant a 2 per cent cost of living raise.

At the suggestion of Councilman Flahive the town manager was instructed to develop some ground rules for cost-of-living increases on an annual basis.

In addition to the pay hike, town employees were granted improved fringe benefits. Sick leave accumulation was increased to 186 days, the town agreed to pay increased medical insurance and life insurance premiums and to give Fridays off if a holiday falls on a Saturday.

The employees association request, recommended by Bartels, for an additional "family sick leave" of six days a year, was denied.

Councilmen spent so much time on the salary question that the first hearing on the proposed $1,303,997 budget for 1972-73 was adjourned until tonight at 7:30 in the council chamber.

Consultants Hired By Corte Madera

Corte Madera town councilmen last night approved a $40,000 contract with consultants who will pilot the town through the unfamiliar waters of redevelopment.

Sitting as the Redevelopment Agency of the Town of Corte Madera, the councilmen agreed to pay Urban Projects, Inc., to negotiate the shopping center project through to sale of tax increment bonds.

"It's like a ship coming into a harbour full of rocks — you take on a pilot," said Councilman Harold B. Waghurst. "If he puts this boat on the rocks we're all going to be in deep water, literally and financially."

Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels explained that the consultants would negotiate a participation agreement with Ernest W. Hahn, the developer. This would establish a project area and plan, revise the town's general plan, complete required economic and planning studies, and do detailed financial studies to proceed to bond sale.

The bond revenue would be used to provide access roads and other improvements required by the developer.

When councilmen asked what would happen if Hahn's regional shopping center "didn't go", Bartels said the increase in value of land in the project area east of Highway 101 and opposite existing Corte Madera Shopping Center could be pledged against consultant fees.

Mayor Holmes S. (Pete) Norville asked about current negotiations with the state Division of Highways on the freeway situation if the multimillion-dollar shopping center were developed. (Larkspur Redevelopment Agency, which also wants a regional shopping Center, has stated it will block any freeway alterations within Larkspur's city limits.)

Bartels said the Division of Highways tends to treat shopping center proposals as speculation and makes no plans for freeway revision until the shopping center is under way.

Norville said the Redevelopment Agency could borrow money against the fill Hahn was already putting in the area ... "900,000 to a million yards of fill."

Asked by a member of the audience exactly how many bonds the project might support, Norville suggested $6 million. Noting Larkspur's recent estimate of $8 million in tax increment bonds if they got the shopping center, Norville said: "All they have is a hill, I think they're going to be in trouble in their approach. I think our approach is to get this at a reasonably low level."

A woman in the audience asked if it were true that the redevelopment agency's proposed 1971-72 budget included a $20,800 accounting machine and a $46,000 fire engine. Norville said the budget would be discussed at a later date during budget hearings.

The redevelopment agency board approved signing the agreement with Urban Projects Inc., at a cost not to exceed $40,000. A representative of the consultants estimated their work up to bond sale might take seven months.

Visiting Judge William C. Frey of Phoenix, handed down the fine and probation order for Janice Lynn Swang, 24, who had pleaded guilty to a lesser charge of conspiring to smuggle merchandise.

A major figure in the case, John Robert Franklin, 34, of Corte Madera, has pleaded guilty to conspiring to smuggle marijuana into this country. He will be sentenced July 5.

Two other men connected with the smuggling case already have been sentenced. Ray Ramirez, 44, of Palm Springs, was sentenced to seven years in prison and a $15,000 fine. Ramirez was the Mexican connection for the weed.

Brian D. Rohan, 36, San Francisco attorney for several rock groups was acquitted, along with Elizabeth Ballan, 25, the pilot's wife.

Antipollution Agency Plan Is Defeated

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — An Assembly committee has narrowly turned back environmental legislation supported by Gov. Ronald Reagan and conservationists creating a new board to control air, water and solid waste pollution.

After one lawmaker complained the proposal was "a facade put here for PR (public relations) purposes," a compromise bill by Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg, D-Sacramento, was defeated on a 10-7 vote Monday in the Ways and Means Committee.

The measure needed 11 votes for approval, and Z'berg said he would seek to have the vote reconsidered.

Under the proposal, a new board would be responsible for overseeing the state's antipollution efforts. It would eliminate the Environmental Quality Study Council and the Water Quality Advisory Committee.

Supported by the Sierra Club, the bill was introduced only 12 days ago after weeks of negotiations between Z'berg and the Reagan administration.

But a corps of lobbyists representing the League of California Cities, the County Supervisors Association, the California Chamber of Commerce, the California Farm Bureau Association, the Irrigation District Association, the Grange and the Agricultural Council appeared before the Assembly panel and opposed the bill.

They complained it would create a "superagency" and establish a pattern for regional governmental bodies in the future.

They also noted it would abolish the current Air and Water Resources Boards, giving the new seven-man panel the powers of the two panels.

John Frazier of the Irrigation Association said "completely gutting the present boards in the name of coordination just doesn't make sense."

Coast-Use Measure Dies In Narrow Vote

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A coastline control measure denounced by conservationists as a "corporate land grab" has been killed on a narrow vote by the Senate Finance Committee.

The bill by Sen. Dennis Carpenter, R-Newport Beach, was shelved on a 6-7 vote Monday. The action left only the coastline bill by Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills, still alive although it isn't given much chance of passage this session.

Because of legislative inaction on coastline protection, conservationists have banded together to support an initiative modeled after Sieroty's bill what is seeking to qualify for the November ballot.

The Carpenter bill would have created a 15-member state board to draft and implement a comprehensive land use plan for the entire coast from three miles offshore to three miles inland.

However, the measure leaves unchanged the planning functions of city councils, boards of supervisors, special districts and planning commission.

Under the Carpenter bill, each coastal county would develop its own set of standards for development of the coast within its jurisdiction and submit it to the state board which would adopt a standardized state plan.

The proposal is backed by the County Supervisors Association and the California Real Estate Association.

Tax Break Is Proposed For Singles

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Single persons would receive an income tax break which would cost the state an estimated $168 million annually under a bill approved Monday by the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

The measure by Assemblyman Robert Cline, R-Canoga Park, was sent to the floor on an 11-4 vote, the bare minimum necessary.

The bill, which would be effective on incomes earned in 1973, would allow single persons to compute their income in the same manner as married taxpayers.

Under the bill, a single person with a taxable income of $13,000 would be taxed $285 compared to $565 currently. A married couple with the same income currently pays $260.

Roy Bell, assistant director of the Department of Finance, opposed the bill on behalf of the Reagan administration because of the loss of revenue.

DANGEROUS STUFF — Sgt. George W. Koehler of the Corte Madera Police Department holds one of 60 "barrel bombs" confiscated yesterday with the arrest of three youths. He warns residents that these military explosive simulators can be unstable and dangerous and urges anyone finding any to turn them over to local police authorities.

Three Teens Arrested In 'Barrel Bomb' Explosions

Corte Madera police arrested three teen-agers yesterday in connection with a series of window bombings that has vandalized buildings and injured a woman asleep in her bedroom.

Sgt. George W. Koehler said authorities had rounded up 60 military explosive simulators and were attempting to trace them back to their source.

Meanwhile, he warned both parents and youths that those types of "barrel bombs" can be unstable and dangerous under some circumstances, according to military spokesmen and any such devices should be turned over to local police authorities. They resemble small red firecrackers, are marked "M-80 on top", and contain a powder fuse that can blow off a hand if used improperly, according to Koehler.

The juveniles, aged 16 and 17, were booked into juvenile hall. The names of the youthful bombers were withheld on the order of Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson.

It is believed that they may have supplied such devices to their friends and some may not have been uncovered yet.

The boys told police they were merely performing pranks and had no intention of harming anyone. On June 11, Marilou Shankel, 30, of 50 Paloma Drive, was cut by flying glass when one of the bombs shattered her bedroom window. Another bomb was found taped to a window at 70 El Camino Drive that evening and similar bombs blew out windows and dug a two-foot hole at Granada School and damaged the Corte Madera Cyclery in the Corte Madera Center.

New Vehicle Law In Effect Soon

Motorists are reminded by Robert C. Cozens, director of the State Dept. of Motor Vehicles, to register their off-highway vehicles before leaving on their summer vacation.

The new fees will go toward special off-highway vehicle recreation facilities. Cozens also points out that such registration will serve as a theft deterrent as serial numbers will be recorded by the DMV.

UMW Leader Given Fat Fine, Jail

WASHINGTON (UPI) —W. A. "Tony" Boyle was sentenced today to five years imprisonment and fined $130,000 on charges of conspiracy and illegally diverting United Mine Workers union funds to political campaigns.

Federal judge Charles R: Richey, who imposed the sentence, ordered the mine union president jailed immediately.

Richey refused to allow Boyle to remain free pending an appeal, until he had paid the total fine to the court, or posted sufficient bond to cover it.

"The court will order him committed," Richey said in a stern voice as Cacheris appealed for his release.

Specifically, Boyle was handed down two concurrent fiveyear terms along with two years probation following his imprisonment.

As a condition of the probation, Boyle was ordered to make restitution of the full $49,250 to the treasury of the UMW which he was charged with misusing.

Snowmobiles' Noise Attacked

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The Assembly has given unanimous approval to a conservationist-supported bill cutting down on noise from snowmobiles.

The bill by Assemblyman Leo Ryan, D-Burlingame, was sent to the Senate Monday on a 72-0 vote.

The measure would bar the sale after 1974 of any snowmobile that produces noise in excess of 73 decibels rather than the current 84. After this year and before 1975, snowmobiles would be required to meet an 82 decibel limitation.

Riles' Primary Education Restructure Bill Advances

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The Assembly Ways and Means committee has sent to the floor a massive proposal by state schools chief Wilson Riles to send four-year-olds to school and to restructure teaching methods from kindergarten through third grade.

Despite objections by a state Finance Department that the proposal was too broad in scope, the measure carried by Assemblyman Kenneth Cory, DGarden Grove, was passed Monday on a 11-5 vote.

During the initial five-year phase-in period, the program would cost $1 billion.

The program would allow parents to send their four-year-old children to school in the same way that five-year-olds now may be sent to kindergarten.

However, Riles has said the thrust of the program is to revamp teaching methods in the lower grades.

He has said local school districts would be encouraged to use parents, trained aides and volunteers in classrooms to reduce the pupil-adult ratio from about 30-1 currently to about 10-1.

Although objecting to the $1 billion appropriation, Roy Bell, deputy director of the Finance Department, praised the concept of Riles' plan, saying it "would restgucture a rather monolithic bureaucracy in the state's school system.

A Steam Powered Bike Makes Debut

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI)— Inventor Dave Sarlin drove his steam powered bicycle Vesuvius on its maiden run Sunday. It chugged up and down the street at just under 14 miles an hour.

NOVATO ARENA

Couple Repeats Vows On Horseback

Into the arena of the Atherton Stables in Novato rode Elaine Lucille Stewart of Tiburon and Gerald D. McHugh of Novato. Following them were Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Oare of Mill Valley.

The four stopped their horses and lined up facing Rev. Jerry Ashby, minister of the Tiburon Baptist Church. In the background the Steamin' Greeman group played "That's the Reason I'm in Love With You." The minister, also on horseback, began the wedding ceremony.

The minister was interrupted only once when the bridegroom's horse became restless, but that was solved with a lap around the arena, and the ceremony continued.

As the minister pronounced the couple man and wife a shout of "yahoo!" came from the guests, clustered around the arena, and everyone filed out of the area of the wedding to another spot on the stable grounds, where food was set out for a reception.

The wedding cake was in the shape of a horseshoe. Many of the guests, as the bride and bridegroom and their attendants, were dressed in Western garb.

Elaine is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Stewart of Tiburon, and Gerald is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald V. McHugh of Novato. On their return from a wedding trip to the Grand Canyon, the couple will live in Petaluma.

The bride was graduated from Glendale High School and is employed at the Bank of Marin in San Rafael. She is the sister of Mrs. William Leek of Glendale and Gary J. Pickelsimer of Glendale.

The bridegroom was graduated from San Rafael High School and is employed with the Marin County Humane Society. He is the brother of Mrs. George Lutsovich of Petaluma, Mrs. Oare, Mrs. Robert Gass, and Allen and Lyle McHugh of Novato. He is the grandson of Mrs. Katie Neal of San Rafael and Mr. and Mrs. Herman McCann of Petaluma.

ENGINEERING GRAD

Women's Lib Just Wasn't All Fun

The Christian Science Monitor News Service

As the first woman graduate from Worcester Polytechnic Institute engineering school in Massachusetts, Lesley Small is ready to become a staff engineer with the New England Telephone Co.

She did it "because it was a challenge," she explained.

Lee, as she likes to be called, had straight A grades through her junior year as a math major, standing first in her class of 218 students. She dropped back a bit this year when she gave time to other things, but she was graduated second, earning the "high distinction" designation which means a gradepoint over 3.5.

LEE LOOKS back on it now without regret, but there were times when she wasn't so sure that attending the institute had been the right move for her.

"All througn the first semester I wondered what I was doing here," she admitted. "Everywhere I went I was stared at like some kind of curiosity. Of course, I knew that that class would be the first to admit women, but I thought there would be a lot more of us."

As it turned out, only two women were accepted in that freshman class, and the other dropped out in her junior year. The two were "very close of necessity," Lee said.

"We had to depend on each other. I'm sure we took many of the same courses for moral support."

"I just couldn't get involved with anybody on campus," the shy student said. "It was a strange kind of situation."

THINGS IMPROVED the next year when 25 women were admitted in the freshman class, and there are now 77 women at WPI. Some 30 more are expected next fall.

Lee said that if she were to do it all over, she would major in engineering and minor in math. "City planning might be the career goal in that case."

Lee has been interested all along in applied mathematics. "I like project work such as building a bridge out of sticks and string."

She likes to sew, cook and knit and makes her own dresses and pants suits. But with four brothers, she also enjoys outdoor sports such as swimming and horseback riding.

One brother is a WPI engineering graduate and another is now enrolled.

Knowing she hadn't traveled, a group of the male students once piled into a car and took Lee along to introduce her to the sights of New York and Philadelphia, spending 24 sleepless hours of driving and sightseeing.

THE FIRST woman to be graduated from Worcester Polytechnic Institute, a Massachusetts engineering school, Lee Small has a farewell chat with one of her professors. She will become a staff engineer with the telephone company.

AND THE past month Lee made a trip to Los Angeles, San Francisco and San Diego to speak to WPI alumni clubs, at the suggestion of the public relations director. It was her first plane flight.

"It was lots of fun and a whole new experience," she said.

Now, ready to become staff engineer for the telephone company, she will be in the planning group as a part of a year-long training program.

Still Active In Her Vocation After 64 Years

DURHAM, N.C. — Kate Herndon was an active nurse for 50 years. When she retired 14 years ago she knew she had to keep busy somehow and that's when she became a volunteer in a hospital.

She has worked at a medical center, at a Veterans Administration hospital and she gives time each month to the Red Cross Bloodmobile.

"Life gets sort of monotonous at times," Miss Herndon says. "If I didn't have my volunteer work, I'd be at a low ebb. If my hearing were better, I'd work full time — as a volunteer." (Los Angeles Times Syndicate).

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

There's Room Today In Schools For The Return Of 'Old Spirit'

HELEN AND SUE:

I'm one of those uncomprehending parents. Seems to me the school kids don't know how to enjoy life any more. They aren't interested in proms or class parties. Elections bring out few votes for almost no candidates. My son tells me a couple of offices weren't filled last year because no one ran.

Even football isn't well thought of. The "jocks" and the "rah-rah" girls (cheerleaders) don't have the status we once gave them.

As for dating —well I should be happy because our son spends so little money on girls. They go in groups, meet each other informally, share expenses if there are any — but usually they just get together at the park.

Yes, they are good kids, but the excitement, the conquests, the winning, planning, dressing up, dreaming about the big dances, making it as a school officer or prom king or queen — in short, the school spirit — where did it go? And, Sue, are high schoolers really having any fun, doing it this new way? — FORMER PROM QUEEN

FPQ:

Every generation has its own way of doing things. I think high school kids today are sometimes trying so hard to break away from tradition that they go too far and end up bored. It's kind of "in" now to consider school spirit "out."

I wish I could say this is because guys and girls are getting really involved in social problems and world affairs instead of "juvenile" school elections, etc., but for many that is more an excuse than a fact. A lot of them don't get involved — period! It's just too much bother. I wonder if it will be too much bother all their lives? — SUE

DEAR FORMER:

True, traditional "spirit" is down in most areas, possibly because modern high schools are so big they've become impersonal.

Also high school isn't the be-all and end-all of existence it once was for teens, who now have a variety of interests: jobs, cars, increasing focus on college and adulthood. It's a sort of way station these days — a requirement one endures in order to reach the next step. So naturally the hoop-la and rah-rah are less important: to some — juvenile; to others —snobbish, for it creates an in-crowd; to still others —useless ("Why get steamed up over elections when student officers can't change things?" they ask).

Comments, anyone? — HELEN

DEAR RAP:

I'm one of the "over-30" group, but I have no complaints, only compliments for the "under-20s."

Here's an example.

Then they heard of a little local boy who needed a kidney transplant operation. His father was to donate the kidney, but this meant the family breadwinner would be out of work for awhile, and there are four other children to support.

You guessed it: The Seguin kids donated their $700 junior-senior prom savings to help save the life of a child!

Later that month there was a devastating flood and these same young people pitched in on clean-up chores. I say Hats Off to the main flow of today's youth. I wonder if many grown-ups would give so much so freely? — R.L.S.

READERS:

Let's hear it for students at Seguin Hi! And let's hope they still got their junior-senior prom. — SUE

NOTE FROM HELEN: Hope "Former Prom Queen" reads the above letter and realizes school spirit hasn't died — it's just taking new directions. — HELEN

One Mother Won't Join Women's Lib

"I work where I do because I enjoy it," says Mrs. Marty Dawson. "I like driving trucks."

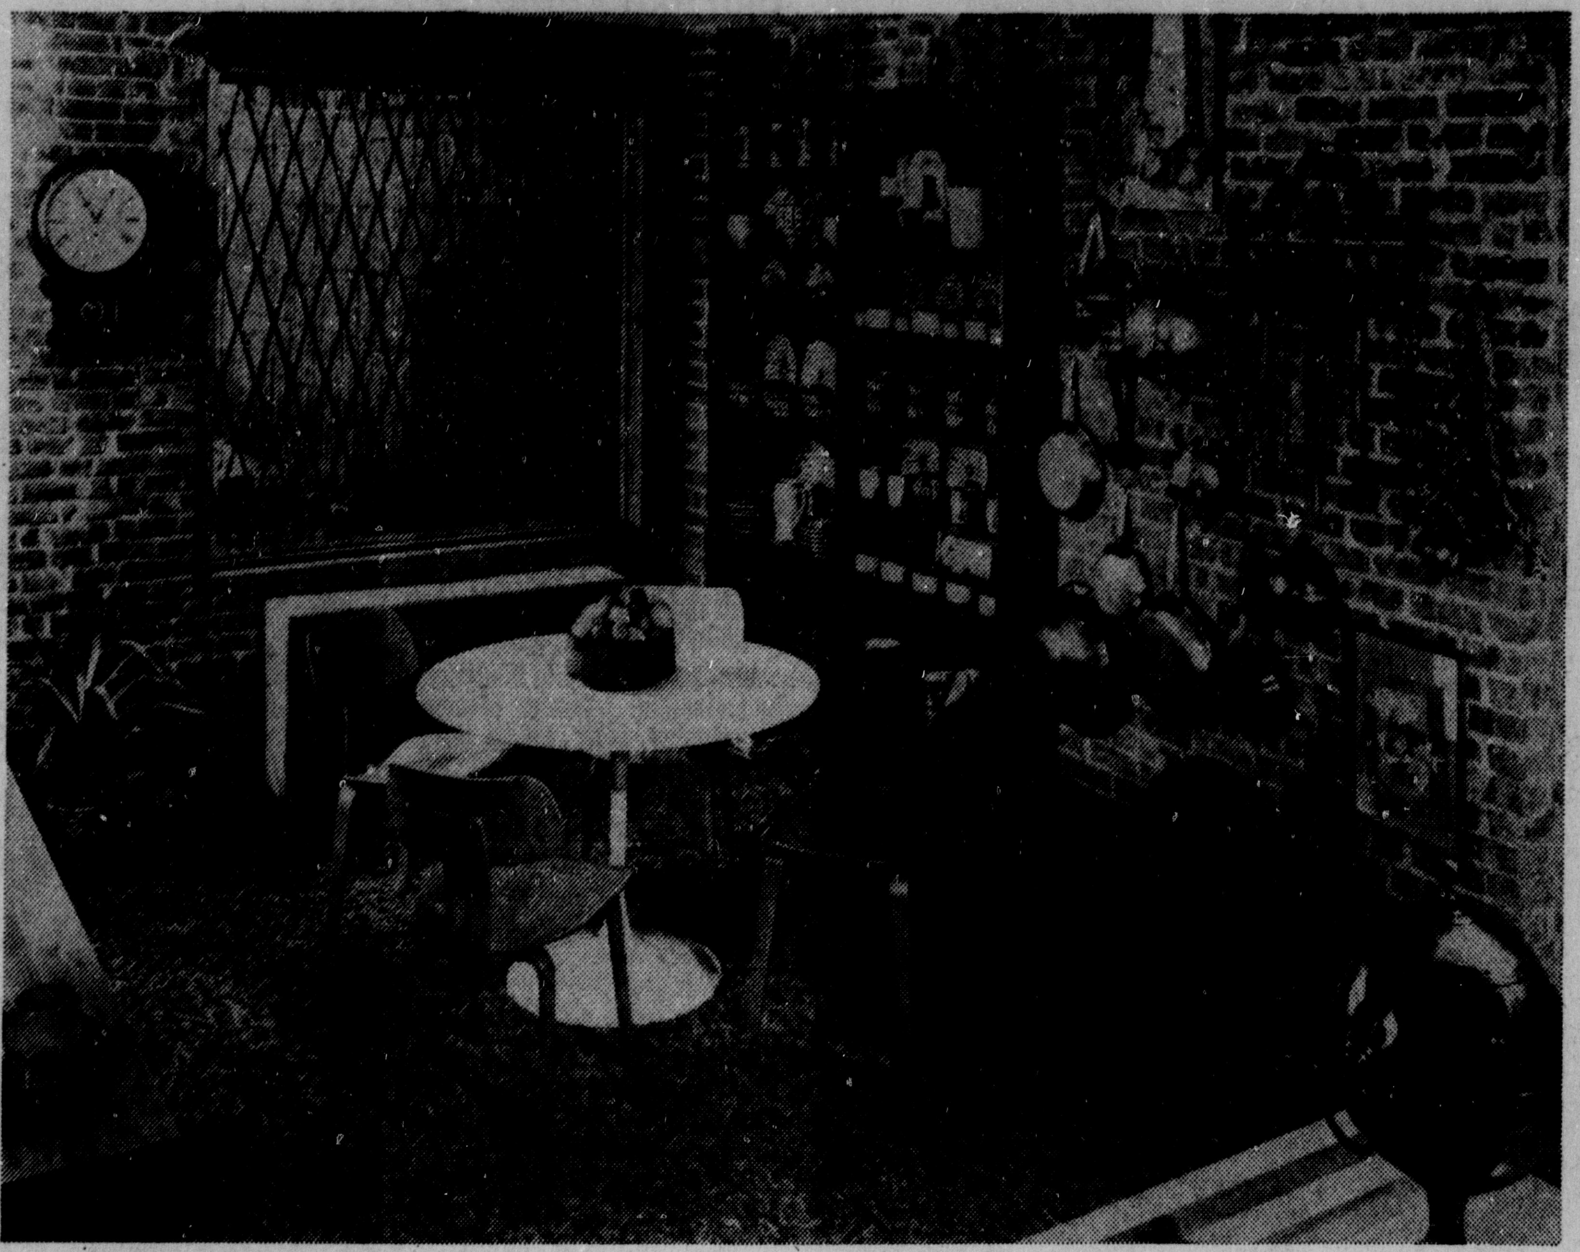
Mrs. Dawson went to work for a sand and excavating company to support herself and her two children. "I held office jobs, but come spring I had to get out," she says, explaining how she got into truck driving.

"I walked into the company and asked for a job," she recalls. "They didn't think I knew how to drive a truck." A boyfriend had introduced her to trucks and her former husband drove semis.

"When I first started," she says, "one guy's wife began a petition against me, but nothing came of it."

One reason is Mrs. Dawson's work philosophy:

"Work hard and earn every bit of the money you make. If you make $1 an hour, put out $1.10 worth of work." (Los Angeles Times Syndicate)



PRACTICAL, DOWN to the floor, this family gathering place is an integral part of the kitchen, yet with its foot-easing Lees carpet and brick walls it's as nice as any room in the house.

Special Care For Kitchen Carpet

By CAROLYN S. MURRAY
General Features Corp.

We haven't heard much talk lately about carpeting in the kitchen. Can't tell whether that's because people are accustomed to the idea or because they have just stopped thinking about it. Either way, there is news on the future of kitchen floor coverings; and that naws involved the use of a protective coating on more and more carpeting.

No carpet manufacturer claims total immunity from stains. But what they are able to provide is a carpet that will let go of its dirt. The finishes are not only helpful in the kitchen, they'll change floor care all over the house.

HOWEVER, THE kitchen still seems eligible for softening up, and a carpet can ease the everyday wear and tear on the walkingest member of the family — the housekeeper. That means me, you and you.

The kitchen shown features another kind of easy-care carpet. It's made of nylon in a short shag. While the owner leans toward the contemporary in furniture, she is an old-fashioned cook who uses naturally grown fruits and vegetables.

IN KEEPING with this no-nonsense approach is the way she stores her collection of pans, tableware and accessories. Simple open shelves, used-brick wall surfaces and chopping block counters are all part of the naturalism she wants her family to appreciate. Yet, when it comes to household maintenance, only the best examples of contemporary technology get her "good housekeeping" stamp of approval.

Question Of Sweet Vs Teen Acne

I-J Special Report

PALO ALTO — Teen-agers may be able to gulp cola and still not get pimples, according to a dermatologist at Stanford University.

"Clinical tests have not substantiated any correlation between chocolate, peanut, milk or cola consumption and worsening of acne," according to Dr. E. Dorinda Loeffel.

She reported on a study she conducted at the University of Missouri in the current issue of "California Medicine," the monthly professional journal for California Medical Association's 25,000 physician members.

In week-long tests, college students consumed either 8.5 ounces of chocolate, four ounces of peanuts, a quart of milk or 24 ounces of cola a day and showed no signs of acne flare-ups.

Dr. Loeffel says that when irritating, oily secretions plug hair follicles, they rupture to produce that curse of adolescence, acne.

"The influence of foods on this process is now being questioned," according to Dr. Loeffel, and special diets for teenagers appear to be unnecessary.

Lagunitas Board Gives Pay Hikes

Trustees of the Lagunitas School District last night approved a $542,000 preliminary budget for 1972-73 and gave both teaching and nonteaching employees 5.5 per cent cost-of-living raises for next fiscal year.

The budget, which is not expected to increase the present tax rate of $4.46 per $100 assessed valuation, is up about $56,000 over the current year, Asst. Supt. Harry F. Roche said.

While the tax rate is expected to hold steady, Roche said, the district expects income from higher assessed valuation to increase $108,000.

Roche said the bulk of the budget increase can be traced to increased salaries and instructional expenses.

Affected by the raises are 25 teachers and eight noninstructional employees. In addition, nonteaching workers were granted longevity increments.

The board, after a closed session, appointed Anna Mae Kondratieff as business manager-secretary at an annual salary of $11,000. She had been serving only as secretary.

The board also appealed to citizens wishing to serve on a district committee study school facility use next year to attend a trustees' session at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in San Geronimo Valley Elementary School.

Leader Of Almonte Sanitary Panel Quits

Edmund J. Prosch, president of the Almonte Sanitary District board, announced his immediate resignation from the board last night and a second member said he would step down in a month.

The announcements were made at the regular board meeting.

Prosch, who is moving to Samoa, and the other board member, David J. Beasley, who is nearing retirement age, did not seek reelection earlier this month. No one filed to run for their seats, however.

Board member John J. Crncich said today the board welcomes citizens interested in filling the vacancies to attend the July 24 session at 8 p.m. at the district office, 226 Shoreline Highway.

In other business, a 1972-73 budget of $26,617, down from $27,610, was adopted by the board. Crncich said a revenue surplus will enable directors to reduce the general operating tax rate levied on residents from 35 cents per $100 of assessed valuation to 30 cents.

Because of added work, Crncich said, the budget includes small raises to the board president and Dist. Secretary Betty Davis.

Motorcycle Crash Helmet Measure Dies To Applause

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —With a "lobby" of Hell's Angels looking on and applauding its demise, a Senate committee Monday killed a bill sought by the California Highway Patrol to require motorcyclists to wear safety helmets.

The measure by Republican State Sen. Craig Biddle was rejected following an applause-punctuated hearing when none of the eight committee members present offered a motion to bring it to a vote.

As soon as the bill was pronounced dead, the Hell's Angels—numbering about 100—stood up, applauded and cheered.

The proposal, similar to legislation rejected in the past, was denounced by a string of witnesses, many of whom said helmets would be a hazard to and not protection for riders.

"I don't want to be killed, dig? So don't make me buy a helmet," Pat Coughlin, a young, fatigue-clad motorcyclist from Sacramento told the committee. Coughlin said he was not an Angel.

Charles Clayton of Long Beach, publisher of Cycle News Magazine, said the bill "sets a terrible precedent for the deprivation of individual liberties."

"I can't understand or comprehend this cart-before-the-horse attitude," said Mike Henshaw, a representative of the American Motorcynle Association, urging stricter licensing examinations.

"As it now stands a motorcyclist has to demonstrate little more skill than being able to balance a bike between his legs."

But Biddle said his measure, which would have taken effect in mid-1973, was an attempt to "cut down on some of these deaths." He said it would "protect life and limb."

Final No-Fault Measure Heads For Senate Test

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—California's last surviving major no-fault car insurance bill, a compromise drawn along lines favored by Gov. Ronald Reagan, headed for a crucial hearing in the Senate today.

The hybrid measure was fashioned by Assemblyman Jack Fenton, D-Montebello, and Sen. Alfred Song, D-Monterey Park, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Some observers believed the proposal contains the ingredients for enactment this session of a modified nofault bill. Two other major rivals were killed Monday.

Under a pure no-fault system, a motorist's own insurance company pays his damages regardless of who is to blame for causing the traffic accident.

The compromise, known as the Fenton-Song Act, would establish a modified no-fault system in California from 1974 to 1979, at which time the legislature would decide whether to make it permanent.

The maximum amount recoverable for any single accident would be $5,000 per person, half of the $10,000 Fenton had sought. The bill also contains a provision enabling a person to sue for extra damages once his medical expenses had reached $1,000.

Reagan met privately with Fenton and Song last month and detailed what he wanted in a no-fault bill.

The Senate Finance Committee earlier in the day shot down in rapid order two separate bills sponsored by Song and Senate Democratic leader George Moscone of San Francisco.

The Song measure was supported by the California State Automobile Association and was drafted by a special task force of the Judiciary Committee. Moscone's was sponsored by the State Bar and supported by the Consumer Confederation of California.

The powerful California Trial Lawyers Association lobbied heavily for defeat of both.

No-fault has been the target of wildly conflicting claims over whether insurance premium rates paid by motorists would be reduced, stabilized or increased.

At least seven favorable Finance Committee votes were required for passage of the legislation to the floor. Moscone's bill was defeated 2-7, and Song's 4-6.

Funds To Fight Drugs To Floor

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —In a reversal of an earlier vote, the Assembly Ways and Means committee has approved a $20 million bill to step up the state's program combating drug abuse.

The measure by Assemblyman William Campbell, R-Hacienda Heights, was sent to the floor Monday on a 13-2 vote. It was defeated last week in the committee, but Campbell asked for reconsideration and amended it to remove its offending features.

Beginning next year, the proposal would require that all counties maintaining a Short-Doyle mental health program to include a drug abuse treatment program prescribed by the bill.

Teamsters Local Supports Guards

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Teamsters Union Local 960 will hold a strategy meeting of labor leaders June 30 to discuss Gov. Ronald Reagan's decision to grant state correctional officers a 5 per cent pay hike.

Barney Apfel, secretary-treasurer and business manager of the local, Monday invited representatives of the California State Employes Association and California Correctional Officers Association.

Apfel called Reagan's decision "capricious, arbitrary and ill-advised" and said the guards deserved a bigger pay boost.

Development Faces Slice Of 50 Units

The Novato Planning Commission recommended last night that the proposed Pacheco Ranch development, south of the city and west of Highway 101, be limited to 650 dwelling units.

The plan also includes office and commercial areas and 384 acres of open space.

Commissioners approved the plan by a 5-1 vote but set 20 conditions, including a reduction in density. The vote was 5-1 with Commissioner Gail Wilhelm dissenting. Commissioner James F. Picchi was absent.

Among the conditions were that 15 per cent of the units be low and moderate income housing dispersed throughout the project and that some single-family detached residential units be provided.

The Novato Planning Commission Also:

CHERRY STREET — Approved an application by Donald Perry to rezone 18 acres at the east end of Cherry Street from limited agriculture to planned residential.

SUNSET PARKWAY — Denied an application by William Gottschalk to rezone 38 acres on the east side of Sunset Parkway, north of Merritt Drive and Rafael Village, from limited agricultural and duplex to single-family residential with 20,000-square-foot lots and planned residential.

DELICATESSEN — Approved an application by Marvelle Shaw for a use permit to operate a delicatessen at the Pacheco Plaza between the Safeway market and the Bank of Marin.

SAN JOSE VILLAGE — Approved a tentative map of San Jose Village, 79 townhouses on 15 acres at the end of San Jose Boulevard, adjacent to Indian Valley Colleges campus.

REZONING — Approved rezoning the Baccaglio property on South Novato Boulevard, between Lauren Avenue and Yukon Way from limited agricultural to planned residential.

JUST SUPPOSE

Suppose declarer takes the ace of spades, discarding a club, draws trumps and ruffs a spade. If he then finesses with the ten of clubs, East wins and returns a heart. West wins the heart finesse and returns a club.

Sooner or later, South must lose another heart. The story is the same if South decides against a club finesse.

The trouble is that East always manages to lead a heart during the early stages of the play. This gives West a heart trick while he can still get out safely.

KEEP EAST OUT

You can make the contract if you keep East out of the lead. Your chance comes at the very first trick. Let West win the first trick with his king of spades. Discard a club from the South hand.

This gives West a spade trick, to be sure, but it robs East of a later club trick.

LEADS A CLUB

After getting that first strange trick, West leads a club. You take the ace of clubs, draw one round of trumps with dummy's king, discard a second club on dummy's ace of spades and ruff a club. This prevents East from gaining the lead with a club.

You return to dummy with a second trump and ruff dummy's last club. You then get back to dummy with a third trump and lead a heart for a finesse. West wins this finesse but cannot get out safely. If he returns a heart, you get a free finesse; and if West returns anything else, you ruff in your hand and discard the losing heart from dummy.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - J 8 6 5 2
♥ - 8 5 2
♦ - 7
♣ - K Q 9 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid four spades.

This shows five trumps, a singleton or void and not more than nine points in high cards.

Innocent Plea By Mill Valley Pair

Two Mill Valley teen-agers charged with possessing antique guns stolen from a Mill Valley home have pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court.

A preliminary hearing for Kevin P. Quinn, 18, was set for July 6. Thomas K. Lester, 19, is to appear for the hearing July 25.

The pair were arrested last Monday by Mill Valley police who found the guns hidden in woods near the victim's home and staked them out until Lester and Quinn arrived.

Unknown Writers On Stage

By PAT PERRY

Rehearsals have started at College of Marin on two new plays by unknown playwrights, their production financed by the Office for Advanced Drama Research, (OADR) with funds from the Rockefeller Foundation.

And while the bald announcement sounds bureaucratic and sterile, it represents a continuation of a system that has kept the dramatic arts alive for thousands of years . . . patronage.

In Shakespeare's wealthy noblemen like the Earl of Southampton anted up the cash to put on a play by an unknown playwright. Today, funds come from more impersonal sources, yet the result is the same — a play is performed in public that might otherwise have remained on paper.

The University of Minnesota runs the OADR program under chairman Arthur Ballett, and 1,500 new play scripts are read each year. The few plays chosen for patronage are performed by drama groups of top professional standing nationwide.

The College of Marin's drama department was chosen to produce "Psalms of Two Davids" by Joel Schwartz with OADR funds last year. It was a resounding success and has since been performed by six universities.

The current rehearsals are for two new OADR financed plays, which will be performed at the old Festival Theater in San Anselmo in repertory from July 20 through August 12, together with the department's production of "Comedy of Errors."

The first is "You In Your Small Corner And I In Mine" by Carol Roper.

Carol Roper is a stunning 27-year-old New Yorker. At first sight she does not appear to be a struggling unknown playwright. And when she says offhandedly that she earns her living writing film and television scripts she doesn't appear to be one on second sight either.

"Actually this is my third play," she explained. "My first was produced and directed in New York by Herbert Bergoff. My second play still has an option for a screen play."

Then why did she feel a need to submit her latest work for a subsidized production?

"I was writing this play with 16 characters — it was too expensive to put on."

She said her play is "all about people and human beings reaching out for each other. It's a family play about a family and their children."

Harvey J. Susser, associate professor of drama at College of Marin, who, together with drama department chairman James Dunn, will direct the plays, described Carol's play as "very funny, very direct on the dilemmas of women today."

The second play is "Ambrose Bierce Takes On The Railroad" by Philip Bosakowski. And in his way the young unknown playwright presents as much of a paradox as Miss Roper.

For while his biographical-style drama is about a fantastic San Francisco journalist, the author had never been to San Francisco until after he arrived in Marin recently.

So how did he come to write a play about Bierce?

"I came across an article about him in a magazine once and made a mental note," he said enigmatically.

He actually wrote the play two years ago under a grant from the Schubert Foundation in New York, and it was submitted to the OADR by the foundation. Bosakowski said he researched Bierce's life by reading . . ." and I was in touch with a scholar in Arizona who gave me some information."

But by whatever devious long distance means Bosakowski wrote his play, it is described as "very funny, mixing serious drama with comedy," by Susser.

The plot revolves on a true incident in Bierce's life when he sought to expose graft and corruption in the leasing of public lands to the Western Pacific Railroad.

There are 16 characters in Bosakowski's play too, and the drama department has recruited a cast of 34 to play in the three plays. Most performers are students, but there are also actors and actresses from the community.

Rehearsals will continue mornings, afternoons and evenings for four weeks, with the young authors collaborating with the directors in interpreting their works.

It is a situation which might make many stage directors pale, with its inherent threat of conflict.

"But we don't anticipate any problems," said Susser, "because the playwrights and the directors are on the same wavelength."

FBI Shadowed Coretta King, Anderson Tells Black Caucus

"It is no secret that the late, redoubtable director of the FBI, J. Edgar Hoover, hounded the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. from Montgomery to Memphis," Anderson said. "Now the FBI has zeroed in on his widow, Mrs. Coretta Scott King."

Anderson made his statement to a hearing of the congressional Black Caucus where he described FBI files on other black leaders including Floyd McKissick Jr., a supporter of President Nixon.

"To the FBI, apparently, anyone with dark skin who dares to open his mouth is viewed as subversive," he said.

Anderson's prepared testimony did not say whether the surveillance of Mrs. King continued afteR Hoover's deatl when L. Patrick Gray was appointed acting FBI director. But an Anderson assistant, Les Whitten, told UPI Anderson was referring only to the Hoover days, "although we wouldn't be surprised if it continued under Gray. We just have no evidence one way of the other."

Saying he had with him some of the FBI's secret files on Mrs. King, Anderson said he would read nothing but innocuous quotes because "I have no desire to spread across the land the plethora of half-truths and misinformation that is contained in the FBI files."

He read from one 1966 entry he said contained nothing but trivial information, "but it does indicate the pains taken by the bureau to keep her under surveillance.

"The memo notes that Coretta Scott King arrived at the Tampa International Airport at 12:55 p.m. on March 10 and went directly to St. Petersburg, Fla. 'Her appearance in concert at the Pasadena Community Church...,' wrote an agent, 'and her stay at the Princess Martha Hotel were without incident.'

"This intelligence was considered so important that it was 'disseminated to Secret Service...Tampa, Fla.; Office of Special Investigations, Robins Air Force Base, Ga., and Office of Naval Intelligence, Charleston, S.C.'"

Anderson said King's successor as head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, Dr. Ralph D. Abernathy, also had come under surveillance, including an investigation of his passport files and his bank accounts.

Anderson said McKissick's speeches were closely followed by "federal sleuths."

Court Ruling On Obscenity Delayed

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Supreme Court has set the stage for a major ruling next term to fix standards of obscenity that could bring the court out of the "morass" in which one justice finds it has placed the entire issue.

The court had been expected to act during the current term, which ends Thursday, in a California case that clearly presented the issue of whether states may set up their own obscenity standards or must defer to national standards.

Instead, the court Monday called for reargument next term on this issue plus two related cases and agreed to hear three more, specifically to determine: if sexually oriented films and magazines can be constitutionally displayed if the public is notified of their nature, and if there is reasonable protection against exposure to juveniles.

In past rulings, the court has said there should be national standards.

The court created the problem in part in 1957 when it said material may be considered obscene when "to the average peson, applying contemporary community standards, the dominant theme of the material taken as a whole appeals to the prurient interest."

The court gave a bare hint of its thinkino in an unsigned opinion Monday in which it overturned the conviction of an underground newspaper editor for publishing an allegedly obscene poem and two pictures of a nude man and woman embracing in a sitting position.

"A quotation from Voltaire in the flyleaf of a book will not constitutionally redeem an otherwise obscene publication," the court said. But it found the pictures relevant to a news story about a photographer who had a similar picture seized.

In the case of the poem, "an undisguisedly frank, play-by-play account of the author's recollection of sexual intercourse," the court found, "it bears some of the earmarks of an attempt at serious art."

"While such earmarks are not inevitably a guarantee against a finding of obscenity...this element must be considered in assessing whether or not the 'dominant' theme of the material is to prurient interest," it said.

The court said the "contemporary community standards" rule "must leave room for some latitude of judgment..."

Justice William O. Douglas concurred but said he did so "because neither logic, history nor the plain meaning of the English language will support the obscenity exception this court has engrafted onto the First Amendment."

He called the case of former Kaleidoscope editor John R. Kois "further testimony to the morass in which this court has placed itself in the area of obscenity. Men are sent to prison under definitions which they cannot understand and on which lower courts and members of this court cannot agree."

Concert Will Benefit Art Scholarship

Violinist William Pynchon, with Shirley Winther Bracco at the piano, will present a scholarship benefit recital Friday at 8:30 p.m. at the Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley.

The concert is under the auspices of the new San Francisco Academy of Music and Arts, a small school for exceptionally talented young people of professional caliber.

A student of Naoum Blinder, concertmaster for 25 years of the San Francisco Symphony, Pynchon also studied in Italy and Switzerland. He teaches violin.

The first half of the program will include the Sonata in D Major of Handel, the Sonata in A Minor of Faure and "Choses Vues a Droite Et a Gauche" by Satie.

For the second half of the program Pynchon will play "Poeme" by Chausson, "Nigun (Improvisation)" by Bloch and six of Bartok's Romanian folk dances.

Drake High Teacher Calls Raise Unfair

A Drake High School teacher told Tamalpais High School District trustees last night he thought it unfair that district teachers had been given only 3.25 per cent salary increases for 1972-73 while the superintendent and his assistant got 5 per cent hikes in April.

At last week's board meeting teachers in the district were given an across-the-board raise of 3.25 per cent and a .97 per cent increase in medical-dental plans.

In April, Supt. Hawkins' salary was upped by 5 per cent to $31,500 and his assistant, Robert D. Torrey's pay went up to $27,300.

Hawkins said trustee David D. Ring told Brown that teachers received annual increments by rising in seniority which averaged out at 4 per cent.

"If you add that to the 3.25 per cent you get an increase of 7.25 per cent," said Hawkins, "and Ring pointed out that there was no similar salary schedule for the superintendent and his assistant."

Brown had appeared before the board to protest the district's policy on extra-service contracts under which people like coaches, band directors and drama coaches get paid for extra-curricular duties.

The board approved Supt. Hawkin's recommendation that the $47,308 allocated for the contracts be distributed to the schools and allocated by principals and their staff.

According to Supt. Hawkins, Brown said there was no guarantee that varsity football coaches, for instance, would receive the same pay at the different high schools.

He said trustee Bette Wallace said the board was not prepared to pay an automatic annual increase for the extra-service contracts.

In budget cuts to off-set the approved salary increases, the board deleted $95,000 from the preliminary budget. Items deferred included resurfacing tennis courts at Tamalpais High.

Supt. Hawkins said the board also voted to quit supporting the Alumni News to the tune of $4,000 a year. In the future it will be sold on subscription.

With last night's cuts, Supt. Hawkins said the district's budget remains at a total of $9,961,255, requiring a tax rate of $2.28, the same as last year. It will be adopted for publication at the board's July 10 meeting, with a public hearing for formal adoption on Aug. 7.

The Tamalpais High School District board also:

NEW COURSES — Approved two new courses of study for Tamalpais High School: home repair and maintenance, and cross-age teaching one and two.

FIELD TRIP — Approved a Canadian field trip in August for Redwood High Summer School students.

CIVIL DEFENSE — Readopted the district's civil defense and disaster policy first set in 1968.

Services Drop Psychiatric Test

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—The Navy and Marine Corps have abandoned recruit screening by psychiatrists because it was not effective enough to be worth the time.

A team of Navy psychiatrists said that after a study of the service careers of 11,000 sailors and 14,000 marines, they found that prospective recruits could be screened just as effectively, or better, by the petty officer at the recruiting station, using a simple chart.

Waste Plan For Boats Is Attacked

WASHINGTON (UPI) —New government standards aimed at eliminating within five years sewage discharge from boats — including 550,000 pleasure crafts —have come under attack from special interest groups on both sides of the issue.

The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) issued the new rules last week and already boat owner groups and conservationists say the rules are unfair.

The EPA standards cover all boats with sanitary facilities operating in U.S. waters and would end sewer discharge by 1977.

The rules, however, contain exceptions: if owners of existing boats install devices which churn up and chlorinate waste within the first three years of the five-year period, they may continue to use such devices indefinitely. If they wait for the final two years before making the change, they may use the devices only for three more years after the initial five-year period ends.

If boat owners do not act within the first five years, they will have to install holding tanks which must be pumped into dockside sanitary facilities.

Boat owner groups say they are being forced to meet clean-up standards that are tougher than those imposed on major polluters.

Richard Schwartz, Executive Director of the Boat Owners Association of the United States, told UPI over the weekend he was "quite disappointed" with the new rules. He said his organization may file a court challenge.

The government, Schwartz said, is "imposing much tighter standards on boat owners than on municipalities or industry".

Ted Pankowski of the Izaak Walton League said that the main problem with the whole issue was that the government rules cover only U.S. navigable water —rivers, streams and lakes where a vessel can travel from one state to another. He said land-locked lakes or other bodies of water entirely within a single state would not be covered unless the individual state has its own rules.

Narrow Behr Victory On Bay Agency Substitutes

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—A bill allowing county supervisors on the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission to appoint other public officials to represent them has been narrowly passed by the Senate.

After a floor fight, the measure by Sen. Peter Behr, R-San Rafael, went to the Assembly Monday on a 21-15 vote, the minimum required for passage.

Opponents charged the measure would enable elected supervisors to appoint someone to the commission who would not be directly responsible to the voters.

Behr, a former county supervisor, said in recent years attendance of supervisors at commission meetings has been scarce and "BCDC has had difficulty getting quorums."

His bill would allow a supervisor member of BCDC, subject to full confirmation by the full board, to name another official to represent him and vote on his behalf. The official could be either an elected or appointed officer.

But Sen. Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, who said he voted "reluctantly" for the bill, argued that the commission should "publicize" the reason for the bill as being that the supervisor members "have failed to carry out their responsibilities."

Marks, whose November election opponent is Democratic San Francisco Supervisor Ronald Pelosi, argued that under the procedure proposed by Behr supervisors could avoid "answerability."

Marks said he voted for the bill because he feared that without it BCDC might "go down the drain.

One Southern Californian, Sen. Alfred Song, D-Monterey Park, said that "if an official doesn't attend the meetings, he should get off that particular body."

Behr said the measure was endorsed by seven of the nine BCDC counties, the BCDC and the Save the Bay Association.

Clark Warns Of Police State

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Former Attorney General Ramsey Clark says that, by spending millions of dollars on sophisticated armaments for local police, the United States is "slowly buying ourselves into a police state."

Much of the money provided by the Justice Department is going to control blacks and other minorities instead of protecting them against the crime that wrecks their neighborhoods, Clark told a Congressional Black Caucus hearing on governmental lawlessness Monday. He said federal funds were being used to buy electronic surveillance systems, high powered guns, riot control devices, airplanes and helicopters.

"How can you justify saturation policing when you are killing programs that would help feed people in the area," he said.

Sea Life Hunt Could Bring Jail

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The Department of Fish and Game announced yesterday it was stepping up enforcement of regulations banning the collection of sea life in tide pools.

The department said that up until now, violators of the four-month-old rules have been warned with a few receiving citations.

Robert Kaneen, who is in charge of marine law enforcement for the department, said that now violators can expect to be prosecuted.

The Fish and Game Commission adopted the regulations in the "face of the increasing threat posed by tourists and students particularly who swarmed over the beaches by the thousands collecting everything in sight."

Judge Approves Construction Of Television Tower

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A judge Monday turned down attempts by an Environmental Law Society to halt the construction of a 980-foot television tower atop San Francisco's Mount Sutro.

The tower, now half completed, will be the tallest structure in the city. On a clear day it will be visible for 50 miles in any direction.

Superior Judge Clayton Horn said a request to invalidate a building permit would be "an exercise in futility" and lectured law Prof. Paul L. McKaskle and his associates at the University of San Francisco for seeking to "reverse the river of time."

The $12 million project will be used by local television stations for transmitting when it is completed.

Copter-Ambulance To Be On Display

A helicopter-ambulance will make a fly-in to the Northgate Shopping Center in San Rafael on Friday at 8 a.m.

The vehicle, part of the emergency service offered subscribers by Alert Identification Directive Service Inc. of Oakland, will be on display until 4:30 p.m.

How To Stop Smoking July 16 at 3:00

On Sunday afternoon, July 16, a group of men and women will arrive — one by one — at the St. Helena Health Center. Most will not know each other. But all will have a common purpose — to stop smoking. Join this group and you will work with our team of experts (physicians, physical therapists and clinical counselors) for five days. You will learn how to overcome the physical addiction to tobacco, how to restore lost breathing capacity, how to cope with the tensions that "call for a cigarette," and how to keep your weight in line. By Friday, July 21, you should be able to return home free of nicotine and in better health than you've been for a long time. (The fresh mountain air, attractive private rooms and good food make the St. Helena experience a real rest cure.) Send the coupon now for more details, or telephone for our brochure.

If you cannot attend our July 16 session, plan to join us August 6 or August 20.

STREETS NOT SHUT

Downtown San Rafael Becomes Film Location

Downtown San Rafael took on a different atmosphere last night as traffic was diverted around Fourth Street for making a movie, and the curious swarmed around the area.

The area barricaded extended from Lincoln Avenue to D Street and the side streets from Third Street to Fifth Avenue, according to police who said similar filmingand barricading will take place tonight, tomorrow and Thursday from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m.

Even the San Rafael City Council was concerned because the streets were blockaded without its permission. During an appearance last night before the council to discuss salaries, Police Chief Joseph J. Brusatori explained the situation.

Mayor C. Paul Bettini said that the chief explained that the streets were not closed and that anyone who actually wanted to could go through the private barricades.

San Rafael became "Any Town U. S. A.", a film being made by Lucas Film Limited of 8 Laurel Street, Mill Valley. The firm took out a license to make the film in San Rafael.

"They worked with our department and hired three off-duty officers to control the traffic, Brusatori explained during his council appearance.

The film company asked the merchants to leave their window lights on if they wanted the advertising, he said. It is a 1962 vintage movie, so if new model cars went through the barricade, the film company moved somewhere else on the street, he said.

Some complaints were registered, but there were many more curious who came to watch, he said.

Death Plot No Joke, Jury Rules

By LARRY MOWELL

A Marin Superior Court jury ruled yesterday that Una Mettam's plot to kill her husband wasn't the joke she claimed it was.

The jury of seven women and five men found the 42-year-old former San Quentin accounting clerk guilty of soliciting the murder of her cab driver husband in an auto accident. She would have collected $69,000 in insurance money.

Mrs. Mettam, who cried through much of the trial, began sobbing again when the jury returned its verdict after only an hour of deliberation.

During deliberation the jury reheard a tape recording of a telephone conversation in which she advised an Ignacio service station operator how to kill her husband so she could collect insurance.

Mrs. Mettam claimed she was joking and laughing during her telephone conversation with Marino Guerra on Jan. 13, the day before her arrest. She had testified that the whole plot to arrange an "accident" for her estranged husband, Frank Ronald Mettam, was a joke she thought a friend was playing on her.

The jury didn't see it that way after listening to three and a half days of testimony on the solicitation.

The prosecution version of events began in December when Mrs. Mettam learned that Guerra might be able to arrange her husband's death when a friend made a casual remark about him.

She admitted those events took place, but insisted John A. Pedroli, a mechanic who told her about Guerra, had been closely tied to the plan so she was convinced it was a joke. Pedroli denied he ever mentioned Guerra except the one time in December.

Judge Henry J. Broderick set sentencing for July 17 to obtain a probation report.

Kentfield School Raises Approved

Salary raises of up to 5.3 per cent for all district personnel were approved by the Kentfield School District board last night.

The salary hikes are included in the district's preliminary $1,648,575 budget for 1972-73, up $10,000 from last year. But Supt. Anthony G. Bacich said the board is confident the tax rate will be lowered.

Currently the school district's tax rate is $3.115 cents per $100 of assessed valuation. "We expect to have a tax rate next year of between $2.99 and $3.09," Bacich said.

The board approved a basic salary schedule raise of 5 per cent for certificated teachers. This will make a new range for Kentfield District teachers from $7,685 to $15,370.

Classified personnel were also granted a 5 per cent hike.

Administrative personnel were given raises averaging 5.3 per cent, said Bacich. His own salary will go up to $24,900 a year, while the principals' salaries of the different schools will be as follows:

Greenbrae: $17,200; Kent Jr. High $18,700; Wolfe Grade $19,500; Kent elementary $19,500. The district psychologist will get $18,950 and the business manager $13,000.

The board also approved paying .7 per cent increased premiums for medical insurance for all district employees.

Supt. Bacich said classified employees are still seeking reclassification of jobs, and his board will meet in closed session with him on July 10 to instruct him how to proceed in negotion with the employees.

At this meeting the principals' request for a definite salary schedule will also be discussed.

Discussing the preliminary 1972-73 budget of $1,648,575, compared to last year's $1,638,865, trustees cut one proposed item, said Supt. Bacich, by deciding not to purchase a $2,000 video tape recorder.

Mill Valley Commission Revives Controversy

The Mill Valley Planning Commission injected some life into an old controversy last night by approving a variance waiving offstreet parking requirements for William E. Cullen. According to planning secretary Evelyn B. McCrary, Cullen is seeking to convert the old Mill Valley Library, 52 Lovell Avenue, into a duplex and for more than a year has battled neighbors of the building who have complained that parking on Lovell is already in short supply.

The first variance, allowing Cullen to convert the library into three apartments without providing five offstreet spaces was overturned by the city council on the basis of neighbor complaints.

Although no one appeared at last night's meeting to speak against the variance, one letter of protest was received, Mrs. McCrary said.

A second variance granted Cullen last February allowed him to remodel the building into a single-family residence and an office and waived requirements for four spaces. Cullen sought the latest variance after deciding he would rather turn the structure into a duplex.

The Mill Valley Planning Commission Also:

REPAIR SHOP — Approved a conditional use permit to allow Philip Menzio to operate an auto repair business at 475 Miller Avenue.

CHURCH — Granted a conditional use permit and variance to the Buddhist Churches of America to allow the group to operate a church in Brown's Hall, 390 Miller Avenue, without providing 50 offstreet parking spaces required by city regulations.

RESTAURANT — Approved a variance to permit Stell and Leo Douglas to remodel the old Pat and Joe's Restaurant, 71 Throckmorton Avenue, in preparation for opening a new restaurant. The variance was needed because the remodeling envisioned is greater than the city permits in a nonconforming structure.

Hike In Power Rates Forecast

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Electricity costs to the consumer will rise sharply in the future as public and private utilities expand generating facilities to meet ever-growing demand, the American Public Power Association was told Monday.

APPA president D.W. Hill, Columbus, Neb., said one of the most difficult problems facing producers will be to meet costs and hold down charges to consumers.

"The increasing concentration of ownership of fuels—coal and uranium, as well as oil and gas —by a few major petroleum companies looms as an ominous threat to the future prices and supply of fuel," he told the association's annual convention.

Tower Transfer To Interrupt KTIM

Anticipated interruption of Radio Station KTIM's AM broadcasts did not materialize today since technical difficulties delayed transfer of its transmitter to a new tower.

The station announced that it now expects the transfer to take place tomorrow with consequent interruption of AM programs for several hours beginning at 8 a.m. KTIM-FM operation will not be affected.

Prince To Frigate

LONDON (UPI) — Prince Charles will be posted to the frigate Minerva in November after taking shore courses at Portsmouth, the Defense Ministry said today. Charles joined the Royal Navy last September and has been on service with the guided missile destroyer Norfolk.

Bridge Books Due On Sale

New interchangeable Golden Gate Bridge District ticket books, valid for up to one year instead of 90 days as before went on sale yesterday at bus and ferry terminals, at the Golden Gate Bridge and at ticket agencies in Marin, Sonoma and San Francisco.

Two ticket books are available, one with 20 of the 50-cent tickets, the other with 20 each of 25-cent and 50-cent tickets. Cost of the books is $10 and $15, respectively.

The new tickets may be used at bridge toll gates or on district buses or Sausalito ferry. Bus and ferry fares are cut by 25 cents when the convenience tickets are used instead of cash for transbay service.

Parked Car Loses Some Major Parts

George Edward Willis of 10 Parkway, Larkspur, told Larkspur police yesterday that during the five days his car was parked 300 feet from his home last week a mechanically-minded thief removed bits of it — the drive shaft, the universal joints and a cross member.

According to Larkspur police Willis parked the 1964 Lincoln in the road on June 10. When he went to move it on Thursday he noticed oil spots beneath the engine. On examination he found the parts missing.

Adobe School Budget Trimmed

The Old Adobe School District board, Petaluma, has trimmed $24,000 from the proposed 1972-73 budget, saying it hoped a tax rate increase could be avoided.

Schools Supt. Dean D. Magowan said the board reduced the budget to $1,780,000 at its meeting Thursday night, but hoped the funds could be restored before the financial budget is adopted in August. He said the $24,000 in cuts was made in all parts of the budget.

Magowan said the board would await a report on state aid and on assessed valuation before making further decisions. He said the board hopes funds will be available to maintain the current tax rate of $2.39 per $100 assessed valuation.

Cornell 'Typifies College Problem'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—An argument going on at Cornell University typifies what's wrong with colleges in America, says University of Chicago President Edward H. Levi. The argument, he says, involves "whether they should give students employed in a people's garage credit for their work. I think it's all wrong....

"There is a national drive for mediocrity. They want every young adult to go to college, then they change the college to make it a more comfortable and attractive place to be."

East, West Finally Near Serious Talks

By TAKASHI OKA
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

BONN, West Germany — Like brilliant fireworks, detente seems to be exploding all across the skies of Europe.

At long last, East and West — so long locked in military confrontation — seem on the verge of serious negotiations aimed at reducing, though not eliminating, this confrontation and at enlarging areas of cooperation and understanding.

For the first time in many sessions, the semi-annual ministerial meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization concluded its recent meeting here with a rare show of hope on the fruitlessness of East-West talks and with only a minor caveat about the need to keep up the alliance's own defenses.

Secretary of State William Rogers told a press conference here that the alliance must maintain a "delicate balance between defense and detente." He and his NATO ministerial colleagues (except France) warned against any "unilateral relaxation of the defense efforts of the allies."

But in general, the accent was resolutely on the positive in the magnificent skyscraper overlooking the Rhine where the ministers held their two days of deliberations. Even the French, sticklers for punctilious language, raised few questions over the final communique, which came out in record time.

None of this diminshes the fact that while President Nixon may have broken the ice with his summit agreements on strategic arms limitations in Moscow, tough negotiating sessions on a wide variety of topics lie ahead before detente can be brought down out of the sky and planted solidly on the wrinkled earth of Europe.

Three sets of negotiations will be taking place, more or less simultaneously, to make detente a reality if no hitch develops between the brilliant toasts exchanged in the St. George Hall of the Kremlin and the billiard-cloth tables at which ministers and ambassadors still seem to favor facing each other in their more formal conversations.

The first will be between the two Germanies, East and West. These negotiations have nothing to do with the western alliance, but divided Germany is at the heart of the problem of a divided Europe. With the signing of the four-power agreement on Berlin June 3, and with Bundestag approval of the Bonn-Moscow and Bonn-Warsaw treaties, the way is clear for West German Chancellor Willy Brandt to crown his ostpolitick with a modus vivendi allowing both Germanies to take their place in the United Nations and to enjoy something close to normal interstate relations.

The second set of negotiations will be between eastern and western powers having troops in the two Germanies. The aim is to build confidence and lower budgets in East and West by reciprocally reducing troop level in both sides.

On the western side will sit the United States, Britain, Canada, Belgium, the Netherlands and West Germany. France, which has two divisions stationed in West Germany, is opposed to the wholeconcept of force reductions, arguing that with the U.S. withdrawing 3,000 miles and the Soviets only 500, such reductions can only work to the advantage of the Soviet side.

France did not, therefore, associate herself with those portions of the NATO communique proposing "multilateral explorations on mutual and balanced forces reductions . . . as soon as practicable" but left open the question of whether she would participate once the talks actually got going.

The third set of negotiations will involve all the countries of Europe, East and West neutrals as well as the committed. The United States and Canada also will be included.

This conference, from the American viewpoint, has long been the most controversial. The French would like three commissions for security, economic cooperation, and cultural exchange. They hope of course without trumpeting these hopes that by de-emphasizing bloc-to-bloc confrontation in an all-European forum they will encourage East European states like Poland and Hungary to loosen themselves somewhat from the Moscow embrace. The Soviets, on the other hand, are interested mainly in getting Europe-wide recognition of post-war frontiers.

The NATO ministers agreed that the all-Europe conference and the talks on multilateral force reductions should be separate. The United States has pledged that even allies not included in the talks on force reductions will be consulted fully at all stages, even as NATO members were during the SALT meetings.

Butterfly Land Fund Drive Set

The Bolinas Planning Group agreed last night to hold a fund-raising drive to collect $7,500 toward purchase of a 1.8-acre monarch butterfly preserve in that community.

Judith Weston of the planning group's administrative committee said the property is owned by Hurford Sharon and located between Terrace and Ocean avenues.

Sharon is asking $15,000 for the land and Marin Audubon Society has offered to contribute half the cost, Mrs. Weston said.

Capsule Fails To Nab Robber

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The first West Coast use of a gas capsule designed to immobilize bank robbers failed Monday when it didn't discharge, police reported.

A teller at a Wells Fargo Bank branch said she complied with the robber's request to fill the bag with money but added the special gas capsule.

Officials said it was the first test of the capsule, which has been used in East Coast banks.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Pool Accident Prevention Involves More Than Fence, Lock

A suburbanite came to the office sobbing and trembling like a leaf. "Last month our back yard pool was completed and I told neighbors and friends that no one was to swim in it unless I was present. I thought the rest was up to them, but I was wrong."

"This man had reason to be upset. The day before, a child's body had been discovered floating face down in the pool. Our visitor had followed the usual precautions, such as surrounding the pool with a fence, but somehow the youngster managed to open the gate. The owner learned the tragic way that he is liable for the safety and welfare of any person who uses the pool, invited or not.

Family pools dot the nation's back yards and it is time owners took precautions for their own safety as well as that of others. Accident prevention involves more than a five-foot fence and a self-closing gate with a tamperproof lock.

THE POOL SHOULD be located where it can be seen from the house. At any rate, all adult members of the household must learn to swim, rescue, and resuscitate a person in distress. Some believe that every person who buys a pool should take the Red Cross lifesaving course.

Proper sanitation is vital and information on this subject usually is available thru local authorities and those who install pools. The water must be tested regularly for purity, acidity, and alkalinity. A filter must do an excellent job of keeping the water clean; otherwise it must be changed periodically. An ordinary cane pole, or inner tube close at hand may save a life.

POOL VACUUMS and skimmers remove larger particles of debris. A bath or shower before the dip is an excellent idea because a swimming pool is not a large bathtub. Colds, ear infections, and skin disorders often are traced to the back yard pool. If proper precautions are taken, the swimming pool can be one of the most pleasant aspects of summertime.

HALF PINT A DAY

J. J. writes: What harm could come to the liver of a man, 61, who drinks one-half pint of whisky (diluted with water) every day? He eats and sleeps well and is never ill.

REPLY

Eight ounces of whisky daily is a lot of booze, but the liver may escape if this man eats a well balanced diet and the organ never has been damaged by poison or hepatitis.

VACCINE AND SHINGLES

V. T. writes: Why is smallpox vaccination given as part of the treatment of shingles?

REPLY

Smallpox vaccine is of no value in shingles (herpes zoster) even though both shingles and smallpox are of viral origin. This vaccine is used occasionally in treating fever blisters (herpes simplex); repeated vaccinations lessen the chance of recurrence.

ALCOHOL AND EPILEPSY

W. E. writes: Why does alcohol bring on epileptic seizures?

REPLY

Possibly because alcohol stimulates the brain waves to produce the changes that trigger a seizure. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on epilepsy.

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches, and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

2. Condominiums, townhouses, apartments and any other multifamily residences.

3. Offices, commercial and industrial buildings and structures.

4. Marinas and yacht harbors.

5. Religious, fraternal, social, cultural, quasi public and similar buildings and structures.

6. Land Improvements: grading or filling of land, removal of natural ground cover, vegetation or trees; installation of fences, retaining walls, walkways, sidewalks, curbs. (NOTE: see Use Permit requirements under Section 14.75.020g where the principal use proposed is grading or filling.)

2. Architectural elevations: elevations including exterior materials and showing all sides of the development shall be prepared. In case the exterior of an existing building is to be changed, the proposed and existing elevations of such buildings shall be shown. In case an addition to an existing building is proposed, the elevations of existing buildings shall be shown together with those of the addition. Exterior materials and colors of all proposed and existing buildings shall be indicated or generally described. The elevations also shall show all super-structures and equipment above the roof, if the information is available. Color samples and samples of material shall be submitted when requested.

3. Engineering elevations: elevations showing all existing and proposed grades shall be prepared.

4. Floor and roof plans: of all proposed structures, drawn to scale.

5. Grading Plan: showing existing and proposed contours at intervals adequate to show the extent of cut, fill, the height of banks, the treatment of those banks for erosion control, steps and all retaining walls (as a guideline, one-foot intervals on relatively flat lands and five-foot intervals on steep areas are suggested).

6. Parking, loading and circulation plan: in accordance with standards as established by the Planning Commission, all driveways, bicycle paths, pedestrian walks, public access to and/or along waterways, shorelines and other open spaces, off-street parking and off-street loading areas, the locations of entrances and exists, and the direction of traffic flow into and out of off-street parking and off-street loading areas, the location of each parking space and each loading berth, and areas for turning and maneuvering vehicles.

10. Drainage Facilities and Utility Connections: locations and dimensions of principal elevations of such facilities and connections.

14.11.05 CRITERIA FOR APPROVAL OF APPLICATIONS:

Review shall be guided by the following criteria for the purpose of assuring that with regard to buildings, structures and physical improvements each proposed development shall accomplish the purposes set forth in Section 14.11.01.

A. Competent design: Development has been designed by and bears the signature of a person who under the building code has been designated as legally competent to submit such development proposal. The overall design may be directed towards buildings of any architectural characteristic. However, there must be a consistent organization of materials and openings, and a harmonious relationship of major elements; and decorative parts must relate to the character of the design.

B. Preservation of landscape: the natural landscape shall be preserved in its natural state, insofar as practicable, by minimizing tree, rock, and soil removal; grade changes shall be minimized and shall be in keeping with the general appearance of neighboring developed areas. Open areas shall be preserved to the extent practicable.

C. Relationship between structures within the development and between structures and the site: there shall be a harmonious and pleasing relationship between the various structures of the development on the site and between the structures and the site itself. The proposed structures should be designed to fit the site and not vice versa.

D. Relationship between development and neighborhood: Proposed structures and site development shall be related harmoniously and have good space and relationship to the terrain and to existing structures and development in the vicinity. The design shall show that due regard has been given to orientation of structures to streets, climatic considerations, and, especially, the creation and utilization of vistas and open space. Overdevelopment of the site shall be avoided.

E. Materials and colors used: soft and muted colors in the earthtone and woodtone range and natural materials are preferred and generally should predominate. Other colors and materials may be accepted if the applicant can demonstrate that they are appropriate to the style, are appropriate accent colors, and are harmonious with the site or compatible with the character of the neighborhood.

1. Earthtone colors are considered to be various shades of reddish-brown, brown, tan, ochre, umber, gold, sand and green. The following are ordinarily not so considered: blue, canary yellow, red, orange, violet, magenta, bright green, silver, gray or metallic finishes.

2. Natural materials include adobe, slump block, brick, stone, redwood, exterior wood wall covering, or wood shakes and shingles, California tile roofs.

3. Windows and glass: bronzetone or other glare reducing and color harmonizing finishes may be required on glass surfaces when they constitute 50% or more of a wall or building face, when such wall or face is exposed to the direct rays of the sun for any substantial part of the daylight hours. Similar treatment is to be used to reduce see-through capacity where glass surfaces would otherwise permit a view of pipes, utilities and other service units attached to a ceiling or roof. Mirror-type glass shall be avoided.

4. Roofs (including equipment, but excluding skylights) are to be composed of nonglossy earthtone or woodtone finishes that minimize reflectivity.

5. Metal buildings or finishes: unpainted metal, galvanized metal or metal subject to ordinary rusting may not be used. Metals that develop an attractive oxidized finish may be used: copper or weathering steel are examples of such materials.

6. Concrete surfaces must be colored, textured, sculptured, patterned and/or serve a design function as opposed to a mere structural function.

F. Walls, fences or screening: shall be employed in a skillful manner and in harmony with the design of the development to conceal and to screen parking and loading areas, garbage and refuse collection areas and mechanical equipment from public view from adjoining streets, from persons residing on or working in the development, or from persons residing or working in the neighborhood.

G. Surface water drainage: special attention shall be given to proper site surface drainage. Storm waters shall be removed and carried away in an adequate drainage system. Surface water and all paved areas shall be collected at intervals so that it will not obstruct the flow of vehicles or pedestrian traffic and will not create puddles in the paved areas. The details of such drainage systems shall be subject to the approval of the Director of the Department of Public Works.

H. Drives, parking and circulation: with respect to vehicular, bicycle and pedestrian circulation (including walkways, interior drives and parking) special attention shall be given to location and number of access points to the public streets, waterways, shorelines and open space areas, general interior circulation, separation of pedestrian from vehicular traffic and arrangement of parking areas that are safe and convenient insofar as practical. Such facilities should not detract from the design of the proposed buildings and structures or from adjoining or neighboring properties. The effect of the development on adjoining sites and properties must be considered and the loading capacities of adjoining streets must also be considered.

I. Utility service: utility connections shall be installed underground. Proposed method of sanitary sewage disposal for all buildings shall be indicated. Garbage and refuse collection areas shall be located in areas convenient both to users and to persons who make collections and be of adequate size. There shall be adequate ingress and egress to all utilities.

J. Signs: when submitted as part of the development, shall be so designed as to be skillfully integrated into the development and not detract from the overall appearance of the project or of surrounding areas or developments.

K. Exterior lighting: light sources shall not create a glare or hazard on adjoining streets or be annoying to adjacent properties or residential areas. The location of lights and electric conduits in landscaped areas shall be coordinated with the landscaping and irrigation plans.

L. Landscaping: shall be well designed with appropriate variations and shall be included as an integral enhancement of the site and, where needed, for screening purposes. Plant materials shall be suitable for the functions to be served. Irrigation systems may be required, and their location shall be coordinated with the plan for the location of plants. All landscaping shall be maintained in good condition and any dead or dying plants, bushes, or trees shall be replaced with new healthy stock of a size compatible with the remainder of the growth at the time of replacement.

M. Temporary visual and air pollution resulting from construction: shall be minimized through retention of natural vegetation, rock formations and topography until applicant is prepared, once he starts grading, to continue immediately with the construction applied for through to completion as one continuous process. The period of construction shall be of a duration reasonable to the size and complexity of the development. During grading, dust prevention must be emphasized to avoid unnecessary annoyance to persons living or working in the area.

N. Any or all of the above criteria may be waived by the Planning Commission in developments showing exceptional design merit, which carry out the objectives of this Chapter and which are consistent with the General Plan.

14.11.06 APPROVAL, CONDITIONS, AND GUARANTEES:

A. An application for design review may be approved, approved with modifications, conditionally approved, or disapproved.

B. The City may require that the applicant contract with the City to complete the development proposed in accordance with the design review approval given, and also may require the posting of a bond to guarantee performance, which shall be in such amount as the City may fix.

C. An approved application, and all other related and approved maps, drawings, and other supporting materials constituting a part of the approved application, shall be so endorsed by the Planning Director or his authorized representative.

D. The Building Inspector shall review construction drawings, final plans, and other similar documents for compliance with the approved design review, any conditions attached thereto, or any approved or required modifications thereof. He shall when performing building inspections on the site also inspect for compliance with Design Review requirements; and promptly shall report to the Planning Director any deviations therefrom, either in the plans or on the site.

14.11.07 DEDICATION AND IMPROVEMENT:

Dedication, relocation, installation and/or improvement of rights-of-way may be required where essential to prevent congestion and/or hazards which may result from the use of land proposed.

14.11.08 NONCOMPLIANCE:

A. In addition to any other fines, penalties or enforcement provisions set forth in this Code, failure to comply in any respect with an approved design review application shall constitute grounds for the immediate stoppage of the work involved in said noncompliance.

B. An occupancy permit shall not be issued in part or whole for any building or group of buildings subject to design review unless and until the work specified in the design review approval has been completed, including landscaping. If for any valid reason full compliance cannot be made, a cash bond shall be posted for the work to be completed within a reasonable period of time as determined by the Planning Director or his authorized representative.

14.11.09 REVOCATION, EXPIRATION AND EXTENSION OF APPROVAL:

A. When demolition or removal of any existing structure is a part of design review approval, said demolition or removal shall be completed, and all debris removed from the site, within ninety days of design review approval or the entire design review permit shall be deemed to have expired for cause as of midnight on the 90th day unless the Planning Director shall grant an extension of time for such work.

B. Design Review Permits shall expire in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 14.88 of this Title, which Chapter sets forth an automatic expiration in one year unless a different expiration date or unlimited expiration is stipulated at the time of approval. Prior to the expiration of a Design Review approval, the applicant may apply to the Planning Director for an extension of not more than one year from the original date of expiration. The Planning Director shall grant the extension, and may make minor modifications of the approved design at the time of extension, if he finds that there has been no substantial change in the factual circumstances surrounding the originally approved design. Any further extensions beyond one year shall require Planning Commission approval.

DIVISION 4. If any section, subsection, sentence, clause or phrase of this Ordinance is for any reason held to be invalid, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this Ordinance. The Council hereby declares that it would have adopted the Ordinance and each section, subsection, sentence, clause or phrase thereof, irrespective of the fact that any one or more sections, subsections, sentences, clauses or phrases be declared invalid.

DIVISION 5. This ordinance shall be published once in full before its final passage, in the Independent-Journal, a newspaper of general circulation, printed, published and circulated in the City of San Rafael, and shall be in full force and effect thirty (30) days after its final passage.

Sonoma Students Plan Trip To Africa

A group of 30 students from California State College, Sonoma, will leave July 3 for a six-week tour of Western Africa.

The trip will take students to University of Ghana at Legon and University of Lagos, Nigeria. They will also tour other parts of western Africa and will stay with African families.

Local students on the tour will include Marilyn Connolly, Phyllis Bala, Phyllis Thompson and William Trowbridge of Cotati, Letrice Whitlock and Jane Udofia of Rohnert Park and Josephine St. John of San Rafael.

The group will also include Olatunji Vidal of Nigeria, a member of the Sonoma State Music Department. Mrs. Udofia is also a Nigerian.

Funds for the trip have been provided by private doners and many organizations including the Negro Business and Professional Women's Club of Santa Rosa. Contributions are still being sought since an additional $1,500 is needed for the trip.

It is hoped that next year a group of African students can spend six weeks in Sonoma County.

Political Contribution Returned By Sen. Smith

A Stinson Beach man, who impulsively mailed a $1 political contribution to Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, was flabbergasted yesterday when he received a thank-you note and his dollar bill as well.

"I'm not active politically," he said, "in fact, I'm a registered Democrat. But when I saw her on TV a few weeks ago, I just thought she was charming . . . so spry . . . and she was saying her opponent in the Maine primary was a millionaire . . . so I decided to send her $1 with my best wishes."

Yesterday, Anderson received his dollar bill stapled to a letter from Mrs. Smith, the nation's only woman senator and victor in Maine's Republican primary:

"Thank you for your letter and your contribution for $1 which you enclosed.

"I do hope you will understand and not be offended when I say that I'm still trying to go the way of not taking contributions except the automatic minimum one that the National Republican Senatorial Committee gives to all incumbent Republican senators and I deeply appreciate your thoughtfulness."

First Ordination Of Homosexual

SAN CARLOS (UPI) — A young man believed to be the first self-declared homosexual ever ordained by a major religious group has become a minister of the United Church of Christ.

William R. Johnson, 25, was ordained Sunday before a capacity crowd of almost 300 worshipers at a 90-minute ceremony in the community church of this San Francisco suburb.

Holtzman Discusses Ambition After Blanking Rangers

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI)—It's not too hard to guess Ken Holtzman's ambition for 1972. It's to pitch in the World Series, of course.

But what would make it that much sweeter for the lanky hurler?

"I'd love to pitch against Chicago in the World Series," Holtzman said Monday night after getting his 11th win of the season, a 3-0 job over the Texas Rangers in which he got an inning and two-thirds relief help from Darold Knowles.

Holtzman came to Oakland from the Chicago Cubs during the off-season in a trade for Rick Monday. And nobody was happier than Holtzman.

"This (Oakland) is a happier team than Chicago," he said. "It's as good an overall team. It's the best team in the American League. Dick Williams is a completely different kind of manager (than Leo Durocher of the Cubs).

"Both of them are sticklers on fundamentals. But Leo had a communication problem with the younger players.

Although the 90-degree-plus heat got to Holtzman in the eighth inning and he had to share his shutout with Knowles, he had a big reason to grin after the game since he had driven in the only run Oakland needed with a double which boosted his batting average this season to .256.

"I don't actually work on my hitting so much," Holtzman said, "but I concentrate a lot at the plate. A pitcher needs to help himself every chance he can get, and after all it was a 0-0 game at the time.

The occasion was the seventh inning when, after two were out, Tim Cullen singled. Holtzman then lined a double just inside the left field line. The ball struck the edge of the bullpen dugout and bounded away from left fielder Tom Grieve, allowing Cullen to race home.

Oakland got two more in the eighth on five straight singles.

Running around the bases on that double tired Holtzman considerably, and when he went into the dugout briefly at the end of the top of the seventh he was not sure he could continue throwing.

"Let me go out and see what I can do," Holtzman told Williams. Holtzman proceeded to get the Rangers out in order, but he was weakening fast.

"If I get anybody on next time come get me," he told Williams. After getting one out in the eighth Holtzman walked Ted Kubiak and that was all for the night. He had given up only three hits.

"He got awfully tired," Williams said of his pitcher. "It was this heat. That double he hit really tired him out. I'll tell you he's really a good hitting pitcher. Of course we have another pretty good one on this team in Catfish Hunter. After all, he hit .350 last year."

Holtzman, off to his best start

SPORT NOTES

The Return Of Roving Richard

By RALPH CHATOIAN

After a week in the outdoors away from newspapers and radios, I usually find after grabbing a few back issues that I really haven't missed much.

There's still war, death and taxes.

But this time, after a week of family camping near the Feather River in Plumas County, I found one sports item that really made news in the Bay Area:

The "return" of Richard Francis Barry III.

After years of battles in the courts of law rather than on the courts of basketball, Warriors' owner Franklin Mieuli finally won his fight to get back Barry, the man who jumped across the Bay from San Francisco to Oakland and then across the county to Washington, D.C., then Virginia, then New York.

DURING HIS ABSENCE, the Warriors have changed their name from San Francisco (The City, as it said on their jerseys) to Golden State. They no longer play in the Cow Palace, but in the Oakland Coliseum. When Rick made his first move, the short one from S.F. to Oakland, it was after playing the 1966 and '67 seasons with the Warriors.

He switched affections from the National Basketball Association to the American Basketball Association and joined his father-in-law, Bruce Hale, then coaching the Oakland Oaks. He had to sit out a year, but played for the Oaks in 1969 and like he did in the NBA in 1967, he led the ABA in scoring that year. Then came Rick's eastern swing, started by Oakland's franchise switch to Virginia and then a trade to New York had Barry playing for the Nets the past two seasons.

While doing all this switching around, Barry had signed a 1969 contract with the Warriors, claiming Oakland's move to Washington, D.C., invalidated his ABA contract.

DURING THE FIVE years of Barry's escapades, Mieuli, a very patient man who kept insiting he would get back his wandering star, waited. After U.S. Federal Judge Alfonso J. Zirpoli ruled last week that Barry would have to honor his 1969 Warrior contract, Franklin got out Barry's old uniform and grinned from ear to ear.

The judge's decision came only days after the Barry $150,000 home in Orinda was sold. It had been on the market for two years. But maybe Rick can get the sale contract invalidated. He's pretty good at those things.

Anyway, Rick's mother-in-law said yesterday that Rick wouldn't be in the Bay Area until after he defends his title in the Nugget celebrity golf tournament which starts tomorrow in Sparks, Nev.

Mrs. Hale is keeping care of the Barry's youngest son, 6-month-old Brent, in Orinda. Rick and Pam have their other two boys with them.

IF BARRY does abide by the court decision, he will be a big drawing card for the Warriors. He is handsome, has charm, and a good jump shot from anywhere on the court. In his one Marin County appearance, back in 1967 when the Warriors held a game-type scrimmage in the College of Marin gym prior to the start of the regular season, Rick had to sit out with an injured toe.

But Franklin Mieuli was there. And he was smiling, too.

State Golf Rise By 4 Marinites

The weather that tormented the U.S. Open at Pebble Beach last week visited San Francisco yesterday but four Marin County golfers survived the bluster to advance in regional qualifying for the state amateur tournament.

Ray Leach of Novato and Brigham Young University finished second among the 212 contestants with a 36-hole score of 76-71—147 over the Ocean and Lake courses of the Olympic Club in the City.

Bob Cranston of Sausalito shot 72-77—149, Richard Thompson of Sausalito fired 86-76—162 and Mat Palacio Jr. of San Rafael shot 80-83—163. Palacio needed a birdie on the first playoff hole to make it.

The low 95 golfers qualified for the next phase of the tournament, the statewide qualifying July 10-11 at Cypress Point and Pebble Beach. Five others were exempt from qualifying because of high finishes in last year's amateur.

The 100 golfers from Northern California and another 100 from the Southland will be reduced at that time to the 64 who will actually compete in the match-play tournament, July 12-16 at Pebblo.

Yesterday, the medalist was John Cranston of Los Altos, last year's San Francisco City Amateur champion. He shot 72-73—145, two shots ahead of Leach.

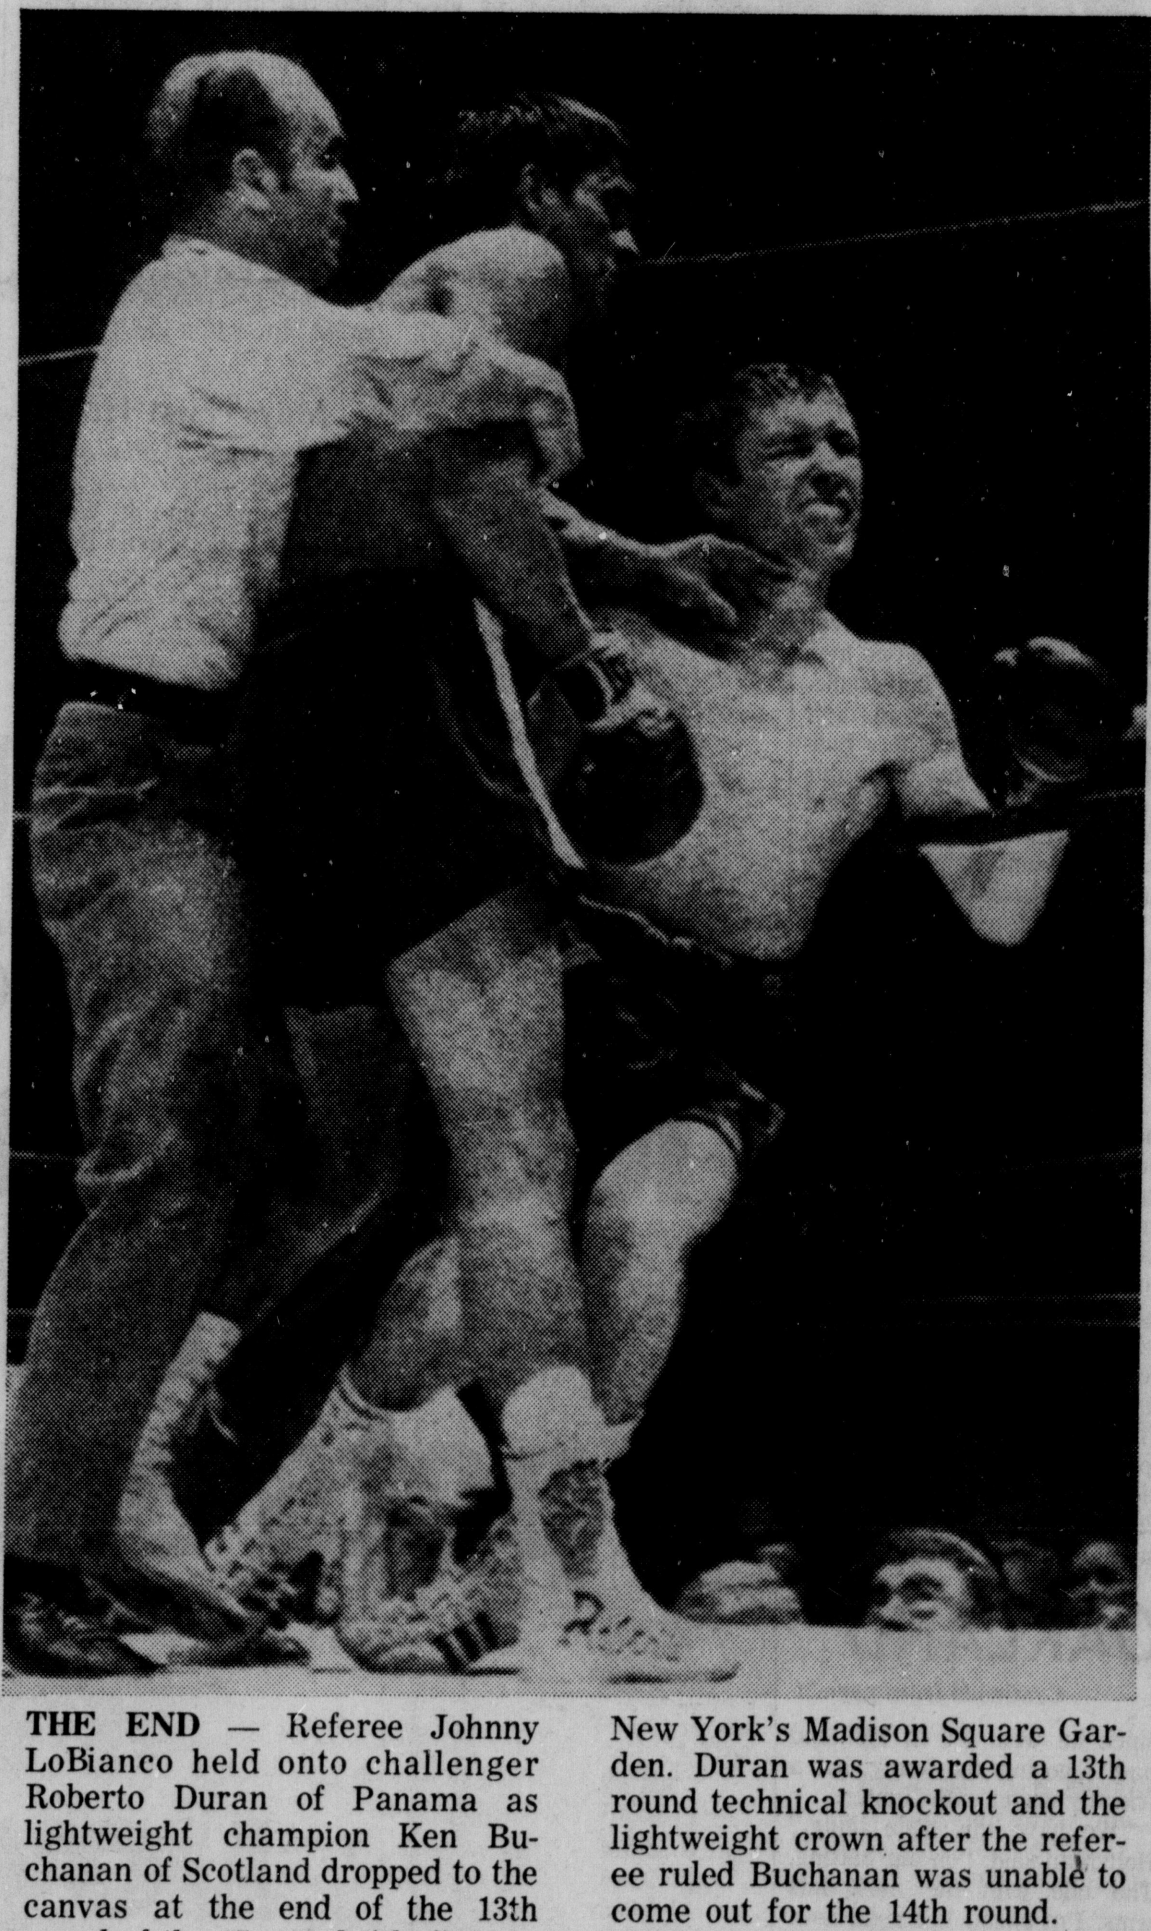
Neither Leach nor Bob Cranston (John's brother) appeared especially bothered by the winds and rocklike greens that forced scores into the 80s. Twelve golfers failed to break 80 in either round but still qualified. Highest qualifying score was 163, 19 over par.

Sohner Wins Pair

Sohner Tree Service of San Anselmo last night defeated Hamilton Air Force Base in a softball doubleheader, 3-1 and 3-2, behind the pitching of Herb Dower and Mal Smith.

CONGRATULATIONS — San Francisco Giants pitcher Ron Bryant received a congratulatory handshake from team manager Charlie Fox (7) as teammates Dave Rader (14) and Ed Goodson looked on yesterday at Candlestick Park. Bryant had just blanked the Atlanta Braves, 3-0, his second straight shutout. It was the Giants third victory in a row.

(UPI Telephoto)



THE END — Referee Johnny LoBianco held onto challenger Roberto Duran of Panama as lightweight champion Ken Buchanan of Scotland dropped to the canvas at the end of the 13th round of the 15-round title fight in New York's Madison Square Garden. Duran was awarded a 13th round technical knockout and the lightweight crown after the referee ruled Buchanan was unable to come out for the 14th round.

FOR LIGHTWEIGHT TITLE

Duran Hammers Champ In 13

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ken Buchanan looked like he had been mugged in a back-alley. His left eye was cut and partially closed. There was a slit under his right eye and his groin was throbbing with pain.

Buchanan was hammered into submission by a questionable punch from a two-fisted dynamo, Roberto Duran, who fought his way out of the slums of Panama to the lightweight championship of the world at Madison Square Garden Monday night. The 21-year-old Duran, young and confident after 28 straight wins, pummeled Buchanan with hard rights and lefts until the Scotsman fell to the canvas after the bell sounded the end of the 13th round.

Buchanan, far behind on points on all three officials' cards, grabbed his groin indicating he had been fouled. He crawled to his corner and was hoisted onto his stool by his handlers.

Referee Johnny Lo Bianco looked the champion over and ruled he could not continue. "He wasn't able to go on," said LoBianco "so I stopped it."

"I told the referee I could continue boxing," said Buchanan. I wasn't going to lose my title that easily. All I felt was a ping between my legs."

Trade Completed

NEW YORK (UPI)—Germain Gagnon, 29, was sent to the New York Islanders of the National Hockey League Monday from the Montreal Canadiens as completion of a previous deal that sent Dennis DeJordy and four other players to the new club in return for cash and "other considerations."

Bryant Stops Atlanta, 3-0

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The fuss is over between San Francisco Giant pitcher Ron Bryant and manager Charlie Fox, but the Atlanta Braves suffered from the fallout.

Bryant continued his campaign to convince Fox he's a better pitcher than he's given credit for by pitching a three hit shutout to beat Atlanta 3-0 Monday at Candlestick Park.

"I felt I had to say what I did. I'm not going to say anything more," Bryant said.

A week ago he blasted Fox for not having confidence in him, and he convinced Fox of his argument by tossing a two-hit shutout to beat the Chicago Cubs.

"I think the pressure is off now," Bryant said. "I hope it is. This game isn't easy. I got some good plays behind me at the right time."

Bryant walked three batters in the first inning but Earl Williams then hit the first pitch for an inning-ending doubleplay.

"Having 18 straight shutout innings is really something," Bryant said. "In Chicago I had the wind on my side and this time the defense helped."

He held Hank Aaron, Rico Carty and Williams hitless in 10 trips to the plate.

How did he pitch to Aaron?

"You're supposed to pitch him up and in but that's not easy for a left-handed pitcher to do. I tried to keep the ball away from him because it looks like all he's trying to do now is hit home runs."

The Giants collected eight hits off loser Ron Reed who gave up all three runs.

Rookie Ed Goodson had a double and two singles, scored a run and drove in another. He played first base in place of injured Willie McCovey.

Jim Howarth took over for injured Garry Maddox in centerfield and turned in two outstanding fielding plays. He raced to the fence in left-center field to make a leaping catch of a long drive by Carty in the ninth inning.

Meanwhile, Maddox was named National League Player of the Week by league president Charles S. Feeney. Maddox batted .310 with nine hits in 29 at-bats during the week of June 19-25, including two three-run home runs.

Sports

Fox was impressed by his youngsters who now have won three games in a row — the first time they have done so this season.

"Maybe we're over the hump," Fox said. "Six in a row would be nice."

He said Bryant was successful because he was getting his curve ball over the plate.

How about the fuss?

"I think Ron grew up a little after what he said," Fox said.

Bryant-Fox Furor Mellowed By Humor

Ron Bryant and Charlie Fox kept the just concluded road trip of the Giants from becoming a routine, reportorial job for baseball writers traveling with the team. The southpaw and the manager provided some colorful copy.

In St. Louis Bryant stormed off the mound after Fox took the ball away from him in the eighth inning of a game in which the Giants were leading 3-0. The bags were loaded and there were two out in the eighth when Fox took the ball away from the southpaw and gave it to Randy Moffitt, a righthanded rookie.

Bryant was so red necked because Fox didn't permit him to face one more batter, in this case the powerful right-handed swinger Joe Torre, he threw things around the clubhouse. And when Torre muscled a bat handle blooper to shallow right center off Moffitt to clear the bags and tie the score 3-3, Bryant picked up a telephone and called the baseball writers traveling with the team.

"I wish they'd traded me instead of John Cumberland," said Bryant. "The worst Torre could have done against me was a grand slam."

WELL, THE CARDINALS went on to win that game 4-3 in the 11th and the Giants went on to Chicago where the Cubs scored 22 runs in the first two games to extend their streak to seven-in-a-row. Bryant faced the Cubs in the series finale.

"This," said the southpaw before the game, "is the biggest of my career."

"I'll be the first to congratulate him if he wins," said Fox. "I'll go out to him on my hands and knees if he shuts them out."

Bryant did shut out the Cubs 4-0 on a two-hitter and Fox did drop to his hands and knees before Bryant, salaaming to the southpaw.

Bryant momentarily was confused by the manager's salaaming. The southpaw thought Fox tripped after dashing out of the dugout. He actually started to help Fox to his feet when Fox jumped up and grabbed Bryant in a bear hug. Bryant got the idea of it all then and smiled. "Thanks, Skip," said Bryant to Fox.

"HOW," Bryant later said to baseball writers, "Can you stay mad at a guy like that. Everything's going to be all right."

Bryant now is 5-4 for 1972, put his record over the .500 mark by blanking the Atlanta Braves Monday 3-0. He never has been above .500 in a full season. But then he has been in the big time only two full seasons.

He was 5-8 in 1970 and last year he was 7-3 before the All-Star break, 0-7 after it. So he finished 7-10. Still, Bryant felt he deserved a raise. He finally got it although Jerry Donovan, Horace Stoneham's contract negotiator, wasn't impressed by Bryant's logic.

Bryant told Donovan that if he had been 0-7 in the first half of 1971 and 7-3 after the All-Star break, instead of vice versa, there wouldn't have been any question about a raise.

"IF YOU HAD been 0-7 during the first half you wouldn't have been around for the second half," Donovan told Bryant.

Nevertheless, Donovan did go to Stoneham in Bryant's behalf and got an okay for a modest raise that still leaves Bryant slightly under the $20,000 bracket.

Bryant won't have any trouble jumping into higher salary brackets once he discovers the secret of consistency instead of being brilliant in one performance and a puzzle in the next.

Olympic Bid Help For 2 Jailed Stars

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

NEW YORK — Correction Board chairman William Vanden Heuvel announced Tuesday of a citizens committee to urge that Olympic officials allow two imprisoned American athletes to compete in the 1972 Munich Olympic Games.

The German Olympic Committee has reportedly said it would not welcome participation by the men, Bobby Lee Hunter, a boxer, and Gene White, a trackman, even with the concurrence of penal authorities.

"Both Mr. Hunter and Mr. White have had the help of correctional authorities in developing their athletic talents and in finding themselves so that they can live constructive, contributing lives in their communities," Vanden Heuvel said in a statement.

"Youth around the world will find an inspriring example in their success which confirms the reality of hope and the possibility of redemption for all of us."

Among those on the committee are city correction commissioner Benjamin Malcolm; Correction Officers Benevolent Association president Leo Zeferetti; Monte Irvin, the former New York Giant outfielder now a special assistant to baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn and Cus D'Amato, former manager of Floyd Patterson.

Football

BALTIMORE — Carroll Rosenblum, owner of the Baltimore Colts since 1953, may end up owning the Los Angeles Rams if a complicated franchise swap can be worked out.

"I have made a committment," Rosenbloom said Monday. "We will just have to wait and see if it can be worked out."

Melvin Durslag, of the Los Angeles Herald Examiner, wrote that "as a gesture of good faith . . . the prospective buyers of the Los Angeles Rams have given the ownership a $5 million deposit."

He said the money came from a group headed by Robert Irsay of Skokie, Ill., and William Keland of Racine, Wis.

If the deal is finalized, Durslag wrote, "it will result in the Rams' buyers trading the club to Rosenbloom for the Baltimore Colts."

National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle denied Monday that any final deal had been made.

"Every transfer of stock of an NFL team has to be submitted to the league for approval," Rozelle said. "Nothing can be done before discussions can take place."

Golf

NEW YORK — Jim Jamieson's $30,000 winner's share Sunday in the Western Open, his first triumph on the Professional Golfers Association tour, carried the chunky 29-year-old from Moline, Ill. from 26th place on the money-winning standings to 11th place with a total of $77,942.

Jack Nicklaus and Lee Trevino, neither of whom competed in the Western Open, remained first and second, respectively, on the money list. Doug Sanders, who tied for 11th at Winnetka, Ill., winning $3,300, took over 10th place from Juan (Chi Chi) Rodriguez, who fell back to 12th.

Baseball

Campanella, who recently was elected to baseball's Hall of Fame, was admitted to Grasslands Friday in "critical" condition but a spokesman for the hospital said there had been some improvement since then.

The spokesman said Campanella was suffering from respiratory difficulties "somewhat" connected with the paralysis he suffered as the result of an automobile accident in 1958 that ended his baseball career.

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — Outfielder Billy Conigliaro, who left the Milwaukee Brewers without a word Sunday, told the club Monday he wanted time to "reevaluate his personal life," leaving Brewers officials thinking he may return to baseball.

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. — The Minnesota Twins announced Monday night that they are putting star right fielder Tony Oliva on the disabled list for the rest of the season so he can undergo a second knee operation.

DOWN BUT NOT OUT — New York Mets' Willie Mays hit the dirt hard after a wild pitch thrown by Pittsburgh Pirate pitcher Bob Moose in the fifth inning at New York's Shea Stadium last night. Mays regained his feet and grounded out, but the Mets won, 4-2.

Wimbledon Opening Win By Netter Miss Goolagong

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI)-Evonne Goolagong of Australia opened defense of her Wimbledon tennis title today with a straight set victory over Maralyn Pryde of New Zealand.

The bouncy Australian won the 42-minute match 6-3, 6-4 without really being extended. Her opponent ran for everything, but she did not have the strokes or the power to deny her 20-year-old opponent.

The Center Court was again filled to its 15,000 capacity on a dull, overcast day. There was a threat of rain and it was chilly.

Miss Goolagong led 2-0 but then made three careless volleying errors to drop her service. She came back for 3-1 and never was troubled after that.

In the second set the pony-tailed New Zealander matched the champion shot for shot until the ninth game when she was broken at 15, Miss Goolagong scoring with her rapier-like backhand passing shot down the line.

Miss Goolagong quickly secured three match points in the 10th game. A careless backhand volley into the net cost her the first but she wrapped things up on the next with a smash into the righthand corner.

The strong left arm and stamina of Roscoe Tanner of Lookout Mountain, Tenn., held out for five gruelling sets to take him into the second round. He beat Juan Velasco of Columbia in their resumed match 6-3, 2-6, 6-4, 7-9, 7-5.

It was the kind of contest Wimbledon fans love: a tense battle between well-matched players of contrasting style.

The slender Columbian teased his opponent and stayed alive for five sets through floating line drives and service returns that Tanner could only blink at as they whipped past him.

Tom Gorman of Seattle, Wash., paced himself carefully and successfully to topple Belgian Davis cupper Bernard Mignot 6-4, 7-5, 6-2.

Gorman, the sensation here last year with his win over Rod Laver which took him to the semifinals, said the cold weather had worried him. He served at only three quarter pace and scooped under many shots that he could not fully stretch to retrieve.

"I have to nurse my back in this cold weather and just couldn't give an all-out effort. Just to be safe I changed my wet shirt between sets.

"I pulled up very sound and I'm content my game is picking up well for tougher matches ahead."

Mignot's smooth stroking and nimble return of service tested Gorman repeatedly but the fourth ranked American placed his own shots too well to suffer any undue pressure.

Richard Stockton, the 14th ranked American from Port Washington, N.Y., took the final set from Brazil's Tomas Koch to complete an 8-9, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2, 6-4 victory in a match which was called Monday because of darkness.

The American, who ran for everything Monday to keep his hopes alive, refused to give ground today. In the fifth game of the decider he reeled off five straight points after the Brazilian led 40-love and then hung on to clinch his victory in the 10th game.

Stockton got to deuce when Koch served a double fault; reached advantage when the Brazilian dumped a volley into the net and got the break with a cross-court backhand which Koch could only get his racket to.

The crowd on this ladies day was eager for the Wimbledon debut of Chris Evert, whom they have dubbed "Little Miss Icicle".

Quarry Brothers To Fight

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Muhammad Ali, whose mission in life is to regain the heavyweight boxing title and earn a few million dollars enroute, battles Jerry Quarry, a rough California customer, tonight in a scheduled 12-rounder on a doubleheader fight program.

The bouts will be on closed circuit television at the Richmond Auditorium, starting at 6:30 p.m. Tickets for the presentation on a black and white screen cost $6 per person.

The Ali-Quarry fight is billed as a heavyweight elimination but the winner is not assured of a crack at champion Joe Frazier, who is playing hard to get since he has beaten both men before. Ali's only defeat in a career of 37 pro fights was a 15-found loss to Frazier on March 8, 1971.

Foster, 33, a towering 6-foot-3½, is a ringwise boxer and stunning puncher. He won the title in 1968 with a fourth-round knockout of Dick Tiger, who was floored with Foster's favorite punch — a left hook to the jaw. Foster's record is 47-5 and he has knocked out 40 of his victims.

that. He was hurt several times in the fight by Duran, a brawling street fighter who never stays off his man. The two men traded blows as the bell sounded to end the 13th and their bodies cracked together. Suddenly Buchanan was down, his face twisted by pain. A right hand to the mid-section had done the damage. Or did the punch land below the belt?

"I hit him a good punch to the stomach," said Duran. "I won it legal. In the late rounds I hurt him. The guy, he was running and he have no chance to fight his fight."

Buchanan, disappointed in the ref's decision, agreed that Duran was effective. "He was cutting the ring off on me," said the ex-champion. "I didn't have much of a chance to box him. He's a good fighter, a hustler. He kept coming forward, throwing punches like a desperate player in the final rounds. He's a good puncher." The controversial finish rubbed some of the patina off Duran's victory. He took the fight to Buchanan and outslugged him in almost every round.

The prize might be the Chicago Cubs in the World Series, and that, for Holtzman, would be the biggest prize of all.

Koosman Is Mets' Happy Winner, 4-2

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Jerry Koosman is so happy just to be winning again, he isn't going to worry about being unable to finish what he starts.

The blond lefthander, troubled with arm miseries the last three years after breaking into the National League as a 19 game winner, came within one out of pitching his first complete game in 10 months Monday night before being replaced by Tug McGraw.

FIFTH WIN

McGraw got Dave Cash to pop out to shortstop Bud Harrelson with two men on base and Koosman was presented with his fifth consecutive victory after three losses as the New York Mets beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-2.

The victory in the nationally televised contest enabled the Mets to snap a three-game losing streak and climb back to within two games of first-place Pittsburgh in the National League East. In their three losses, the Mets had scored a total of two runs.

REDS WIN

The Cincinnati Reds maintained their half-game lead over Houston in the West by whipping the Los Angeles Dodgers, 5-0, while the Astros were tying a club record with five home runs in routing the San Diego Padres, 14-7. Elsewhere, the St. Louis Cardinals edged the Montreal Expos, 4-3, the Chicago Cubs ripped the Philadelphia Phillies, 11-1, and the San Francisco Giants beat the Atlanta Braves, 3-0.

Gary Nolan became the National League's first 10-game winner as he scattered eight hits and struck out six Los Angeles batters.

Doug Rader hit two homers and Jim Wynn, Lee May and Cesar Cedeno collected one each at San Diego. Cedeno also had a pair of singles and scored three times, including the goahead run in the seventh when Houston snapped a 7-7 tie.

Rick Reuschel, making his first major league start, limited Philadelphia to six hits—three of them in the first inning—and his Chicago teammates supported him with a 15-hit attack.

Mays' First Hit

NEW YORK (UPI)—Willie Mays' first major league hit was a home run off Warren Spahn of the then Boston Braves.

A.L. ROUNDUP

Two Pitchers' Ninth Innings

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

The games were one inning too long Monday night for both Bill Slayback and Skip Lockwood.

Slayback, making his first major league appearance, pitched no-hit ball for seven innings and two-hit ball for eight innings while Lockwood pitched one-hit ball for eight innings.

Neither pitcher, however, managed to get a batter out in the ninth inning although they both got credit for the victories. Slayback got help from both Fred Scherman and Chuck Seelbach as Detroit downed New York 4-3 while Lockwood was bailed out by Ken Sanders as Milwaukee blanked Baltimore 2-0.

In the other games, Oakland downed Texas 3-0, Cleveland downed Boston 7-3, Minnesota routed California 7-4 and Kansas City downed Chicago 4-1.

Eric Soderholm's grand slam homer in the seventh inning sparked Minnesota to the victory over California. Soderholm's homer made it 7-0 and enabled the Twins to survive four unearned runs, three on Vada Pinson's homer.

Graig Nettles hit a two-out, two-run double to trigger a six-run sixth inning and lead Cleveland to the victory over Boston. Ray Culp blanked Cleveland for the first five innings until the Indians exploded in the sixth. Nettles' two-run hit was followed by a walk and a two-run single by Ron Lolich. Frank Duffy then wrapped up the rally with another two-run single.

Cookie Rojas' two-out, two-run single in the third inning paced Kansas City to the victory over Chicago behind the five-hit pitching of Bruce Dal Canton. The Royals were nursing a 2-1 lead when Rojas tagged Wilbur Wood for the two-run single that wrapped up the game. Wood slipped to 117 this year.

Those Happy Days Are Here Again

By AL GIDDINGS

Happy days are here again! Mary, my wife, after two weeks in a hospital, made a rapid recovery and is home. She was desperately sick several days, and my thanks to all the well wishers who brightened up her days with the most beautiful flowers. My daughter's wedding took place with Mary in the hospital, but we all made it with the able help of the Deer Park Villa personnel. As I said, Happy days are here again . . . even with the fishing.

Striper fishing in San Pablo around the Brother Islands is good . . . probably 50 boats there over the weekend. Noted four fish hooked at Tiburon's Elephant Rock, by the shore anglers casting with bugeyes and streamers. It's a tough place on lures . . . ten anglers lost perhaps fifty assorted lures to the snags and rocks there last Saturday.

DOWN AT LIME Point and the Yellow Bluff area inside "the Gate," the night anglers were out. Two arrests were made there Saturday at 3 a.m. Sunday, same place, same time, the game wardens were out-witted by the gang there, when look outs were posted as a safety measure. Can you imagine eight anglers sitting on the rocks near the surf at 3 a.m. saying they were waiting in the pitch black of the night for the legal time to roll around? Legal time was 4:49 a.m. Like warden Russ Ild says, "you can't win them all." No one had a fish that could be seen.

Some fair fishing was reported by the Richmond Bridge out by the channel. Harold Lansing of the Chevron Station right there at Loch Lomond caught a 47-pound striper trolling with a bugeye and spoon setup. If you want to see a happy fellow stop and say hello; you'll see!

SALMON FISHING has been good too, with good numbers of big fish being taken. Bob Locki of the boat, the "Lo Hat," had his usual crew of five out this past week plus a guest.

The guest, 14-year-old Tom Miller of San Rafael, was haivng a field day, with most of the old pros letting him play their fish for awhile. Most of the fish were in the six-to-10 pound class (they could afford to be so nice). Then suddenly Tom had about a 30-pound Salmon on. The fish jumped, and so did Locki! It was his rod, so young Miller didn't know what was happening when suddenly he lost the rod to Locki's excited grab. Even old pros get excited on 30 pounders!

YOUNG SCOTT Foster of Woodacre showed me a couple of duck tag returns he had received from the Fish and Wildlife Service. One was from a canvas back that had been tagged at White Eye, Alaska, in 1961. That old bird was at least 12 years old. A second bird, a black sea brant, was tagged in 1967 in Kasiglook, Alaska. It was at least 2 when tagged, so it was about 6 years old when taken.

In April of this year, the "N.B. Scofield," a Fish and Game research boat started a tagging program of market crabs for growth and migration studies. The trapping of the crabs was conducted in inshore areas at depths between 6½ and 28 fathoms in Bodega Bay, and off the Pt. Reyes-Double Point areas, and in the South Bank area just south of the San Francisco main ship channel. Ten 46-inch traps were set at each of the 28 stations occupied. The fishing time for each trap set was approximately 24 hours. Squid and rock fish carcasses were used as bait. A total of 2,288 crabs consisting of 1,575 males and 713 females were caught at the 28 stations.

SUB-LEGAL (less than 6¼ inches) males constituted 96 per cent of the male catch, and 66 per cent of the total catch. No 1972 crabs were caught. Only crabs, male and female which were undersized, were tagged. The total number tagged was 1,636 with 70 per cent of these males.

Patrick Collier, the Fish and Game Marine biologist is now tagging market crabs in the Paradise Park Pier area near Tiburon. He has caught approximately 800 to date and all were undersized. (I wouldn't crab there if I were you; besides, the season closes June 30.)

Kennedy Net Tourney Set At Forest Hills

NEW YORK (UPI)—Senator Edward Kennedy and Mrs. Robert F. Kennedy announced a pro-celebrity tennis tournament to be held at Forest Hills on August 26, just before the U.S. Open championships, for the benefit of the Robert F. Kennedy Memorial foundation.

Mrs. Kennedy, her leg now in a walking cast following a skiing accident, said she hoped to be able to play, "if I can find a good partner—like Pancho (Gonzalez) or Stan Smith or Charlie Pasarell."

Aparicio Is Out

BOSTON (UPI) — Shortstop Luis Aparicio was placed on the disabled list and will be lost to the Boston Red Sox for at least three weeks, the team physician said Monday, because of a fractured and dislocated middle finger on the 38-year-old ballplayer's left hand.

Redwood's Prep Crew In Meet

The Marin Rowing Association champions, who had been looking in vain for a postseason match to test their skills, finally have landed one, according to advisor Bob Cumming.

A crew from Seattle, Wash., will arrive in Marin Friday to meet Redwood Saturday morning at 8:30 on Corte Madera creek. The winner will be entitled to go to the National Junior Rowing Championships in Philadelphia July 13-14.

Saturday's race will be a 1,500-meter affair for four-oared boats. It will start opposite 1050 South Eliseo Boulevard and will end opposite Greenbrae Lanes, 100 yards west of Highway 101.

Chicago Hockey Star Hull Switches Loops

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI)— Superstar Bobby Hull of the Chicago Black Hawks jumped to the new World Hockey Association today by signing the first of two contracts that total $2.5 to $3 million.

The 33-year-old Hull signed a $1 million contract with WHA Properties Ltd., the league's marketing arm, in St. Paul this morning and prepared to fly to Winnipeg in the afternoon to sign a 10-year $1,5 million plus contract with the Winnipeg Jets.

Hull, second highest scorer in National Hockey League history, was met by St. Paul Mayor Lawrence Cohen at Holman Field on his arrival shortly after 10 a.m. for his meeting with WHA officials.

The smiling Hull signed his contract with the WHA, providing for endorsements among other things, and then was given a $1 million check on cardboard about one by two feet.

Annis Stukis, general manager of the Winnipeg Jets, called Hull's jump to the WHA the "biggest sports story of the last 10 years."

Stukis said the deal totals "somewhere around $3 million, give or take a couple of hundred thousand." Included is a five-year playing contract for the 33-year-old Hull, and a provision for him to then go into management.

"If and when that happens," Stukis said, "Bobby expects to move to Winnipeg and settle down."

The signing today was to end six months of negotiations between the Jets and Hull, who has scored 604 career goals in 15 NHL seasons, second only to Gordie Howe's total of 786.

"It's the biggest sports story of the last 10 years," Stukie said. "It's comparable to the signing of Mickey Mantle."

Hull's brother, Garry, already has signed a one-year contract with the Ottawa Nationals of the WHA, but brother Denis remains with the Black Hawks.

Bobby has expressed disenchantment with the Black Hawks in the last two years, and his four-year, $150,000 contract with them expired this year. Further, his signing with the Jets would give him an opportunity to return home to Canada, where he began his hockey career with St. Catherines, Ont., of the Ontario Hockey Association.

Suburban To Play LeBlanc Tomorrow

Suburban Auto Repair of San Rafael will play a softball doubleheader against the powerful LeBlanc Barons of Sunnyvale tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at Albert Park in San Rafael.

LeBlanc includes several players who have previously starred in world tournaments, and the team is considered a contender for the world title this year.

OLYMPIC TRIALS FOR 5 MARINITES

Five Marin County race walkers will compete in the U.S. Olympic Trials, which begin Thursday at the University of Oregon in Eugene.

The quintet consists of Tom Dooley, Goetz Klopfer and Bill Ranney, all teachers at San Rafael High School; Jerry Lansing, a student at San Rafael; and Steve Lund, a San Rafael resident.

The 20-kilometer qualifying will be held Saturday and the 50-kilometer qualifying next Tuesday.

Torre Sustains Lead On All-Star Ballot

NEW YORK (UPI)—With ballots from fans continuing to pour in and nearing the one million mark after three weeks, Joe Torre of the St. Louis Cardinals remained the biggest vote-getter in the National League for the honor of playing in the All-Star game in Atlanta, July 25.

Surprisingly, the fans seem to have passed up the players with the highest batting averages since none of the leaders in the balloting at any position are presently among the top ten batters in the league.

Some Jurists Show Return To Reality

Court decisions often leave us feeling like we have been listening to a conversation from the Mad Hatter's tea party. Seeking to thread their own ideas of social planning through a maze of legalities, learned judges sometimes produce rulings which have little relation to common sense or reality.

Of late, however, we have seen some encouraging signs of down-to-earth common sense breaking through. We commented yesterday on one such decision, in which Judge Joseph Karesh of San Francisco Superior Court simply read the law and took it to mean what it said.

THE U.S. SUPREME Court (which has produced its share of Alice in Wonderland decisions) also seems to be regaining a grasp on reality — or at least, a majority of the justices do.

We were struck particularly by the court's finding last week in one case which failed to make the headlines.

A convicted murderer had appealed on the grounds that a confession which had been obtained unconstitutionally had been used in his trial.

By 5-to-4 vote, the high court refused to overturn the conviction. The reason cited by the court's majority was that there had been ample evidence to convict without using the disputed confession.

In other words, the guilty shall not be set free because of a legal error which did not affect the finding of guilt.

This is common sense. This is returning the law to the uses of justice, instead of courtroom game-playing.

UNFORTUNATELY, this application of common sense to the law does not seem to have permeated to the California District Court of Appeal in Sacramento.

That court last week freed Michael L. Alford, accused of burning an American flag on the state capitol steps, because it held the law under which he was charged is unconstitutionally broad.

The statute, noted retired Judge Fred R. Pierce, who presided for the case and wrote the decision, defines a flag to include "every picture or representation" of a flag. That, he said quite reasonably, could apply even to a decal on a car window — which the owner might want to scrape off some time.

We cannot argue with Judge Pierce on that. We agree the law is too broad.

But Michael L. Alford was not charged with scraping a decal off a car window. He was charged with desecrating the United States flag by burning it on the steps of the state capitol. And that desecration was declared legal by the appelate court ruling.

Scaring Birds

Birds are generally considered an asset in Marin gardens, but in the lettuce and berry patches and certain other places they can be a nuisance. Many kinds of devices have been used to try to frighten birds. All kinds of loud noises, bright lights, scarecrows, amplified distress calls of the birds themselves, electric shocking devices, chemical repellants — all have been tried with varying degrees of success.

If all else fails, we can resort to wire or plastic.

SACRAMENTO SCENE

Assembly Violates Law To 'Save Environment'

By EARL G. WATERS

In an amazing display of speed, the Assembly whipped up an Environmental Protection Act and passed it through its first hurdle, the policy committee, before the ink was dry.

It was better than that. The bill wasn't even available for the public to read before it had been approved by the committee.

To appreciate this unusual alacrity it must be realized the passage of legislation is supposed to follow the State Constitution. Article 4, Section 8 of that document provides: "No bill other than the budget bill may be heard or acted on by committee . . . until the 31st day after the bill is introduced."

Additionally, the Assembly rules require notice of all bills set for committee hearing must be published in the daily file and "two full days . . . shall intervene between the day of first publication and the day upon which the bill is heard."

THE MEASURE in point, AB 2376, was introduced in the Assembly on June 14. Less than 48 hours later it was reported out of the Committee on Natural Resources and Conservation. This action took place at 8:30 a.m. Copies of the printed bill were not available to the public until 10 a.m., fully 90 minutes after it had been "heard" and approved by the committee.

No notice of the bill being set for hearing ever appeared in the daily file. Few among the press, the lobbyists or the public knew of the hearing.

The bill is the product of months of labor by Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg, D-Sacramento, and weeks of negotiations between him and the administration forces. It has the blessings of the governor and the Sierra Club. It may be a very good bill.

Regardless of its merits and the good intentions of its author, the governor and the Sierra Club, the trampling over of the Constitution and Assembly rules hardly seems warranted.

EVEN THE BILL'S author was apologetic about the fast action. "We had to do it," Z'berg said, "because Speaker Bob Moretti said all bills had to be clear of policy committees before the session met today (Friday, June 16)."

Moretti's zeal in expediting the Assembly's work comes a bit late. The Legislature has been in session for more than five months. During most of this time he has permitted the Assembly to meet three days a week. He has tolerated intolerable absences of the members from the floor and from committee. Now, with a target of a July 7 recess, he is stampeding legislation through.

The whole idea of legislative process, spelled out in the Constitution and legislative rules, is one of due consideration to give adequate time for the public to study proposals and to have the opportunity to express its views.

Moretti's mandate for swift action exhibits an unpardonable ignorance of the responsibilities of the Legislature or an outright contempt of the public's rights in the process of legislation.

THE MONUMENTAL size of his disregard, in this instance, of the public can be fully realized only when all of the facts are known. The bill would create a new superagency to control environment. In so doing it abolishes five existing agencies, adds 136 sections of law, amends 67 others, and repeals nine sections. These provisions affect 11 law codes and fill 80 pages of the bill.

It would take a battery of lawyers weeks to fully understand the provisions and all of their ramifications. The gross unfairness to the public in giving committee approval to so complicated a bill before it is even in print seems inexcusable.

'Remember When' Brings Back Unhappy Incident

Thought you might like to know that your "Remember When" column under "20 Years Ago" on the editorial page of the June 22 issue of the I.J. did indeed make me "Remember When." That story cost me some $200 and to almost be kicked out of the USAF even though I was some 7,000 miles away when it was originally printed. The story referred to a Cpl. Leonard Pratt of Hamilton AFB who had confessed to attempted extortion of attorney Vince Hallinan's family.

Several months prior to that item, I had co-signed a note with a local bank so that Corporal Pratt, who worked for me, would have sufficient funds for a "hardship" leave due to family problems at his home (in N.Y., I believe). I was shortly assigned to duty in Germany and had forgotten the entire incident when, in June of 1952, I was advised by the bank that Pratt was in jail for the Hallinan incident plus an attempt to extrot funds from "Horsetrader Ed" Shapiro, the S.F. used car magnate, and that I would have to pay off the loan at once, in full —this on a second lieutenant's pay yet!

I wrote to the bank asking them to attempt to secure any funds that Corporal Pratt might have available, assuring them that I would pay off whatever remained on the balance of the loan.

Another letter came from the bank and only after reading part of it did I realize that it was not addressed to me but "To the Commander of" and then to my name and address. Fortunately for me, some postal clerk had also missed that line and delivered the letter to me. The letter advised "my commander" that I had "refused" to pay off the note I had co-signed and asked him to take appropriate action (in those days, this would have been cause for my dismissal from the service, a fact that the bank was surely familiar with as they had a branch at HAFB and dealt with the military all of the time).

Needless to say, I sent a check for the full amount by return mail. I learned two things from this incident — I have never again co-signed a note nor done business with that particular bank.

Picture Story Of Bird Delightful News

Congratulations! Your lead story on the front page on 21 June was what a lot of us needed — good news that there really is a little love in our lives. Eight columns featuring the little mother bird threatened by progress but respected in her plight was truly a humane delight. The photography was quite a feat, Mr. Kean — but the joy was not "strictly for the birds" but for a lot of readers of the I-J.

Chamber, Council Act Only When Forced

The chamber of commerce approved amending the Corte Madera zoning ordinance to lower density only after a recall of Mayor Norville was under way. They then passed a resolution opposing the recall.

Does this give you an idea of where the chamber of commerce and the town council of Corte Madera stand?

They will only act on high density when forced to by a recall.

Many Support Fight For Right To Know

In a comforting assumption that I may speak for many, please accept our compliments and appreciation in your untiring battle for freedom of press and the public's right to know, one right that is mandatory for the survival of the processes of democracy.

Editors are in fact becoming our strongest line of public defense against the Caesar complex of bureaucratic secrecy, double dealing, and pork barrelism, wheresoever it exists in public office.

Be assured you are solidly supported in your efforts regardless of what may seem to be an enigma to you, public apathy. Perhaps our apathy would be more aptly called frustration.

Nixon Can't Keep To High Road If Associates Take The Low

It is hard to believe that any sane Republican politician would have authorized the effort to wiretap and spy upon the Democratic National Committee's offices in Washington.

The most plausible hunch is that the group of CIA alumni and Cuban exiles cooked up the scheme on their own, hoping to sell the results to Republican officials later on. If this is true, it exhibits a rather familiar kind of spy and exile phobia. People get that way.

Of course, an even more intriguing hunch would be that they were trying to help the Democrats, which they certainly did.

THE NIXON CAMPAIGN cannot stand many episodes of this sort. Already the images of wiretapping, of secret deals with big business, of misleading rhetoric, of fancy propaganda and manipualtion of opinion, are altogether too rife.

And, conversely, the image of Sen. George McGovern as a simple, straightforward open-faced minister's son continues to build despite the frequent changes and retractions in his public positions. He even seems to enhance an impression of candor by admitting past mistakes.

The problem President Nixon has had to face since his earliest political days was that of over-zealousness. Down through the years, from the days of his campaign fund provided by affluent friends and the Checkers speech, he has had a lot to explain. Perhaps much of this is plain bad luck, and shrewd propaganda against him. Most politicans have had campaign funds provided by affluent friends. Mr. Nixon has indeed been the target of a lot of ideological and personal political attack.

But the fact remains, it seems to me, that not the least of the major campaign factors which will be decisive in November is the image he presents to general public opinion, compared to the image of his probable opponent. That is why an episode like the break-in at the Democratic National Committee's office is particularly damaging even if it is fully and satisfactorily explained.

PRESIDENT NIXON and his advisers will have to consider their campaign tactics very carefully. Can they successfully carry water on both shoulders? That is to say, can the President campaign loftily as that Great White Father, skillfully conducting world programs of pacification, while his associates, such as Vica President Agnew and his campaign manager, John Mitchell, go after Senator McGovern with tooth and claw?

Some people think it is going to be a very dirty campaign, with Republican hatchet men fiercely attacking McGovern as the candidate of "pot, amnesty, and abortion."

I do not believe they can have it both ways. I do not believe both kinds of campaign can be waged successfully at once.

If Mr. Nixon restrains his oft-attributed "instinct for the jugular" and campaigns as world leader, it seems to me he will have far better results. But he will get a lot of contrary advice.

SENATOR McGOVERN'S public positions, as hitherto expounded, are sufficiently vulnerable as not to need the low-road type of campaigning. Moreover, if personal images are important, Mr. Nixon would only hurt himself by donning the old image and abandoning his great opportunity to run as President.

Mr. Nixon must keep his associates under control. If any of them were involved in supporting the raid on Democratic national chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien's offices, they should be sternly rebuked. And they must be more scrupulous in the future.

There also is an impression, fostered by recent testimony of Air Force officers concerning unauthorized bombings in Vietnam, that command control is none too good in Washington.

If such indiscipline and fanatical zeal infiltrates the law enforcement system, we are in for bad trouble. Above all, it has no place in political warfare.

I am not naive; I know dirty tricks have been played by henchmen in both political parties for a long time. Sometimes they may have worked. Usually they are dismal and fatuous failures.

If President Nixon's campaign emulates Caesar's wife, he will be the big beneficiary.

Kennedy Will Sit It Out To Benefit Of Sen. McGovern

WASHINGTON — The efforts of prominent and well-heeled Democrats to sidetrack George McGovern with a moderate center candidate have all but run out of steam. The McGovern sweep in New York, with the attraction it holds for wavering delegates not anchored to one of the also-rans, is a clincher.

Lingering hope had fixed on the possibility of a draft of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy. This, too, has faded. Kennedy has said he will not be on the ticket this year either as No. 1 or No. 2.

This report is convinced Kennedy will continue to say no regardless of how he may answer hypothetical questions about his duty to his party and the plea that only he can defeat Richard Nixon. There are many reasons why this should be so. That at the age of 40 he can afford to wait it out is perhaps the principal reason. If he should wait through four presidential elections he would still be younger than Sen. Edmund Muskie, who at 58 is not an ancient.

ANOTHER REASON is evidence that the Republican National Committee is compiling a record on the tragedy of Chappaquiddick that runs to several volumes. While Kennedy's staffers discount this and the senator himself has dismissed it by saying that a campaign could not be based on merely repeating the details of a tragic accident, revival of the tragedy in which a secretary, Mary Jo Kopechne, was drowned would be painful for the members of his family.

While the bugging foray at Democratic National Committee headquarters was a disaster, Republican investigators have come up with what is in the Republican view a blockbuster. It is the secret report of the grand jury that, under the prodding of Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis, investigated the Chappaquiddick accident.

After hearing several witnesses the jury reported thatit found no grounds for a criminal indictment. An inquest into Miss Kopechne's death had been held and the proceedings subsequently made public. They were put into a booklet that was widely sold at $1.25. Dinis insisted that the case be reopened with an autopsy. This was denied by Chief Justice G. Joseph Tauro of the Massachusetts Superior Court. Having pleaded guilty to the charge of leaving the scene of an accident, Kennedy was given a two-month suspended sentence, the minimum penalty under Massachusetts law.

The grand jury transcript would show little more than what was developed at the inquest, according to members of Kennedy's staff. Moreover, it is illegal to publish such a record. If it were leaked out, however, prosecution would be unlikely.

By 1976 Chappaquiddick would be a very old story. With his able staff, Kennedy could rack up a favorable record in the Senate with issues such as medical care and others that touch the mass of voters. If McGovern should be elected, the Kennedy prospect would go over to 1980, when he would be 48.

But with his sure feel for politics — his brother, John F. Kennedy, once said that Teddy had a better political instinct than anyone in the family — the senator from Massachusetts knows which way the wind is blowing. Running against an incumbent President is always tough. The party is in disarray and this does not look like a Democratic year.

AS ONE ELDER statesman, who put a lot of money on Sen. Edmund Muskie and is now writing off his stake, sees it, a reelected president Nixon will face very hard sledding. A lot of gas is being fed into the economic balloon to get through November. This may help lower unemployment so that by October it could be down from just under six per cent to just under five per cent. But it could also stoke up inflation, which is already threatening to break out in a new round of higher food prices. Wage-price control has been largely cosmetic and the new year will see rampant demands for higher wages to keep up with rapidly rising prices. This is the "mess in Washington" that a Democratic president would inherit. So leave it to Richard Milhouse.

Kennedy did not run as a delegate because he was determined to stay out of the shot and shell at Miami Beach. The present intention is to follow the proceedings on television at the Kennedy compound on Cape Cod. That should be a safe distance from vain calls for a draft.

Budget Hearings Were More Fun When The Public Attended

Whether the taxpayer believes it or not, city councilmen work hard and long to trim budgets, and it is a tedious job, checking items down to post hole diggers in public works.

By and large, the going is dull, with council and staff huddled in an otherwise empty room, with deadly columns of figures to scan.

IT WASN'T THAT way in the days before television, when the residents of Wispy Willow, a community that vanished when they cut down the willow tree, attended budget hearings for entertainment.

According to the minutes discovered in the trunk of the old tree, the town once had a budget hearing that ended when the local constable called in the cavalry.

The trouble began when the mayor, Sudden Sam Swifty, who also served as city treasurer, urged that the entire budget he devoted to covering the short-ages in the city treasury.

"First, your honor, I think you should fix the road down by my place," a farmer said. "I've lost three wagon wheels and two loads of hay in the past week on account of those ruts."

"Well," the mayor replied, "we might be able to do something if you provide the gravel, dedicate some land for drainage and widening, and keep the road up in your spare time."

"If you take any more of my land, I might as well farm the roadway and give you the farm for the road," the farmer said.

"WHY DON'T WE just put another $100 in the budget to cover it?" said a councilman who happened to be the farmer's brother.

"You're a big spender around here, but you're a regular miser around the house," said a woman who happened to be the councilman's wife.

"I can't even get you to appropriate for a new bucket for the well, and I'm telling you I'm sick of going up and down on that rope with a dipper."

The mayor rapped his gavel and ruled arbitrarily that relatives of councilmen wouldn't be allowed to speak, thereby cutting off freedom of speech to half the audience.

"Hey dad," a youth yelled to the mayor, "you promised me that if I didn't tell about that trip you made to Zanesville last summer, you'd push through the money for a new baseball field."

"You're out of order," the mayor replied. "You've been out of order since the day you were born. I've been meaning to get that kid fixed."

AN ELDERLY MAN arose and said somberly: "Ladies and gentlemen, the sad fact is that crime is rampant in our town, especially among our younger folks. Last week alone four outhouses were overturned and my horses were scared by firecrackers. I think we need another constable."

"I see no need to double our police force," the mayor said, "but perhaps we could put something in the budget to buy the constable a longer club."

"Those deluxe clubs cost $1.75 and I don't think the problem justifies that kind of expenditure," said Councilman Hiram Barn, who believed the town was overspending.

"Let's buy the constable a uniform that shines in the dark. That should cut down the night pranks about 50 per cent" said Councilman J.S. Scuttle, who ran the general merchandise store.

"I wouldn't go for that," replied Barn. "There's $1.50 down the drain right there and it wouldn't be of any benefit in the daytime."

"Gentlemen, we're nitpicking, the mayor said. "Let's get down to the major capital improvement project, building a new house for the mayor."

"Not until you pay for the old one," said a builder in the audience.

"YOUR LICENSE FEE was just doubled," the mayor retorted, and fist fights started between the pro-mayor and anti-mayor forces.

After the riot was quelled by the cavalry, one resident commented, "You ain't seen anything yet. That was just the preliminary budget."

New Call For Transit Funds

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California will fall far short of meeting its transportation needs during the next two decades unless massive new government funding is forthcoming, according to a comprehensive state study.

The seven-volume report prepared by the state Business and Transportation Agency estimated California will need $57.6 billion to meet its transit needs between now and 1990.

The greatest need in the next 17 years is for additional streets and highways worth $37.6 billion, the recently completed study said. But it also called for $14.8 billion in urban transit.

ART BUCHWALD

Supreme Court Ruling Robs Washington Of Status Symbol

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court's decision which ruled that the Justice Department could not bug or wiretap anyone without court approval has put a pall on Washington.

In a town where status symbols are essential, being bugged by the Justice Department was the highest honor the government could bestow on one of its citizens. It meant the person was important enough to warrant surveillance and his work was so meaningful that the FBI was worried about him.

One of the biggest gambits of a lawyer or lobbyist in Washington has been to say to the client, "We'd better not discuss this on the phone, I think my line is tapped."

The client would be immediately impressed and the lawyer or lobbyist would then double his fee.

A wise correspondent would call his editor and say, "Jeff, pass the word at the paper that if anyone at the office has anything important to say, not to call me at home. They've got me bugged. They're furious at the White House about the story I did on urban development, and I hear the word is out to find out who leaked it. If I have anything important to report, I'll call you from a pay phone."

Most militant protest groups are disturbed by the Supreme Court ruling.

Sam La Barbe, the leader of the Students' Committee Against Students, told me, "The Supreme Court took all the fun out of protesting. We used to sit for hours making obscene phone calls to friends telling Nixon, Agnew, John Mitchell and Kleindienst where to go. Now it's hardly worth the dime."

AT COCKTAIL parties almost everyone in Washington talked about being bugged. This is how the conversation would go:

"Helen, when I called you yesterday, I hadthe most terrible connection."

"Yes, everyone is complaining about it. Charles told me last night that he heard they had a 24-hour tap on his line and it was weakening the circuit."

"Why would they want to tap Charles? He's certainly a small fish in this town."

"I resent that remark, Ethel. Charles has a very important job as far as the authorities are concerned, and we've been tapped for over a year. When was the last time anyone tapped William's telephone?"

"We've been tapped through three different administrations."

"You made that up. Who cares what William has to say?"

The host would then interject, "I wish you girls wouldn't talk so loud. I know someone has planted a bug in the chandelier."

IT WAS SO important to be tapped in Washington that it is rumored many people used to install their own bugs in the wall and show them to friends as the real thing.

I know one columnist who always insisted we walk in the garden when we talked about anything, as he claimed all his paintings had been wired by the FBI.

It's going to be hard in Washington to find something to replace the status of being bugged or wiretapped. The only answer is that since the government can't do it, private industry will have to take over.

This could, in effect, be what the bugging attempt of the Democratic National Committee was all about. Thanks to the five men who were caught trying to bug the Democratic headquarters, the Democrats have more status now than they ever had before. Until the incident, no one in Washington had ever heard of the Democratic Party. But since the incident, its prestige has risen and, for the first time, the Democrats are being taken seriously in 1972.

Coastline Control Bill Killed In Committee

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A local government-oriented coastline control bill opposed by major conservation organizations was killed Monday by the Senate Finance Committee by one vote.

The committee's action left only one major coastline protection bill still alive. It's chance for approval this session is rated at virtually zero.

That measure, by Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills, is pending on the Assembly floor. But a similar proposal previously was defeated by the Senate Natural Resources Committee.

The Carpenter bill creates a 15-member state board to draft and implement a comprehensive land use plan for the entire coast from three miles offshore to three miles inland.

In contrast to the Sieroty measure which establishes regional government agencies to restrict development of the coast, the Carpenter bill leaves the planning functions of city councils, boards of supervisors, special districts and planning commissions unchanged.

Each coastal county would develop its own set of standards for development of the coast within its jurisdiction and submit it to the state board which would adopt a standardized state plan.

The proposal is supported by the County Supervisors Association and the California Real Estate Association.

Railway Good For Income

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am an 80-year widow living on Social Security and $900 yearly income. I hold 100 International Harvester, 50 Southern Railway and 50 Union Pacific, all on the New York Exchange. I get less than 4 per cent return on these stocks and wonder if I'd be better off in bank bonds. My rail shares have been held 20 years, International for 12 years. — B.H.

A. Your three common stocks worth about $11,000 pay $400 in dividends annually, a return which could easily be improved. I would not, though, advise selling all your holdings at this juncture. Southern Railway will split its shares 2-for-1 early in July. Earnings have been particularly strong, up 22.5 per cent in the March quarter — as a result the quarterly rate was raised from 75 to 80 cents a share. These shares should be retained. Sale of Union Pacific and Inter. Harvester would release about $6,000 for the purchase of bank bonds. These obligations, generally yielding about 7 per cent would add $180 to your income.

Q. What is a three-for-two stock split? This was mentioned for Season-all Industries. — C.C.

A. This manufacturer of aluminum combination windows and doors will pay shareholders three new shares for each two currently held. Holders of record June 12 will receive the split shares after the June 28 payment date. Instead of holding 200 shares trading at $20 each, you will hold 300 worth $13.33. In each instance, your principal in these ASE-listed shares remains unchanged at $4,000.

The split should prove beneficial to shareholders since the floating supply of stock is less than 259,000 shares. The company president controls 37% of the common. March quarter sales set a record for that period at $2.68 million.

The $33,000 deficit was half that of the previous year's first quarter, traditionally an unprofitable period in the building industry. A significant improvement over the $1.35 per share profit of 1971 is looked for this year.

Market Weak; Prices Are Mixed In Early Trading

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market showed little strength Tuesday as prices turned mixed around noon after some early firmness. Trading on the New York Stock Exchange was moderate.

Shortly before noon, the Dow Jones industrial average of 30 selected blue-chip stocks was off 0.15 at 936.26. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index was up 0.23 at 107.71.

Advances led declines by a narrow 617 to 504 among 1,519 issues across the tape. Turnover during the first two hours amounted to more than 5,420,000 shares.

Investors' eyes were riveted on Europe where finance ministers said they have put up the money to rescue the U.S. dollar and Italian lira in an attempt to offset the effects of Britain's decision to allow the pound to float. The results of the activity will not be known until Wednesday when money markets reopen.

Meanwhile, the actions have thrown caution into the stock market. Fears still persist an international monetary crisis is at hand with the Smithsonian agreement in danger.

Airline Loses

NEW YORK (BW) — American Airlines Inc. has reported a net loss of $3,365,000, or 12 cents per share, for May.

Payless Drug Store Will Close; Under New Name Next Month

Payless Drug Store, located in downtown San Rafael for 25 years, will close up shop on Friday, to be replaced sometime next month by Merrill's Drugs.

Robert T. Gray of Novato, owner of Payless Drug stores in San Rafael and in Napa, said he will retain his Napa store which he has owned for 14 years. Gray's two stores are separate and independent from the large Payless chain headquartered in Oakland.

The Payless chain, which is about to open a large new store at Northgate Mall near the new Sears store, will take over the Payless name from Gray's San Rafael store. Gray said the Payless chain will also buy the existing inventory from his San Rafael store at 866 Fourth Street. The store was formerly at 1122 Fourth Street for eight years and moved to the present location 17 years ago.

James D. Reese of Kentfield, general manager of Merrill's Drugs and Discount Centers, said his drug store will open probably in late July. He has not yet named the manager for his new San Rafael store.

Merrill's Drugs, founded in 1940 by Reese's father, the late W. Merrill Reese, has three stores in San Francico and one each in downtown Vallejo and downtown Napa. The San Rafael store will be the sixth in the chain.

Merrill's Drugs in San Rafael will be open seven days a week from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. It will have liquor, cosmetics, photo department, toys, pharmacy, vacation and sporting goods, hardware and small appliances, and other drug and discount merchandise.

AIR EQUIPMENT Hydraulic, located in San Francisco for the past four years, will move to San Rafael about the first of next month.

Robert (Dirty Old Bob) Jones of Santa Venetia, who owns the company with partner Jack Bullock of Petaluma, said they decided to move to San Rafael because "we got tired of commuting." Jones and Bullock repair and sell air compressors and hydraulic equipment.

Their new San Rafael location will be in the same building as Deming's Marin Tire and Brake at 666 Irwin Street. Air Equipment Hydraulic will be open five days a week from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

ROBERT C. BUTLER, formerly general manager of Home & Land Co. of Marin County, has opened his own real estate firm, known as The Robert Butler Company, at 50 Mitchell Boulevard, Northgate Industrial Park.

Butler operates a general brokerage business.

NIGHT LIFE coming to the quiet community of Stinson Beach?

No, not exactly. But beginning this weekend, the stores at Stinson Beach will stay open until 9 p.m. each Saturday for the convenience of shoppers.

In the past, the stores have all closed about 5 p.m. or shortly thereafter, so that visitors who spent Saturday afternoon at the beach could not shop in the evening.

Stinson shops that will be open Saturday nights include a crafts shop, art gallery, book store, bike shop, antique shop, and a grocery store. The Sand Dollar Restaurant, operated by Kenneth Rand, is open four nights a week, Thursday through Sunday.

NORMAN HART of San Rafael has been appointed manager of Roos-Atkins' Market Street store in San Francisco.

With the company for three years, Hart was department manager and assistant store manager of the Stanford store and manager of the store at Northgate Mall.

J. WENTWORTH FOSTER of Mill Valley was promoted to assistant vice president of the Oakland main office of United California Bank.

He joined United California Bank in 1969 in San Francisco and was appointed assistant manager. He was also assistant manager of the San Rafael office before his present assignment.

A HELICOPTER will land at Northgate Mall parking area near Sloane's Friday morning to give a day-long demonstration of a helicopter-ambulance service offered by a new Oakland firm.

The demonstration will be presented from 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. by a firm called AIDS (Alert Identification Directive Service Inc.) Those who pay for membership in AIDS will get heli-ambulance service when needed and other service to bring quickest transportation available from the place of emergency to the nearest available hospital equipped for the emergency.

Shirley Angel of San Anselmo, who opened the shop last month, is a painter and an art instructor. She gives lessons every day at any hour convenient to the student. Mrs. Angel studied art under Nevin Kempthorn and has 12 years of experience in the field.

Her shop carries picture frames, gifts, original oils, and a complete line of art supplies including Windsor Newton paint. The shop is open Tuesday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

THREE MEMBERS of the Equitable Life Assurance Society office in San Rafael recently attended the company's national leaders conference in Hollywood, Fla. They are Russell C. Troup (district manager), Alan Birch, and Paul L. Thurston. Alder A. Henrie also qualified but could not attend.

ALDO NICCOLAI of San Rafael has been appointed representative in San Rafael for the sales organization of Investors Diversified Services (IDS), the Minneapolis-based financial institution.

Niccolai will distribute shares of six mutual fund companies. He will work out of the San Francisco divisional office. He served as a major in the United States Army before joining IDS.

CENTER OF STRUGGLE — A 3-week-old fawn is the center of a battle between its keeper, Mrs. Darryl Crubley of Griffin, Ga., and Georgia game and fish officials. She wants to keep the deer; officials say she cannot.

(UPI Telephoto)

Georgia Woman Wants Her Candy-Loving Fawn

GRIFFIN, Ga. (UPI)—A 3-week-old fawn that sleeps with a protective dachshund, drinks Coca-Cola and eats peppermint candy is the center of a struggle between its keeper, who wants it for a pet, and state game and fish officials.

The fawn now lives at the home of Mrs. Darryl Crumbley, who took it in after "a friend of mine was harvesting a field, cutting wheat, and almost ran over him with a combine. I can't give the friend's name because it's illegal to take a deer. The deer still has scars on his face where he was cut."

The trouble is that state officials won't give Mrs. Crumbley, who already has three children, six goats, four cats, four dogs and a wild turtle, a permit to keep the fawn.

State law makes it illegal to "hold or possess birds or animals for the purpose of propogation or pets" without first obtaining a state permit.

"We're not granting any new permits," State Game and Fish Director Jack Crockford said Tuesday.

"We now issue permits only for public facilities like zoos and for the University of Georgia, which has a wildlife disease study program," said Crockford.

But attempts to take the fawn away from Mrs. Crockford so far have been unsuccessful.

When Game and Fish Department officials came to her house last week to get the deer, after refusing her application for a permit, Mrs. Crockford packed the little fawn into the back seat of her car., its legs wrapped to prevent it from jumping, and went to see Gov. Jimmy Carter and Lt. Gov. Lester Maddox.

She led it around the state Capitol on a leash and "he wasn't any problem. He thoroughly enjoyed it. He won the heart of everybody at the state Capitol that day," she said.

Though Carter and Maddox were sympathetic, she said, there was nothing either could do. Those matters come under the authority of fish and game officials.

And those officials aren't budging.

Crockford noted that Mrs. Crumbley keeps the deer in an 18 by 6 utility room that he shares with a pet dog, and said of the Cokes and candy, "it doesn't seem like much of a diet to me."

Wild deer become troublesome when they reach maturity, Crockford said, and their keepers "have second thoughts."

"By then, it's too late. If they are released into the wild, they can't take care of themselves.

"They become a real problem, particularly with bucks, and particularly in the fall during breeding season. It's a truly dangerous animal. No matter how gentle they've been, they'll turn on you. No matter how tame you think they are, during the fall of the year they simply cannot be trusted."

CLAIM LAW UNCONSTITUTIONAL

Nude Sunbathers Go To Court

If eight persons charged with nude sunbathing have their way in court, Marin's nudity ordinance will soon be as passe as their bathing suits.

In a petition filed yesterday in Marin Superior Court, the sunbathers asked that their prosecution in municipal court be barred because the ordinance prohibiting exposure of the "private parts" or female breasts on public lands is unconstitutional.

Before the filing, Judge Henry J. Broderick ordered the lower court to stop the case or show cause during a July 6 court hearing why it shouldn't stop the case.

The suit — filed by Mill Valley attorney Bernard S. Strick for the eight arrested on Little Beach near Muir Beach — claims the county ordinance violated their right to free expression, is vague and too broad, denies women equal protection of the law and governs a field taken over by state laws.

"Sunbathing in the nude is a form of expression and communication and as such is entitled to protection under the First Amendment," the suit said. "People who practice nudism are committed to various ideals such as the promotion of health, brotherhood and pacifism, all of which can be expressed by the nude human body."

For example, the suit contends, nude pacifists maintain that war would be almost impossible if soldiers were nude and couldn't tell friend from foe.

Obscenity is not covered by the First Amendment, according to Strick, but nude sunbathing has been ruled not obscene. "The fact that several cliffside inhabitants of the Muir Beach area are able, by craning their necks, to observe nude persons sunbathing on the beach below and to take offense therefrom, does not warrant the infringement of said sunbathers' rights to assemble together and express and communicate ideas," Strick wrote.

He said the ordinance is an attempt to regulate morals, even on secluded private beaches.

The suit maintained that the ordinance numbered 6.76.010 is too broad because it bars nude sunbathing in areas where a person can't be seen — a legal activity — as well as in public.

Furthermore, women are refused the privilege of exposing their breasts, but men are not, a violation of equal protection, according to the suit.

"If such is the portion of the feminine anatomy at which the above ordinance is directed, it is difficult to see why the nipple portion of a man's breast, which is similar if not identical in most cases to that of woman's, is not similarly prohibited," Strick said.

He called banning the bare breast "an archaic remnant of our puritanical past."

He further argued that the state has passed laws governing nudity and left only the governance of nude entertainment to local discretion.

Municipal Court Judge David R. Baty had rejected argument by the eight that, even if they were naked on the beach, there was no valid reason to prosecute them.

He ordered Debbie Irene Martin, Peter Anthony Alongi, Sharon Elaine Hacker, John Francis Witowski, Patricia Jane Barbour Hughes, Gail Ellen Kuric, Clayton Burt Clarkson and Frances Dorothy Wheeler to plead June 26 when he heard the demurrer June 2.

Broderick's order prevents that proceeding.

Alongi, Miss Hacker and Miss Martin were arrested April 27; the rest were picked up May 1.

Action On Outlawing Handguns

The measure, sponsored by Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., was approved by a 12 to 2 vote after the committee turned down by a 9 to 5 vote a rival measure of Sen. Roman Hruska, R-Neb.

Three bills offered by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., to require the registration of all firearms, or the licensing of both long guns and handguns and of only handguns were rejected by one-sided margins.

The handguns used in the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy in 1968 and in the attempted assassination of Alabama Gov. Goerge C. Wallace last month would be banned from sale under the legislation.

The shooting of Wallace during his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination spurred action by the committee of Bayh's bill, which had been lying dormant for over a year.

The only two committee members who voted against approval of Bayh's bill were chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., and Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark.

Hruska supported Bayh's bill after his own proposal, based on standards of safety and reliability for the sale of handguns, was defeated.

Gun-control proponents argued, as they have following the assassination of other political figures, that the Wallace shooting was further evidence of the need for greater restrictions.

But the National Rifle Association, the most visible opponent of restrictions, replied that new prohibitions would not keep guns out of the hands of a determined assassin.

Voting with Hruska for his bill were Eastland, McClellan, and Sen. Strom Thurmond, RS.C., and Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla.

Kennedy's proposal to require registration of all firearms-rifles and shotguns as well as pistols and revolvers, was defeated by an 11 to 8 vote. Voting with Kennedy for it were Sens. John Tunney, D-Calif., and Hiram Fong, R-Hawaii.

Rejected by votes of 1 to 4 were Kennedy proposals first to

By JAY GOODWIN

After months of deliberation, the Tiburon City Council last night authorized an election this fall on a bond issue designed to raise $1.25 million for the acquisition of open space along the Tiburon Peninsula Ridgeline. (Another Tiburon City Council story, page 5.)

The action, which Mayor Albert H. Sennett called "the most important decision the community may ever make," was taken by a unanimous vote of the council.

The council's resoltuion began the legally required 100-day countdown to the election, but did not officially specify the date of the election or the dollar amount of the proposed bond issue.

Both questions will be decided at the council's next meeting July 10.

Though it omitted the $1.25 million figure from its authorizing resolution, the council instructed its bond counsellor to draft the ordinance with that amount included.

According to an estimate by financial consultant Vernon Perry, payments on the proposed bonds would increase the city's tax rate by approximately 29 cents per $100 assessed value. The budget for 1972-73 — which does not include any bond payments — carries a tentative tax rate of 78 cents.

According to Perry's computations, the bonds would cost the owner of a $50,000 home in Tiburon an additional $36 per year.

The first and second Tuesdays in October (Oct. 3 and Oct. 10) as well as election day, Nov. 7, were suggested.

The October dates drew support from those who wished to separate the bond election from a national election day. They speculated that the bond issue would fare better at the polls if it didn't coincide with a presidential vote.

Councilman Branwell D. Fanning suggested that an October election would eliminate the possibility that the Watson Property Tax Amendment — which is on the statewide November ballot — might prevent a bond election until the next municipal elections scheduled for spring of 1974.

Other members of the audience predicted that a bond election on a national election day would help the bond issue. They also argued that a large voter turnout was more democratic, despite the outcome, and that such a date would save the city the cost of a special election.

In addition to indecision on the election date, the council moved no closer to specifying which parcels of open space it intended to purchase.

Fanning, as part of a summary report by the council's lands and development committee, stated, "We can't be terribly specific because we still have to negotiate with the property owners."

According to Perry, the city should expect to pay between $7,000 and $15,000 per acre of open space that it acquires.

While admitting that the $1.25 million bond issue is a large expense for Tiburon, Fanning tossed in a new argument for the bond issue: "A $1.25 million bond issue is a considerable bond issue, no doubt about it, but it would cost this much or more if we had to build another school for the children who might move onto the open space areas we're hoping to acquire."

After passing an authorizing resolution, the council appointed the San Francisco law firm of Orrick, Herrington, Rowley and Sutcliff to serve as the city's bond counsellors.

Councilman M. Carlisle Becker was absent throughout the meeting.

A McGovern Racist Blast

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—Sen. George McGovern stumped the South today to pick up the additional delegate support he needs to win the Democratic presidential nomination and said the administration of President Nixon is racist.

At a news conference before leaving for Arkansas, McGovern was asked if he was trying to imply in his recent statements that the Nixon administration is racist.

"There is no question that this administration is playing on racist emotions in this country," McGovern replied. "The President has done that from the very beginning. That's what the Southern strategy is all about."

At a rally Monday night, McGovern said Nixon's Southern strategy was designed in a "cynical attempt to trick the people of the South into voting against themselves" next November.

McGovern said today Nixon played on racist emotions when he nominated G. Harrold Carswell to the Supreme Court, when he ordered the Justice Department to slow down its enforcement of civil rights cases and "the fantastic efforts of the President" to raise the issue of school busing to one of national importance.

"This whole thing is kind of a cynical play on racism," McGovern said.

Meanwhile, it was learned today that McGovern plans to make a major bid for party unity among old-line party regulars in New Jersey on Thursday night in Atlantic City.

Most of the regulars lost bids to McGovern supporters in the New Jersey primary to be delegates to the national convention. One of Sen. Edmund S. Muskie's supporters, Sen. Har-

Demo Examiner Upholds Bidding To Bar Seating Daly Delegation

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A Democratic Credentials Committee hearing examiner has upheld a challenge to bar seating of Chicago Mayor Richard Daley and 58 other "uncommitted" delegates at the Democratic National Convention, Chicago Alderman William Singer said today.

Singer told reporters "It is almost impossible for me to conceive" of anything but the seating of the 59 delegates challenging Daley by the 150member Democratic Credentials Committee and the full party convention.

Singer, citing excerpts from "findings of fact" by hearing examiner Cecil Poole, said, "We are saying at this point that those 59 are not entitled to seats." Singer is one of the challengers of the Daley delegation.

Copies of Poole's report were not available immediately but the excerpts cited by Singer indicate he found violations in slate-making processes which had produced a gross underrepresentation of women, blacks

North Vietnamese Push Stalls, Attacks Begin On New Front

SAIGON (UPI)—North Vietnamese troops, unable to penetrate the My Chanh River defense line north of Hue, launched big artillery and ground attacks today on the western approach to the old imperial capital.

The South Vietnamese said the attacks were repulsed and that the Communists lost 71 dead against light government losses.

In the air war, U.S. planes flew to within two miles of Hanoi Monday and attacked a major airfield with guided bombs. They also blasted a main thermal plant barely a mile from the center of the port city of Haiphong, also with guided bombs.

The U.S. command said about 100 B52s dumped another 2,500 tons of bombs on Communist positions in Quang Tri Province, north of the defense lines, and that U.S. 7th Fleet ships and hundreds of Air Force, Navy and Marine fighters took up where the B52s left off.

The naval bombardment cost the lives of two American sailors killed when the forward gun mount on the destroyer Benjamin Stoddert blew up from unknown causes. Four other sailors were wounded.

UPI reporter Chad Huntley, reporting from Hue, said the Communists fired more than

$27,000 Goal Reached To Halt Double Sessions

The Petaluma Save Our Schools Committee has promised $27,000 to the Petaluma School District, enough funds to keep schools off double sessions and keep Grant School open.

Committee members said they have received $23,519 in cash and have firm pledges for $3,275 they expect will be received this week. Joyce Shmatovich of the committee said an additional $6,411 in pledges is still outstanding, but they expect the realistic total of $27,000 will finally be collected.

The board of education had previously told the committee that if $27,000 is raised — enough to plug gaps in the budget — they will be able to keep schools on regular single sessions and will not close Grant School as planned.

The committee staged several fund raising events and contacted nearly each parent in the elementary district to raise funds.

Gun-Control Problems Bring Blast By Mandel

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Maryland Gov. Marvin Mandel said today he felt "frustration and anger" at how easily the handgun used in the shooting of George Wallace was bought in Wisconsin and transported to Maryland.

"It illustrates precisely the difficulties states have in regulating the flow of handguns," Mandel said in testimony to the House Judiciary subcommittee supporting federal gun control legislation.

The subcommittee began today the first hearings in the House this year on gun control.

"You can imagine the frustration and anger I felt when evidence developed by the FBI showed that the suspect in the shooting of Gov. Wallace had purchased his handgun in Milwaukee, as easily as if he was purchasing peppermint sticks at the corner candy store, and transported it through any number of states before the sights finally pointed at Gov. Wallace," Mandel said.

"Handguns are a national problem," he said. "The states can only go so far with controls because of their limited authority over the mails and the market place."

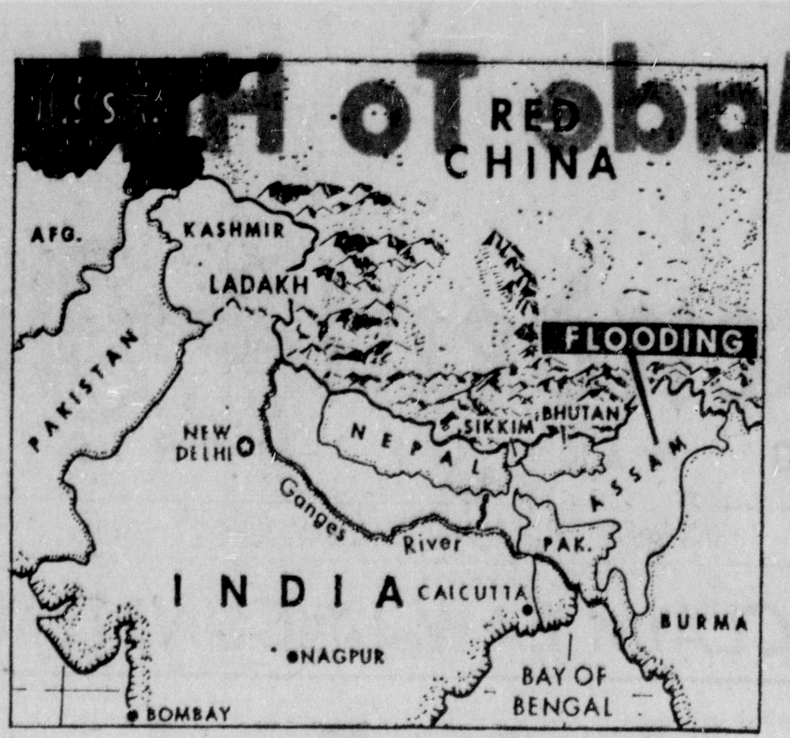
The three days of hearings concentrate on Judiciary Committee Chairman Emansel Celler's proposed registration and licensing bill, which would prohibit the sale of handguns except to police departments, gun clubs and other authorized organizations such as the military.

The Celler bill also would outlaw cheap handguns, called "Saturday night specials," and would require permits and registration for all firearms.

Anyone who owned a handgun could keep it, but could not sell it or buy a new one, although the government would buy it from him if he wished. A registration certificate would be required to purchase ammunition.

The hearings also will consider other similar bills as well as a number of bills to increase penalties under present gun control laws.

The Senate has taken no action on gun control although Sen. Birch Bayh's bill to outlaw Saturday Night specials has been approved by committee.



EAST INDIAN FLOOD AREA

The East Indian state of Assam is shown here where several rivers went over their banks last week following heavy rains. An Indian news agency said as many as 500 persons were washed away, about 250,000 persons have been marooned and 10,000 homes destroyed.

Agnes Fund Action Set In Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Congress has joined President Nixon in an effort to make more federal help available for regions devastated by tropical storm Agnes.

Sens. Hugh Scott and Richard S. Schweiker of Pennsylvania introduced legislation Monday that would provide an additional $200 million in relief funds. A House Banking subcommittee agreed to substantially lower the interest rate on federal disaster loans.

Nixon has signed an executive order declaring five Eastern states disaster areas and clearing the way for government agencies to channel large amounts of money into the states hard hit by flooding.

Ronald L. Ziegler, the White House press secretary, said the Office of Emergency Preparedness (OEP) and 25 other federal agencies involved in the recovery efforts "have direct instructions from the President to provide all federal assistance needed and to do it immediately by cutting through red tape."

Flood Victims Visit Silt-Covered Homes

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (UPI) —Civil defense officials permitted the 145,000 residents of this coal mining region who fled their homes before the floods to return for a brief cheerless homecoming today.

The flooded areas were opened to residents at 9 a.m. Vehicles were barred from the silt-covered, muddy streets because of the open manholes, broken glass and caved-in pavements. ,

Civil defense officials banned smoking because of the possibility of flash fires from ruptured oil tanks and gas lines. They cautioned that rain swollen doors would not close after being opened.

All those who returned, officials said, should leave before nightfall after throwing ruined furniture into the streets for pickup and scouring their sinks with quicklime.

Gen. Frank Townsend, civil defense co-ordinator, was asked, when the people would be able to move back.

Gov. Milton J. Shapp said his earlier damage estimate, "well over $1 billion," was far too low. He said he now thinks the damage will be "well over $1.5 billion."

Overall damage in 10 states hit by tropical storm Agnes was expected to surpass $2 billion and deaths to rise from the 130 reported so far when communications improved in rural areas.

In Pennsylvania, 49 persons perished and 250,000 fled their homes. Among the victims were three television newsmen and a pilot who were killed in a helicopter crash near Harrisburg.

Deaths totalled 24 in New York, 19 in Maryland, 17 in Virginia.

Penn RR Request

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A federal judge said Monday he will rule "as promptly as possible" on the Penn Central Railroad's request to trim the size of its train crews.

U.S. District Judge John P. Fullam took under advisement the railroad's proposal to reduce its current four, five and six-man crews to three men.

Death Is Sentence

MEDIA, Pa. (UPI) — Marilyn Dobrelenski, a 19-year-old mother who confessed to slaying two policemen, was sentenced to death in the electric chair by a panel of three judges yesterday.

Last week, the three judges found her guilty of first-degree murder in the shooting deaths of Delaware State Troopers David C. Yarrington, 24, and Ronald Carey, 29. She and her accomplice, Irving Hoff were robbing a motel in Concord, Pa., when the troopers arrived.

Carey was shot to death before he could draw his revolver and Yarrington died twelve hours later in a Delaware hospital.

New Jet Debuts

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — The F15 jet fighter, which the McDonnell Douglas Corp. is developing for the U.S. Air Force, made its debut yesterday.

The new air-superiority fighter "will out-climb, out-maneuver and out-accelerate any fighter threat in existence or seen on the horizon," said Grant L. Hansen, assistant Secretary of the Air Force, research and development.

The F15, scheduled to become operational by the mid-1970s, received the name "Eagle," when Hansen's wife broke a bottle of champagne over the nose of the aircraft.

Mideast Fighting

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Israel and Lebanon today reported fresh fighting on their joint frontier. An Israeli military spokesman said an Arab guerrilla was killed and three Israeli soldiers wounded yesterday and a Lebanese communique said an Israeli patrol killed a civilian.

The spokesman in Tel Aviv said two guerrillas ambushed an Israeli border patrol northwest of the settlement of Dan. He said one of the attackers was killed, the other escaped and three members of the patrol were injured.

The communique issued in Beirut said an Israeli patrol late Monday night set up an ambush in an area one mile northeast of Jist Abu Dible near the joint border.

Successful Test Of 99th Nuclear Sub

VALLEJO, Calif. (UPI)—The USS Guitarro, the nation's 99th nuclear submarine, has successfully completed its first sea trials with Adm. H.G. Rickover aboard.

Rickover said the nuclear attack sub steamed under full power with satisfactory results Monday both on the surface and submerged.

Bremer Attorneys Seek Dropping Of U.S. Charges

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Attorneys for Arthur H. Bremer have filed six pretrial motions in an attempt to get all federal charges dropped against the accused assailant of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace.

U.S. District Judge Edward S. Northrup set a July 7 date to hear the motions filed Monday by attorney Benjamin Lipsitz, Bremer's court-appointed attorney.

The defense previously had argued similar motions in a state court, contending that federal and state charges overlap and only one court has jurisdiction over the case.

The state has accused him of assault with intent to murder, which would carry the death penalty. His trial is set to begin July 12.

His federal trial is slated to start five days later on July 17. He faces a federal charge of violating a 1968 law prohibiting interference with a candidate for federal office as well as wounding of a federal officer—a Secret Service agent who was one of three other persons wounded besides Wallace.

Bremer is being held at Baltimore County Jail in lieu of $400,000 bond.

Wallace, paralyzed from the waist down, is still at Holy Cross Hospital in Silver Spring, Md., where he was taken shortly after the shooting.

Wallace was formally served a subpena Monday to appear in Prince Georges County Circuit Court in Upper Marlboro, Md., for the scheduled start of Bremer's state trial July 12, but the Alabama governor said he would not be able to do so.

San Rafael Pay Flap May Need Mediator

The San Rafael City Council last night failed to reach an agreement on salary increases for the city's safety employees.

"We presume that the next step will be mediation," said Mayor C. Paul Bettini after a fruitless two-hour session with representatives of the city's police and fire personnel.

The city offered police a 3.5 per cent cost of living increase, but negotiators argued for a 6 per cent increase for patrolmen and a 9.5 per cent increase for sergeants and lieutenants, Bettini said.

Firemen were offered the 3.5 per cent increase plus a two-hour reduction in their 62-hour work week, but they wanted the same as police were asking, he said.

The council did come to an agreement with the city's department heads, administrative and technical employees for the 3.5 cost-of-living increase, and boosted the city clerk's salary by $600 a year.

Asst. City Mgr. William J. Bielser, who now receives $1,300 monthly — was granted a 12 per cent salary increase. Bielser was hired at a minimum rate and has "proven a very adequate oyee," Bettini said.

The council adopted a $5.4 million tentative operating budget in a five-minute open hearing that followed last night's closed session on employee salaries.

$1,500 For Tennis Courts Swells New Fairfax Budget

The Fairfax City Council last night reviewed four portions of its $727,113 budget for fiscal 1972-73 and added a $1,500 item.

At the request of the men's and women's tennis clubs, the $1,500 was added for resurfacing the two city-owned tennis courts. The two tennis clubs agreed to add $500 to the city's share to raise the $2,000 which City Mgr. Robert E. Crowe estimated it would cost.

They left unchanged the $10,600 city council budget. They id not change the $29,787 city administrator budget, but questioned the purchase of a $600 calculator. Crowe was asked to get one for demonstration to the council.

The proposed $20,969 parks department budget and the $18,556 recreation budget were reviewed but not changed.

It was during discussion of the recreation and parks budget that the eight members of the two clubs asked for the resurfacing of the tennis courts. The $1,500 increased to $70,500 the capital improvement portion of the budget.

Councilman Lee Nelder said he knew of cases where adults claiming to be members of the tennis clubs had chased youngsters off the courts so they could use them. The council then asked that the parks and recreation commission review the rules governing the courts.

The council discussed at length whether to spend $128 for portable toilets for the remainder of the summer when permanent ones should be constructed. Crowe reported that bids had not yet been called for on the permanent toilets.

Another lengthy unresolved discussion centered around where to install the garbage cans which the city crew has constructed.

Crowe reported that Pacific Gas and Electric Co. has promsed to install the remainder of the street light poles in the business district, an item that has been hanging fire for more than a year.

The council adjourned to 8 p.m. today at the Fairfax Women's Club either to review the master plan of Gentry Corp. for 19 townhouses on two acres at the west end of the city, or if the developer is not available, to continue budget review.

Marin Suicide Center Plans Crisis Course

More than 200 volunteers have already been trained to staff the center's 24-hour telephone counseling service, according to Richard Reubin, executive director.

Final Report Set By School-Saving Group

The Petaluma Save Our Schools Committee will give a final report on its fund raising campaign at the Petaluma Board of Education meeting at 8 p.m. today.

The committee formed to raise $34,000 to keep schools off double sessions and to avoid closing Grant School. The board will consider what donations have been received in relation to the 1972-73 budget.

The board will also meet in closed session to consider appointing a successor to Sol Fishman who will leave the board July 7.

Ruling Delay On Marinview

After long discussion, the Marin County Planning Commission yesterday postponed decision on the proposed fifth unit of Marinview, a subdivision of single-family residences and townhouses above Tamalpais Valley.

Residents of the first four units of the project, already built atop ridges, apparently have either become disenchanted with the developer or simply object to more dwellings.

More than 200 residents had signed a petition objecting to the 46-unit addition on the grounds of increased traffic, aesthetics and poor soil conditions.

After listening to residents describe slides and natural springs on the property, commissioner Margaret Azevedo said that unless new information showed there were soil problems that couldn't be solved, the project ought to be approved.

"We shouldn't go back on a commitment made by the county" unless there are such problems, she said, noting the board of supervisors had approved the project's master plan some time ago.

It was finally agreed to postpone decision on the matter until the July 14 meeting, when further geological information is to be provided by the county staff.

In other business yesterday, commissioners chided department of public works staff for appealing an action in which the staff itself had not acted within legal time limits. "I don't think a county department ought to be able to appeal its own goof," Mrs. Azevedo said.

The commission then voted unanimously to allow a land division for owners J. L. Schultz and G. C. Rogers on property south of Nicasio Reservoir. The department of public works had objected to the split of the property, about 40 acres, into four large parcels because of inadequate roads.

The department's recommendation for denial, however, had come later than the date when the subdivision, already approved by the planning staff, would have become automatically in effect.

Mrs. Azevedo and other commissioners agreed it would be unfair for county officials not to be bound by an ordinance time limit, the same as anyone else.

In the meantime, it was reported by attorney Joseph E. Sheeks, representing the land owners, that they had agreed to make road improvements.

The Marin County Planning Commission also:

$1.1 Million School Budget Approved

A $1,136,425 tentative budget for 1972-73 was approved last night by Sausalito School District trustees.

The spending program, approximately $50,000 less than this year's, will eliminate one and a half nonteaching positions in the district but will leave the teaching staff unchanged, according to Supt. Lawrence A. Lindberg.

He said representatives of the district's classified employees association appeared in order to protest the move to eliminate the jobs of utility maintenance man and half-time carpenter, saying needed services would be cut.

As adopted, the tentative budget will raise the district's total tax rate by one-half cent, from $2.995 to $3 per $100 assessed valuation. Of the total spending program, $680,217 will be raised through local property taxes, Lindberg said.

The budget, adopted by the board with no major changes, will be the subject of a public hearing in August before it becomes final.

It includes these major expenditures: administration, $62,769; instruction, $650,427; health, $6,033; transportation, $39,626; plant operation, $80,948; plant maintenance, $36,418; fixed charges, $105,400; food services, $15,607; capital outlay, $18,336; outgoing transfers (money paid to other school districts for students who live in the Sausalito district but attend school outside), $58,425; undistributed reserves, $55,436.

Corte Madera Design Board Vacancy Filled

Robert Overstreet was seated last night on the Corte Madera Board of Design, bringing the board to its full three-member capacity.

The Corte Madera Town Council had appointed Overstreet to replace Morgan Griffith, who resigned from the board two weeks ago.

Overstreet, 47, is a partner in the San Francisco architectural firm of Botsai Overstreet Associates. He lives at 326 Summit Drive, Corte Madera.

The design board also reelected William Gilbert, chairman, and Overstreet, vice-chairman. William Thomas is the board's third member.

The board set a special hearing July 5 in town hall to consider plans for the first phase of the proposed Madera Del Presidio development of 128 units on 16 acres. When completed, the planned unit development will include 525 units on a 79-acre plot.

A request to construct a 10-unit multiple dwelling at 5170-88 Paradise Drive was turned down because the area is zoned for single dwelling units. Gilbert recommended that developer Karl Treffinger of San Francisco pursue his application for a zoning change with the planning commission before bringing his plans to the design board for approval.

The board requested Henry Hullett, owner of the North Bay Lumber Co., 25 Clemente Drive, plant trees "harmonious with the overall with the overall tree-plantingplan" previously adopted for San Clemente Drive; approved an application by N. R. Cox of Mill Valley for a day school at 5168 Paradise Drive, and approved a new office building at the corner of Tamalpais Drive and Sierra Street to replace an existing building.

Recall Move Brings Plea By Norville

Corte Madera Mayor Holmes S. (Pete) Norville today called on citizens to refuse to support the threatened recall petition against him.

Norville rejected charges that he supports developers and multiple-density housing in Corte Madera.

The mayor said he had voted to zone the controversial Meadowsweet Station development low-density residential to insure "maximum control over the development."

The 528 units now allowed at Meadowsweet may be reduced during further review, he said.

Norville said he had urged reduction in density for parcels south and north of the rail tracks on Tamal Vista and that he had encouraged the projected 80-acre regional shopping center east of the freeway for the "future economy of the town."

His three-page reply, entitled "Response of Mayor Holmes S. (Pete) Norville to the Petition for Recall," said he had attempted to reach "effective balance" among recommendations of town staff, commissions, consultants and citizens.

Holmes's rejection of accusations brought by those who seek to oust him was delivered just within the seven-day legal deadline for publication in tomorrow's Independent-Journal. The notice of intent to circulate recall petitions appears today.

No further development in the threatened recall movement was reported today by Nancy A. Urbani, town clerk-stenographer.

The recall move is headed by Larry P. Weingarth, president of the Marin Estates Homeowners Association, who has filed with the town clerk a notice of intent to circulate petitions calling for a recall election.

Four Diamond Rings Stolen

Clerk Frank Jereb Jr. said that a man about 22 to 25 years of age came into the store shortly before noon and stood by a display case while he waited on other customers. The man left without being waited on.

About 90 minutes later, Jereb saw a ring on the floor and discovered four others missing from a case, he reported to police.

Horse Steps On Chest Of Rider

Ron Ciffa, 26, of Birch Street, Bolinas, was reported in serious condition today at Marin General Hospital with multiple rib fractures suffered Sunday when a horse stepped on him.

According to Fire Chief Jose Silva of Bolinas, Ciffa was riding toward his barn on Birch Street between Elm and Alder Streets about 1:30 p.m. when the horse veered and he fell off. The horse stepped on his chest directly over his heart.

Bolinas firemen gave Ciffa artificial resuscitation until the arrival of the ambulance, the chief said.

Man Owes His Life To A Cat

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —Richard Trujilla was chasing a cat that had run under a car when he heard a cry of "Let me out of here."

Trujillo opened the trunk of what he thought was an abandoned car and found Franklin E. Radcliff "drenched in perspiration."

Radcliff told police Monday he was the victim of a kidnaping that began 60 miles south of here in Long Beach. He said a man and woman pushed their way into his car at a stop light and stuffed him in the trunk.

About 12 hours later the cat and Trujillo came along to rescue him in Sacramento.

Radcliff said he'd like to find the cat and thank it.

Clearinghouse Boss To Speak

Patrick Heffernan, director of the Environmental Information Clearinghouse, will speak at the Marin Jewish Community Center, San Rafael, at 8 p.m. tomorrow.

The clearinghouse, a Bay Area group, provides "a way for anybody to get in touch with the right person in the right-place for specific facts on an environmental problem," according to Heffernan.

Woman Injured In Car-Truck Accident

Cheryl Harper, 21, of 311 Lakeville Street, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for a head injury suffered in a car-truck accident at 7:45 p.m. yesterday on Petaluma Boulevard North at Corona Road, Petaluma.

The California Highway Patrol said her car collided with a truck driven by Peter Rasmussen, 18, of South San Francisco.

Improvement Project Is Widened

The improvement was to be from Lu Sutton School to Wilson Road, but property owners in the center of the area opposed, and the council decided last week to reduce the project.

At a budget session last night the council agreed to have City Atty. Clark M. Palmer Jr. evaluate a proposal to have the payment for improvements delayed until property was transferred, City Mgr. Charles A. Brown reported.

The council also increased the chamber of commerce allocation from $8,000 to $10,000 and allocated $2,000 toward completion of the Novato prehistory museum.

The chamber had asked for $11,500 and the museum for $4,000. Councilmen also held a closed session on salaries for department heads, which are scheduled to be set at a meeting of the council at 8 p.m. today at the Novato Community House.

require the licensing of both long guns and hand guns and second the licensing of handguns only. Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., voted with Kennedy, Tunney and Fong for these proposals.

Bayh told newsmen that an estimated 2.6 million handguns are sold in this country annually and that his bill would eliminate the sale of about one million of them.

Individuals who now possess handguns that no longer could be sold and dealers and manufacturers having stocks on hand could turn them into the government and be compensated at a reasonable value for the weapons.

The sale of the handguns would still be permitted to law enforcement officers and also to research organizations.

July 31 Study Set For Budget

Homestead Valley Sanitary District directors last night said they will consider a 1972-73 budget at 8:30 p.m. July 31 in Homestead School.

Board President James G. Macnichols said the spending program is expected to be about $30,000, carrying with it a probable increase in the tax rate. He said expenses have been going up in recent years but income has been dropping.

The July 31 date is a change from the board's regular session on the fourth Monday of the month.

Hearing Asked On Phone Rates

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Pacific Telephone Co. has asked the state Supreme Court for a re-hearing on its recent decision to roll back phone rate increases.

The company also asked for a stay in the rollback on rates totalling $143 million a year, so it can appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court against the decision.

The high court on June 9 rescinded the rate hike and ordered refunds to customers, effective July 9.

Pacific said in its application for re-hearing that the court "erred and deprived Pacific of its property without the due process of law guaranteed by the federal constitution."

Car Runs Stop Sign, Petaluma Man Hurt

Lawrence L. Bolan, 23, of 11 Focha Drive, Petaluma, was reported in fair condition today at Community Hospital of Sonoma County with a broken right leg and face cuts suffered in an accident at 2:40 a.m. Sunday on Bodega Avenue at Pepper Road, north of Petaluma.

The California Highway Patrol said Bolan failed to stop his car for a stop sign and it struck an embankment.

and young people on the Daley delegation.

Refusal to seat Daley at the convention would touch off an explosive floor fight. If the Credentials Committee refuses to seat him, the matter would have to be decided at the full convention, provided that 10 per cent of the Credentials Committee sought a floor vote —seen as virtually certain.

"We are asking the Credentials Committee to deny seating of the 59 Daley delegates and seat the challengers," said Singer.

He said Poole had found the Daley organization totally ignored party rules on slatemaking and the representation of women, young persons and blacks in a prolortion roughly equal to their proportion in the state's population.

The platform panel completed action on all major items by midday, then moved on to procedural ground rules for presenting the platform to the convention and other cleanup matters.

A convention floor fight over the platform was assured when the committee supported submission of Gov. George Wallace's proposed planks which were in sharp opposition to those adopted by the committee majority.

The committee adopted a probusing stance after Wallace backers were voted down overwhelmingly in their effort to put the party on record in the presidential campaign as unalterably opposed to busing to obtain racial balance in schools.

But even in the defeat, the Wallace delegation got 16 votes for their position —one more than needed to make it a subject of convention floor debate. Ten per cent (15) of the 150 committee members must favor a minority position to move it to the convention floor.

The committee adopted a plank saying busing must be retained as a method "to eliminate legally imposed segregation." A platform drafting subcommittee had come up with somewhat milder language but the committee approved a stronger position.

A Wallace representative, Fred Folsom, warned the platform writers that the probusing stand would lose votes in November for the Democrats. "Busing of little children around the country, my friends, to achieve racial balance in schools is very unpopular with a vast majority of Americans," Folsom told the committee.

In the closing moments of the long session, the committee rejected Wallace delegation efforts to knock out the platform call for abolition of capital punishment and for outlawing the sale of "Saturday night special" handguns.

Defeated on a 59 to 41 vote was a motion by actress Shirley McLaine, a California delegate, which would have declared that abortion "should be a matter between a woman, her doctor and anyone she wishes to consult including her religious counselor."

The committee, after another heated debate of more than an hour, rejected 54 to 34 a so-called "gay liberation" provision which would have put the party on record opposed to any type of discrimination based on sexual orientation. The original platform drafting subcommittee had included language saying "Americans should be free to make their own choice of lifestyles and private habits without being subject to discrimination and prosecution." That language remained in the platform.

rison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J. arranged the meeting after being called by McGovern.

"Our intention is really focused on the fall campaign," said Rick Stearns, regional coordinator for McGovern. "We'd like to have a united party."

While McGovern campaigned, Vice President Spiro T. Ag Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said Monday night in St. Louis that the Democrat hopeful had indicated he still endorsed the policies of Henry A. Wallace, who as the Progressive party presidential candidate in 1948 called for government ownership of major utilities and some industries. Agnew said McGovern was a delegate to the Progressive party convention.

But two powerful Democrats spoke well of McGovern. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said in New York that McGovern appeared to have the nomination locked up and added he would enthusiastically support McGovern. Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley described McGovern as "an outstanding senator" but declined to say who he was supporting for the nomination.

WAR

2,000 rounds of mortar, artillery and rocket fire at the 13 government outposts west of Hue and that North Vietnamese made heavy battalion-sized attacks (about 450 men) on three outposts.

The North Vietnamese sent large forces against the My Chanh River line in suicidal attacks which were turned back with heavy losses. They also have sent large forces through the A Shah Valley west of Hue and it was these forces involved in today's unsuccessful attacks.

Hue is believed to be the main object of the Communist spring offensive which began March 30 and quickly overran Quang Tri Province just to the north. The South Vietnamese stabilized their lines near the My Chanh River about 20 miles north of Hue.

Huntley said the Communists had hit Hue's western outposts with 4,000 rounds of rockets and artillery fire in the past three days, the heaviest shelling there in almost two months. Some of the probing attacks began Sunday with bigger assaults today.

The main assaults:

—Artillery Post Checkmate, 13 miles southwest of Hue. The Communists hit the base with 700 rounds of fire and then made a ground attack against a 1st Infantry Division battalion defending it. Field reports said North Vietnam lost 45 dead and the South Vietnamese nine killed and 33 wounded.

—Artillery Base Birvingham, seven miles southwest of Hue. Another Communist battalion fired 400 mortar rounds and then attacked the 1st Division defenders. The defenders said they pushed the Communists back, killing 11 and suffering "light" losses.

—Artillery Base King, eight miles southwest of Hue. The Communists fired 310 rounds of recoilless rifle and mortar fire and tried to storm the outposts. They charged to the outskirts of the base, dug into foxholes and began firing with accurate recoilless rifles. They charged again, firing automatic rifles and tossing grenades. They were thrown back with loss of 15 dead and "light" government casualties.

—Artillery Base Bastogne, 12 miles southwest of Hue, and T-Bone, five miles west. The Communists hit the two bases with 450 rounds of rocket and artillery fire. Government losses were reported as "light."

U.S. command spokesmen said the 320 raids Monday over the North included a second consecutive day of attacks on the Xuan Mai military training area 15 miles southwest of Hanoi.

THE SKYJACKER'S WEAPON

A weapon believed used by the skyjacker of an American Airlines plane rests in the hand of an unidentified man at Peru, Ind. Earlier yesterday a farmer found what he thought was a groundhog, but it tunred out to be the pouch containing $500,000 ransom carried by the hijacker who parachuted from the plane four days ago. Meanwhile, FBI agents and airline officials believe the bandit is dead. The identity of the hijacker is still not known. He took charge of the jetliner over the St. Louis area.

Tax Rate To Be Lower For 60 Pct.

For about 60 per cent of Marin County property owners, the county portion of their tax bills in 1972-73 will be lower than this year, County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell said yesterday.

Mitchell said he was misquoted in an article in Saturday's Independent-Journal in which he was reported as saying taxpayers will pay about the same in taxes next year even though the tax rate will be about 17 cents less than this year.

Mitchell explained yesterday that owners whose property was not reassessed this year (about 60 per cent countywide) will actually pay less taxes — at least to the county — next year.

He said the owner of a $40,000 house, for example, will pay about $272 in taxes during 1972-73 as compared to $289 this year. (These figures, of course, do not reflect taxes levied by cities, school and sanitary districts and other taxing agencies in the county.)

For the approximately 40 per cent of the property owners whose land and buildings were reassessed in the annual effort to keep the assessments at approximately 25 per cent of fair market value, the new lower county tax rate will probably not mean lower taxes, Mitchell said. Some will pay about the same and others more, depending on the percentage of their assessment increase.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors Friday adopted a $47.3 million budget for 1972-73. Mitchell estimated this will require a $2.72 tax rate per $100 assessed valuation as compared to $2.89 for the current year.

Pay Hikes Due Firemen, Police

The San Anselmo City Council in closed session last night agreed to give "a great number" of the city's police and fire personnel a 5.5 per cent salary increase on July 1, according to Alfred C. Kaeppel, city administrator-controller.

"Some employees received more, some less," he said, explaining that salary increases in San Anselmo "are probably higher than other cities because our employees haven't received an increase since 1970."

He said that a complete salary schedule will be announced at tonight's city council meeting.

He said that the council tonight would consider park and recreation commission recommendations regarding open space, including the appointment of a citizens' open space committee and a proposed study to analyze the political, legal and economic problems involved with open space acquisition.

The council will also consider the commission's recommendation that the city "rehabilitate" the Corte Madera Creek through gradual acquistion of property along its length. Kaeppel said that the commission felt that creek land purchases would result in an excellent strip park.

Marinwood CSD Directors Cut $2,000 From Budget

The Marinwood Community Services District board last night trimmed $2,000 from a preliminary budget of $257,738 for 1972-73 and knocked two cents off an anticipated tax rate of $1.27 per $100 assessed valuation.

The action came when directors decided to hire a maintenance man at $405 monthly rather than a gardener at $586 monthly, according to Genevieve T. Bolding, district manager.

She said that although the district's spending program includes funds to cover a 5 per cent wage increase for hourly employees, directors took no action on the proposed increase last night.

The board decided to review employees' salaries again at an adjourned budget session on July 12, she said.

Pair Selected For Drafting Ordinance

The San Anselmo Planning Commission last night appointed commissioners John H. Colteaux and Cynthia Barrows, as a committee to draft a horse control ordinance.

About 25 horseowners attended last night's special meeting, but no decision was made regarding control of horses, according to Jeanne Wright, planning secretary.

Subdivision Park Plans Approved

Plans for a five-acre park in the Holiday Park subdivision were approved after revisions last night by the Rohnert Park Recreation Commission.

Recreation Director James Pekkain said the commission approved plans after suggesting the proposed baseball diamond be removed from the park site and relocated on an adjacent school site. Pekkain said the commission hoped the extra acre of land could be used for extensive landscaping to promote more passive activities in the park.

Also included in the plans were a tot lot, wading pool, group picnic area, parking lot, restrooms and storage room. Pekkain said the commission agreed not to name the park, but to wait until the 90 homes are built in the area and to allow the residents to pick a name.

F111 Fighters Cleared Again

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The 215 F111 fighter-bombers of the Air Force's Tactical Air Command (TAC) have been cleared for flying again.

The Pentagon grounded the planes a week ago after two F111s crashed, but it suspended the order Monday. A spokesman said no common cause could be found between the crash June 18 of a plane at Elgin Air Force Base, Fla., and the crash three days later of another F111 flying from Mountain Home AFB, Idaho.

Both crewmen were killed in the Idaho crash. In the Florida crash, both men parachuted to safety.

Horses Booted At Tiburon Church

Shortly after adopting a horse licensing ordinance, the Tiburon City Council last night declared that three horses stabled at the Community Congregational Church were public nuisances and gave their owners 60 days to remove them from the church property. (Another Tiburon City Council story, page 1.)

The horse licensing ordinance was the second of two companion ordinances which enable the city to control the ownership of horses within the city limits. The two ordinances require that all prospective owners obtain use permits and licenses before they may quarter a horse in Tiburon.

A few Belvedere residents who stable their horses in Tiburon asked the council to exempt Belvedere from the ordinance's rigid prohibition against nonresident owners.

The council adopted the licensing ordinance with the ban on nonresidents, but declared their intent to exempt Belvedere residents from the prohibition.

The city staff was instructed to advise the council how it might work out such an exemption.

Having adopted the general ordinance, which becomes effective in 30 days, the council moved to an immediate problem: the three horses at the church.

Several disturbed neighbors of the church property requested the council to abate the horses, while an equal number asked the council to permit the horses to remain.

Realizing it would probably have to listen to a replay of the public hearng on the three horses when their owners apply for use permits and licenses, the council shut off debate after about 30 minutes.

The council then declared the horses nuisances in that they were illegal in RO-2, (multifamily residential) zones.

The Tiburon City Council Also:

SWIMMING POOL — Declared an unfenced swimming pool al 7 Corte Las Casas a nuisance and ordered that the unsafe condition be corrected within seven days.

AVENIDA MIRAFLORES — Rezoned 16.5 acres on Avenida Miraflores, near 4 Hacienda Drive, from single-family residential to single-family cluster zoning at the request of R. B. Ham, who told the council he plans to construct 16 single-family houses on the 16 acres and dedicate the remaining five acres of the parcel as open space to the city.

RESTAURANT — Referred to the lands and development committee the master plans for a restaurant and store building adjacent to the Windjammer Restaurant on Main Sreet. The plans were submitted by Mario Gaidano for Frederick Zelinsky.

OUTGOING SHERIFFS — Approved a resolution of appreciation and commendation of the Marin County Sheriff's Department for eight outstanding years of police protection of Tiburon which will end at 3 p.m. Friday when the new Tiburon police force takes over.

LYFORD DRIVE — Adopted a tentative map for a 10-unit condominium submitted by Michael King for property located at 90 Lyford Drive. The planning commission had previously approved the tentative map request.

SEASONAL PERMITS — Adopted an ordinance which would allow certain seasonal and outdoor uses by temporary use permit in planned development zones.

APPOINTMENTS — Went into closed session to discuss appointments to the city's planning and parks and recreation commission.

MEETING — Adjourned to a regular meeting July 10.

A DAY FOR BIKES

Little Joey Shanahan looks pretty apprehensive as he's followed by Seattle policemen while he pedals down a Seattle street. But Joey, 4, is not in trouble. The police were only patrolling Lake Washington Boulevard to keep it free of cars during "bicycle Sunday," when only bikes were permitted.

Action Delayed On Sewer Charge

Directors of the Tiburon Sanitary District last night postponed action on an ordinance establishing procedures for collecting a new sewer service charge after members of the audience asked for more time to study the proposal.

Director Robert A. Sterling said the proposed ordinance would put the charge on annual county property tax bills, rather than bill directly the district's approximately 4,000 residents.

County billing would save the district approximately $1,800 a year, he said.

The district adopted a sewer service charge in April, according to Sterling. The approved charge is $12 a year for single-family homes and approximately $75 per year for apartment and duplex units, he said.

Eighteen persons attended last night's public hearing on the ordinance to set collection methods.

The board agreed to consider the matter further at its July 10 meeting.

The board praised John McFarlane, district superintendent and plant manager who retired yesterday after 11 years with the agency.

Four Backed For Prevention Panel

The Marin County Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission, after reviewing 21 applications, yesterday recommended to the board of supervisors the appointment of four persons to fill vacancies on the panel.

Leaving the commission are Inspector Gerald Green of the San Rafael police, Natalie Lewis, Rev. James C. Upshaw and Archie Williams.

Paper Says Kissinger Used As Asia Peace Go-Between

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon Papers reveal that Henry A. Kissinger was American contact for two Frenchmen's efforts in 1967 to persuade North Vietnam to move toward peace, the Washington Post said today.

Herbert Marcovich, a French microbiologist, and Raymond Aubrac, his friend, flew to Hanoi on July 24, 1967, for lengthy conferences with North Vietnamese Premier Pham Van Dong, the Post said.

Dong replied that the North Vietnamese wanted a permanent, unconditional end to the bombing, and a withdrawal of U.S. forces. He said Hanoi sought a "broad, coalition government" in South Vietnam rather than necessarily a Communist regime.

The Post said Kissinger met Marcovich and Aubrac in Paris, and his 17-page report was rushed to Washington for high-level meetings involving the White House, the Pentagon and the State Department.

The Post account was based on four volumes of the 47-volume Pentagon study of the Vietnam war that were not published last summer. Most of the so-called Pentagon Papers were published at that time. The Post said it got the four additional volumes from columnist Jack Anderson.

At the time of the Hanoi visit in 1967, Kissinger was a Harvard professor and a foreign policy consultant to New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, then a possibility for the GOP nomination for President. Kissinger now is national security affairs adviser to President Nixon.

The 1967 negotiations, to which the code name "Pennsylvania" was attached, according to the Post, took place at the height of the U.S. buildup in Vietnam.

The Post said that according to the documents, President Lyndon B. Johnson on Aug. 11, 1967, sent a message to Dong via Marcovich and Aubrac. In it he said the United States would be willing to stop the bombing of North Vietnam if it "will lead promptly to productive discussions between the representatives of the U.S. and the D.R.V. (North Vietnam)".

The message was close to the position Johnson took in his San Antonio address several weeks later.

Kissinger gave the message to the Frenchmen in Paris Aug. 17. But the Frenchmen were turned down by Hanoi in their request for a visa to go there. They sought talks with Mai Van Bo, North Vietnam's senior minister in Paris.

On Sept. 10, Bo told the Frenchmen that North Vietnam had rejected the U.S. proposal to end the bombing because it contained "conditions."

The meetings continued after that for a few weeks, and Kissinger carried other messages back and forth. None was successful, and finally, on Oct. 10, the two Frenchmen told Kissinger that Bo refused to see them again.

Woman Reports Attack Is Made

She told them that she was hitchhiking on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard toward Fairfax and was picked up by a man in a van. He drove to Upper Toyon Road, where he produced a pocket knife and raped her.

He then allowed her to get out of the truck while he drove away. She went to a nearby house at 1:30 a.m. and phoned Ross police, who turned the case over to San Rafael police as it happened in their jurisdiction.

Agreement For Service Worked Out

The Sausalito-Marin City Sanitary District will provide sewage disposal for 466 proposed apartment units in two other districts, directors agreed last night.

President Cyril J. Hansen said the board approved agreements with the Richardson Bay Sanitary and the Tamalpais Community services districts, clearing the way for the developments delayed by Regional Water Quality Control Board requirement of such agreement.

Under the contract with Richardson Bay, the district will take on 400 units in the Strawberry area over the next two years, Hansen said. In exchange, the Richardson Bay district has agreed o building a holding tank near the Sausalito district's Ricardo Street pumping station in Strawberry.

The president said the tank will permit the additional wastes to be treated in other than peak hours.

The board also approved a request from the community services district to expand its sewer service to include 66 apartments in the Allen-Marin subdivision on the Ridge above Tamalpais Valley.

The Sausalito-Marin City Sanitary District board also:

HOUSEBOATS — Adopted an ordinance requiring immediate sewering of more than 200 houseboats at Waldo Point in the Arques, Kappas and Tellis houseboat marinas. The regulation, similar to one already approved by the county, was needed, according to Hansen, because the district will dispose of sewage from the boats and had to "have some control" over how the proposed sewering system is installed.

CHARGE — Approved first reading of an ordinance to continue the district's annual $12 sewer service charge to single family residences. The ordinance will also levy such charges on floating homes, floating home marinas and trailer parks for the first time next year.

SALARIES — Approved these wage hikes for district employees for 1972-73: 10 per cent raise, or $144 a month, for Supt. William Dabner; 5.7 per cent monthly increase, or $30, for secretary Edwin S. Long; 8 per cent hike of $60 monthly for plant operator Jesse Coffman Jr. and a 44-cent-an-hour increase for part-time employee Raymond Mullis.

Fairfax School Board Continues Budget Review

The Fairfax School District Board, meeting at 7:45 p.m. today at White Hill School, will continue its review of a preliminary $1,252,430 budget for 1972-73.

The board, which has already approved the proposed spending program, will reevaluate allocations and assign spending priorities, according to Gwyneth McGee, board secretary.

Trustees will consider a proposal to reduce the glare of the white thermal roof of Manor School. Residents who live in back of the school at 150 Oak Manor Drive have complained that the reflection from the roof is distracting, Mrs. McGee said.

Trustees will hear reports on the district's fall testing, health services and summer school programs.

Foot-Chase Escapee Believed Dangerous

A young man, who escaped San Rafael police on foot after a high-speed chase early yesterday morning, was found to be wanted by the sheriff's department and supposed to be armed and dangerous, San Rafael police reported today.

Police are looking for David Townsell, 25, no known address, who is wanted by the sheriff on a warrant charging burglary and assault with a deadly weapon with bail set at $25,000. Police reported that he is thought to have two pistols and is dangerous.

Sgt. Charles Brobeck stopped a 1969 Toyota Corona at 4:30 a.m. on Francisco Boulevard for a routine check. As he approached the car, the driver told him he did not have a driver's license, and sped away.

Brobeck chased him east on Francisco Boulevard at speeds in excess of 75 miles per hour with the other car driving on the wrong side of the street.

Brobeck pushed the car with the patrol unit trying to get it to stop whereupon the car spun around and hit the patrol car. Brobeck rammed the car again on Jacoby Street and the driver either got out of the car or was thrown from the car, police reported.

He escaped on foot with other officers chasing him.

The car was registered to Charles William Hodges of 29 Park Circle, Marin City, who told San Rafael police that Townsell had the use of the car.

San Rafael Girl Accident Victim

A 21-year-old San Rafael girl injured in a two-car collision on Second Street in San Rafael was reported in satisfactory condition in Marin General Hospital.

Hospital officials said that Estelle Ross, of 1342 Lincoln Avenue, was being treated for facial cuts and bruises.

She was the driver of a car that was hit broadside Saturday by a vehicle driven by John J. Robello, of 80 The Alameda, San Anselmo, at the intersection of Second and Lindaro streets, police said.

Highest-Paid City Gives Raise

Corte Madera town employees got a 2 per cent cost-of-living raise last night after councilmen and members of the audience at the town council meeting had debated Corte Madera's position on the pay totem pole for the Bay Area.

It is, employees and employers agreed, on the top.

And councilman Edward W. Colthurst said Corte Madera recently got 183 applications for one fireman's job . . . "from pilots, teachers, civil engineers."

Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels, recommending a 2 per cent hike for town employees, said it was in keeping with the council's declared policy of paying higher than average salaries to attract and retain the best personnel.

The Corte Madera Employees Association had requested an across-the-board 4.5 per cent cost-of-living increase. They got a 7 per cent cost of living hike on July 1 last year, and in April this year after job positions were restructured, salary raises averaging 4.5 per cent.

John Fitzgerald, association president, said they were basing their cost-of-living request on a base line of March 1971, the date on which restructuring was based.

Sasso, who is a member of the Corte Madera Board of Adjustments, claimed the town "hadn't got its money's worth" from the salary schedule report in April.

He said it compared salaries with communities like San Francisco, Richmond and Oakland . . . "but consider what policemen and firemen face in Corte Madera compared to San Francisco."

Mayor Norville agreed the town's problems were different from Richmond's or San Francisco's — "but by the same token our public employees are working here and a lot of them can't afford to live here. You and I would love to work in our own community but they can't support us."

Councilmen Robert Flahive and Harold B. Wagstaff favored giving employees a 3 per cent raise. Mayor Norville and Councilman Herber C. Leney concurred with the town manager's recommendation of a 2 per cent hike.

But Councilman Colthurst said he was against any raise at all. Noting that the town was faced with a record proposed budget with a potential 86 per cent tax increase, Colthurst said the council's first responsibility is to the taxpayers.

After more than an hour's debate on the proposal the council voted unanimously to grant a 2 per cent cost of living raise.

At the suggestion of Councilman Flahive the town manager was instructed to develop some ground rules for cost-of-living increases on an annual basis.

In addition to the pay hike, town employees were granted improved fringe benefits. Sick leave accumulation was increased to 186 days, the town agreed to pay increased medical insurance and life insurance premiums and to give Fridays off if a holiday falls on a Saturday.

The employees association request, recommended by Bartels, for an additional "family sick leave" of six days a year, was denied.

Councilmen spent so much time on the salary question that the first hearing on the proposed $1,303,997 budget for 1972-73 was adjourned until tonight at 7:30 in the council chamber.

Consultants Hired By Corte Madera

Corte Madera town councilmen last night approved a $40,000 contract with consultants who will pilot the town through the unfamiliar waters of redevelopment.

Sitting as the Redevelopment Agency of the Town of Corte Madera, the councilmen agreed to pay Urban Projects, Inc., to negotiate the shopping center project through to sale of tax increment bonds.

"It's like a ship coming into a harbour full of rocks — you take on a pilot," said Councilman Harold B. Waghurst. "If he puts this boat on the rocks we're all going to be in deep water, literally and financially."

Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels explained that the consultants would negotiate a participation agreement with Ernest W. Hahn, the developer. This would establish a project area and plan, revise the town's general plan, complete required economic and planning studies, and do detailed financial studies to proceed to bond sale.

The bond revenue would be used to provide access roads and other improvements required by the developer.

When councilmen asked what would happen if Hahn's regional shopping center "didn't go", Bartels said the increase in value of land in the project area east of Highway 101 and opposite existing Corte Madera Shopping Center could be pledged against consultant fees.

Mayor Holmes S. (Pete) Norville asked about current negotiations with the state Division of Highways on the freeway situation if the multimillion-dollar shopping center were developed. (Larkspur Redevelopment Agency, which also wants a regional shopping Center, has stated it will block any freeway alterations within Larkspur's city limits.)

Bartels said the Division of Highways tends to treat shopping center proposals as speculation and makes no plans for freeway revision until the shopping center is under way.

Norville said the Redevelopment Agency could borrow money against the fill Hahn was already putting in the area . . . "900,000 to a million yards of fill."

Asked by a member of the audience exactly how many bonds the project might support, Norville suggested $6 million. Noting Larkspur's recent estimate of $8 million in tax increment bonds if they got the shopping center, Norville said: "All they have is a hill, I think they're going to be in trouble in their approach. I think our approach is to get this at a reasonably low level."

A woman in the audience asked if it were true that the redevelopment agency's proposed 1971-72 budget included a $20,800 accounting machine and a $46,000 fire engine. Norville said the budget would be discussed at a later date during budget hearings.

The redevelopment agency board approved signing the agreement with Urban Projects Inc., at a cost not to exceed $40,000. A representative of the consultants estimated their work up to bond sale might take seven months.

Fine Plus Probation In Pot Case

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A Marin County resident involved in a marijuana smuggling case was placed on five years probation and fined $2,000 in U.S. District Court Friday.

Visiting Judge William C. Frey of Phoenix, handed down the fine and probation order for Janice Lynn Swang, 24, who had pleaded guilty to a lesser charge of conspiring to smuggle merchandise.

A major figure in the case, John Robert Franklin, 34, of Corte Madera, has pleaded guilty to conspiring to smuggle marijuana into this country. He will be sentenced July 5.

Two other men connected with the smuggling case already have been sentenced. Ray Ramirez, 44, of Palm Springs, was sentenced to seven years in prison and a $15,000 fine. Ramirez was the Mexican connection for the weed.

George Ballan, 44, of Las Vegas, the pilot who flew the marijuana from Mexico to an Arizona ranch, received a five-year prison term and a $5,000 fine.

Brian D. Rohan, 36, San Francisco attorney for several rock groups was acquitted, along with Elizabeth Ballan, 25, the pilot's wife.

The care involved 18 persons accused of plotting to smuggle more than a ton of marijuana into the United States in 1965. Seven of them remain to be tried.

Antipollution Agency Plan Is Defeated

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — An Assembly committee has narrowly turned back environmental legislation supported by Gov. Ronald Reagan and conservationists creating a new board to control air, water and solid waste pollution.

After one lawmaker complained the proposal was "a facade put here for PR (public relations) purposes," a compromise bill by Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg, D-Sacramento, was defeated on a 10-7 vote Monday in the Ways and Means Committee.

The measure needed 11 votes for approval, and Z'berg said he would seek to have the vote reconsidered.

Under the proposal, a new board would be responsible for overseeing the state's antipollution efforts. It would eliminate the Environmental Quality Study Council and the Water Quality Advisory Committee.

Supported by the Sierra Club, the bill was introduced only 12 days ago after weeks of negotiations between Z'berg and the Reagan administration.

But a corps of lobbyists representing the League of California Cities, the County Supervisors Association, the California Chamber of Commerce, the California Farm Bureau Association, the Irrigation District Association, the Grange and the Agricultural Council appeared before the Assembly panel and opposed the bill.

They complained it would create a "superagency" and establish a pattern for regional governmental bodies in the future.

They also noted it would abolish the current Air and Water Resources Boards, giving the new seven-man panel the powers of the two panels.

John Frazier of the Irrigation Association said "completely gutting the present boards in the name of coordination just doesn't make sense."

Coast-Use Measure Dies In Narrow Vote

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A coastline control measure denounced by conservationists as a "corporate land grab" has been killed on a narrow vote by the Senate Finance Committee.

The bill by Sen. Dennis Carpenter, R-Newport Beach, was shelved on a 6-7 vote Monday. The action left only the coastline bill by Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills, still alive although it isn't given much chance of passage this session.

Because of legislative inaction on coastline protection, conservationists have banded together to support an initiative modeled after Sieroty's bill what is seeking to qualify for the November ballot.

The Carpenter bill would have created a 15-member state board to draft and implement a comprehensive land use plan for the entire coast from three miles offshore to three miles inland.

Under the Carpenter bill, each coastal county would develop its own set of standards for development of the coast within its jurisdiction and submit it to the state board which would adopt a standardized state plan.

The proposal is backed by the County Supervisors Association and the California Real Estate Association.

Tax Break Is Proposed For Singles

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Single persons would receive an income tax break which would cost the state an estimated $168 million annually under a bill approved Monday by the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

The measure by Assemblyman Robert Cline, R-Canoga Park, was sent to the floor on an 11-4 vote, the bare minimum necessary.

The bill, which would be effective on incomes earned in 1973, would allow single persons to compute their income in the same manner as married taxpayers.

Under the bill, a single person with a taxable income of $13,000 would be taxed $285 compared to $565 currently. A married couple with the same income currently pays $260.

Roy Bell, assistant director of the Department of Finance, opposed the bill on behalf of the Reagan administration because of the loss of revenue.

DANGEROUS STUFF — Sgt. George W. Koehler of the Corte Madera Police Department holds one of 60 "barrel bombs" confiscated yesterday with the arrest of three youths. He warns residents that these military explosive simulators can be unstable and dangerous and urges anyone finding any to turn them over to local police authorities.

Three Teens Arrested In 'Barrel Bomb' Explosions

Corte Madera police arrested three teen-agers yesterday in connection with a series of window bombings that has vandalized buildings and injured a woman asleep in her bedroom.

Sgt. George W. Koehler said authorities had rounded up 60 military explosive simulators and were attempting to trace them back to their source.

Meanwhile, he warned both parents and youths that those types of "barrel bombs" can be unstable and dangerous under some circumstances, according to military spokesmen and any such devices should be turned over to local police authorities. They resemble small red firecrackers, are marked "M-80 on top", and contain a powder fuse that can blow off a hand if used improperly, according to Koehler.

The juveniles, aged 16 and 17, were booked into juvenile hall. The names of the youthful bombers were withheld on the order of Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson.

It is believed that they may have supplied such devices to their friends and some may not have been uncovered yet.

The boys told police they were merely performing pranks and had no intention of harming anyone. On June 11, Marilou Shankel, 30, of 50 Paloma Drive, was cut by flying glass when one of the bombs shattered her bedroom window. Another bomb was found taped to a window at 70 El Camino Drive that evening and similar bombs blew out windows and dug a two-foot hole at Granada School and damaged the Corte Madera Cyclery in the Corte Madera Center.

New Vehicle Law In Effect Soon

Motorists are reminded by Robert C. Cozens, director of the State Dept. of Motor Vehicles, to register their off-highway vehicles before leaving on their summer vacation.

The new fees will go toward special off-highway vehicle recreation facilities. Cozens also points out that such registration will serve as a theft deterrent as serial numbers will be recorded by the DMV.

UMW Leader Given Fat Fine, Jail

WASHINGTON (UPI) —W. A. "Tony" Boyle was sentenced today to five years imprisonment and fined $130,000 on charges of conspiracy and illegally diverting United Mine Workers union funds to political campaigns.

Federal judge Charles R: Richey, who imposed the sentence, ordered the mine union president jailed immediately.

Richey refused to allow Boyle to remain free pending an appeal, until he had paid the total fine to the court, or posted sufficient bond to cover it.

"The court will order him committed," Richey said in a stern voice as Cacheris appealed for his release.

Specifically, Boyle was handed down two concurrent fiveyear terms along with two years probation following his imprisonment.

As a condition of the probation, Boyle was ordered to make restitution of the full $49,250 to the treasury of the UMW which he was charged with misusing.

Snowmobiles' Noise Attacked

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The Assembly has given unanimous approval to a conservationist-supported bill cutting down on noise from snowmobiles.

The measure would bar the sale after 1974 of any snowmobile that produces noise in excess of 73 decibels rather than the current 84. After this year and before 1975, snowmobiles would be required to meet an 82 decibel limitation.

Riles' Primary Education Restructure Bill Advances

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The Assembly Ways and Means committee has sent to the floor a massive proposal by state schools chief Wilson Riles to send four-year-olds to school and to restructure teaching methods from kindergarten through third grade.

Despite objections by a state Finance Department that the proposal was too broad in scope, the measure carried by Assemblyman Kenneth Cory, DGarden Grove, was passed Monday on a 11-5 vote.

During the initial five-year phase-in period, the program would cost $1 billion.

The program would allow parents to send their four-year-old children to school in the same way that five-year-olds now may be sent to kindergarten.

However, Riles has said the thrust of the program is to revamp teaching methods in the lower grades.

He has said local school districts would be encouraged to use parents, trained aides and volunteers in classrooms to reduce the pupil-adult ratio from about 30-1 currently to about 10-1.

Although objecting to the $1 billion appropriation, Roy Bell, deputy director of the Finance Department, praised the concept of Riles' plan, saying it "would restgucture a rather monolithic bureaucracy in the state's school system.

A Steam Powered Bike Makes Debut

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI)—Inventor Dave Sarlin drove his steam powered bicycle Vesuvius on its maiden run Sunday. It chugged up and down the street at just under 14 miles an hour.

NOVATO ARENA

Couple Repeats Vows On Horseback

Into the arena of the Atherton Stables in Novato rode Elaine Lucille Stewart of Tiburon and Gerald D. McHugh of Novato. Following them were Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Oare of Mill Valley.

The four stopped their horses and lined up facing Rev. Jerry Ashby, minister of the Tiburon Baptist Church. In the background the Steamin' Greeman group played "That's the Reason I'm in Love With You." The minister, also on horseback, began the wedding ceremony.

The minister was interrupted only once when the bridegroom's horse became restless, but that was solved with a lap around the arena, and the ceremony continued.

As the minister pronounced the couple man and wife a shout of "yahoo!" came from the guests, clustered around the arena, and everyone filed out of the area of the wedding to another spot on the stable grounds, where food was set out for a reception.

The wedding cake was in the shape of a horseshoe. Many of the guests, as the bride and bridegroom and their attendants, were dressed in Western garb.

Elaine is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Stewart of Tiburon, and Gerald is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald V. McHugh of Novato. On their return from a wedding trip to the Grand Canyon, the couple will live in Petaluma.

The bride was graduated from Glendale High School and is employed at the Bank of Marin in San Rafael. She is the sister of Mrs. William Leek of Glendale and Gary J. Pickelsimer of Glendale.

The bridegroom was graduated from San Rafael High School and is employed with the Marin County Humane Society. He is the brother of Mrs. George Lutsovich of Petaluma, Mrs. Oare, Mrs. Robert Gass, and Allen and Lyle McHugh of Novato. He is the grandson of Mrs. Katie Neal of San Rafael and Mr. and Mrs. Herman McCann of Petaluma.

Still Active In Her Vocation After 64 Years

DURHAM, N.C. — Kate Herndon was an active nurse for 50 years. When she retired 14 years ago she knew she had to keep busy somehow and that's when she became a volunteer in a hospital.

She has worked at a medical center, at a Veterans Administration hospital and she gives time each month to the Red Cross Bloodmobile.

"Life gets sort of monotonous at times," Miss Herndon says. "If I didn't have my volunteer work, I'd be at a low ebb. If my hearing were better, I'd work full time — as a volunteer." (Los Angeles Times Syndicate).

ENGINEERING GRAD

Women's Lib Just Wasn't All Fun

The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

As the first woman graduate from Worcester Polytechnic Institute engineering school in Massachusetts, Lesley Small is ready to become a staff engineer with the New England Telephone Co.

She did it "because it was a challenge," she explained.

Lee, as she likes to be called, had straight A grades through her junior year as a math major, standing first in her class of 218 students. She dropped back a bit this year when she gave time to other things, but she was graduated second, earning the "high distinction" designation which means a gradepoint over 3.5.

LEE LOOKS back on it now without regret, but there were times when she wasn't so sure that attending the institute had been the right move for her.

"All through the first semester I wondered what I was doing here," she admitted. "Everywhere I went I was stared at like some kind of curiosity. Of course, I knew that that class would be the first to admit women, but I thought there would be a lot more of us."

As it turned out, only two women were accepted in that freshman class, and the other dropped out in her junior year. The two were "very close of necessity," Lee said.

"We had to depend on each other. I'm sure we took many of the same courses for moral support."

"I just couldn't get involved with anybody on campus," the shy student said. "It was a strange kind of situation."

THINGS IMPROVED the next year when 25 women were admitted in the freshman class, and there are now 77 women at WPI. Some 30 more are expected next fall.

Lee said that if she were to do it all over, she would major in engineering and minor in math. "City planning might be the career goal in that case."

Lee has been interested all along in applied mathematics. "I like project work such as building a bridge out of sticks and string."

She likes to sew, cook and knit and makes her own dresses and pants suits. But with four brothers, she also enjoys outdoor sports such as swimming and horseback riding.

One brother is a WPI engineering graduate and another is now enrolled.

Knowing she hadn't traveled, a group of the male students once piled into a car and took Lee along to introduce her to the sights of New York and Philadelphia, spending 24 sleepless hours of driving and sightseeing.

THE FIRST woman to be graduated from Worcester Polytechnic Institute, a Massachusetts engineering school, Lee Small has a farewell chat with one of her professors. She will become a staff engineer with the telephone company.

AND THE past month Lee made a trip to Los Angeles, San Francisco and San Diego to speak to WPI alumni clubs, at the suggestion of the public relations director. It was her first plane flight.

"It was lots of fun and a whole new experience," she said.

Now, ready to become staff engineer for the telephone company, she will be in the planning group as a part of a yearlong training program.

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

There's Room Today In Schools For The Return Of 'Old Spirit'

HELEN AND SUE:

I'm one of those uncomprehending parents. Seems to me the school kids don't know how to enjoy life any more. They aren't interested in proms or class parties. Elections bring out few votes for almost no candidates. My son tells me a couple of offices weren't filled last year because no one ran.

Even football isn't well thought of. The "jocks" and the "rah-rah" girls (cheerleaders) don't have the status we once gave them.

As for dating —well I should be happy because our son spends so little money on girls. They go in groups, meet each other informally, share expenses if there are any — but usually they just get together at the park.

Yes, they are good kids, but the excitement, the conquests, the winning, planning, dressing up, dreaming about the big dances, making it as a school officer or prom king or queen — in short, the school spirit — where did it go? And, Sue, are high schoolers really having any fun, doing it this new way? — FORMER PROM QUEEN

FPQ:

Every generation has its own way of doing things. I think high school kids today are sometimes trying so hard to break away from tradition that they go too far and end up bored. It's kind of "in" now to consider school spirit "out."

I wish I could say this is because guys and girls are getting really involved in social problems and world affairs instead of "juvenile" school elections, etc., but for many that is more an excuse than a fact. A lot of them don't get involved — period! It's just too much bother. I wonder if it will be too much bother all their lives? — SUE

DEAR FORMER:

True, traditional "spirit" is down in most areas, possibly because modern high schools are so big they've become impersonal.

Also high school isn't the be-all and end-all of existence it once was for teens, who now have a variety of interests: jobs, cars, increasing focus on college and adulthood. It's a sort of way station these days — a requirement one endures in order to reach the next step. So naturally the hoop-la and rah-rah are less important: to some — juvenile; to others —snobbish, for it creates an in-crowd; to still others —useless ("Why get steamed up over elections when student officers can't change things?" they ask).

Comments, anyone? — HELEN

DEAR RAP:

I'm one of the "over-30" group, but I have no complaints, only compliments for the "under-20s."

Here's an example.

Then they heard of a little local boy who needed a kidney transplant operation. His father was to donate the kidney, but this meant the family breadwinner would be out of work for awhile, and there are four other children to support.

You guessed it: The Seguin kids donated their $700 junior-senior prom savings to help-save the life of a child!

Later that month there was a devastating flood and these same young people pitched in on clean-up chores. I say Hats Off to the main flow of today's youth. I wonder if many grown-ups would give so much so freely? — R.L.S.

READERS:

Let's hear it for students at Seguin Hi! And let's hope they still got their junior-senior prom. — SUE

NOTE FROM HELEN: Hope "Former Prom Queen" reads the above letter and realizes school spirit hasn't died — it's just taking new directions. — HELEN

One Mother Won't Join Women's Lib

"I work where I do because I enjoy it," says Mrs. Marty Dawson. "I like driving trucks."

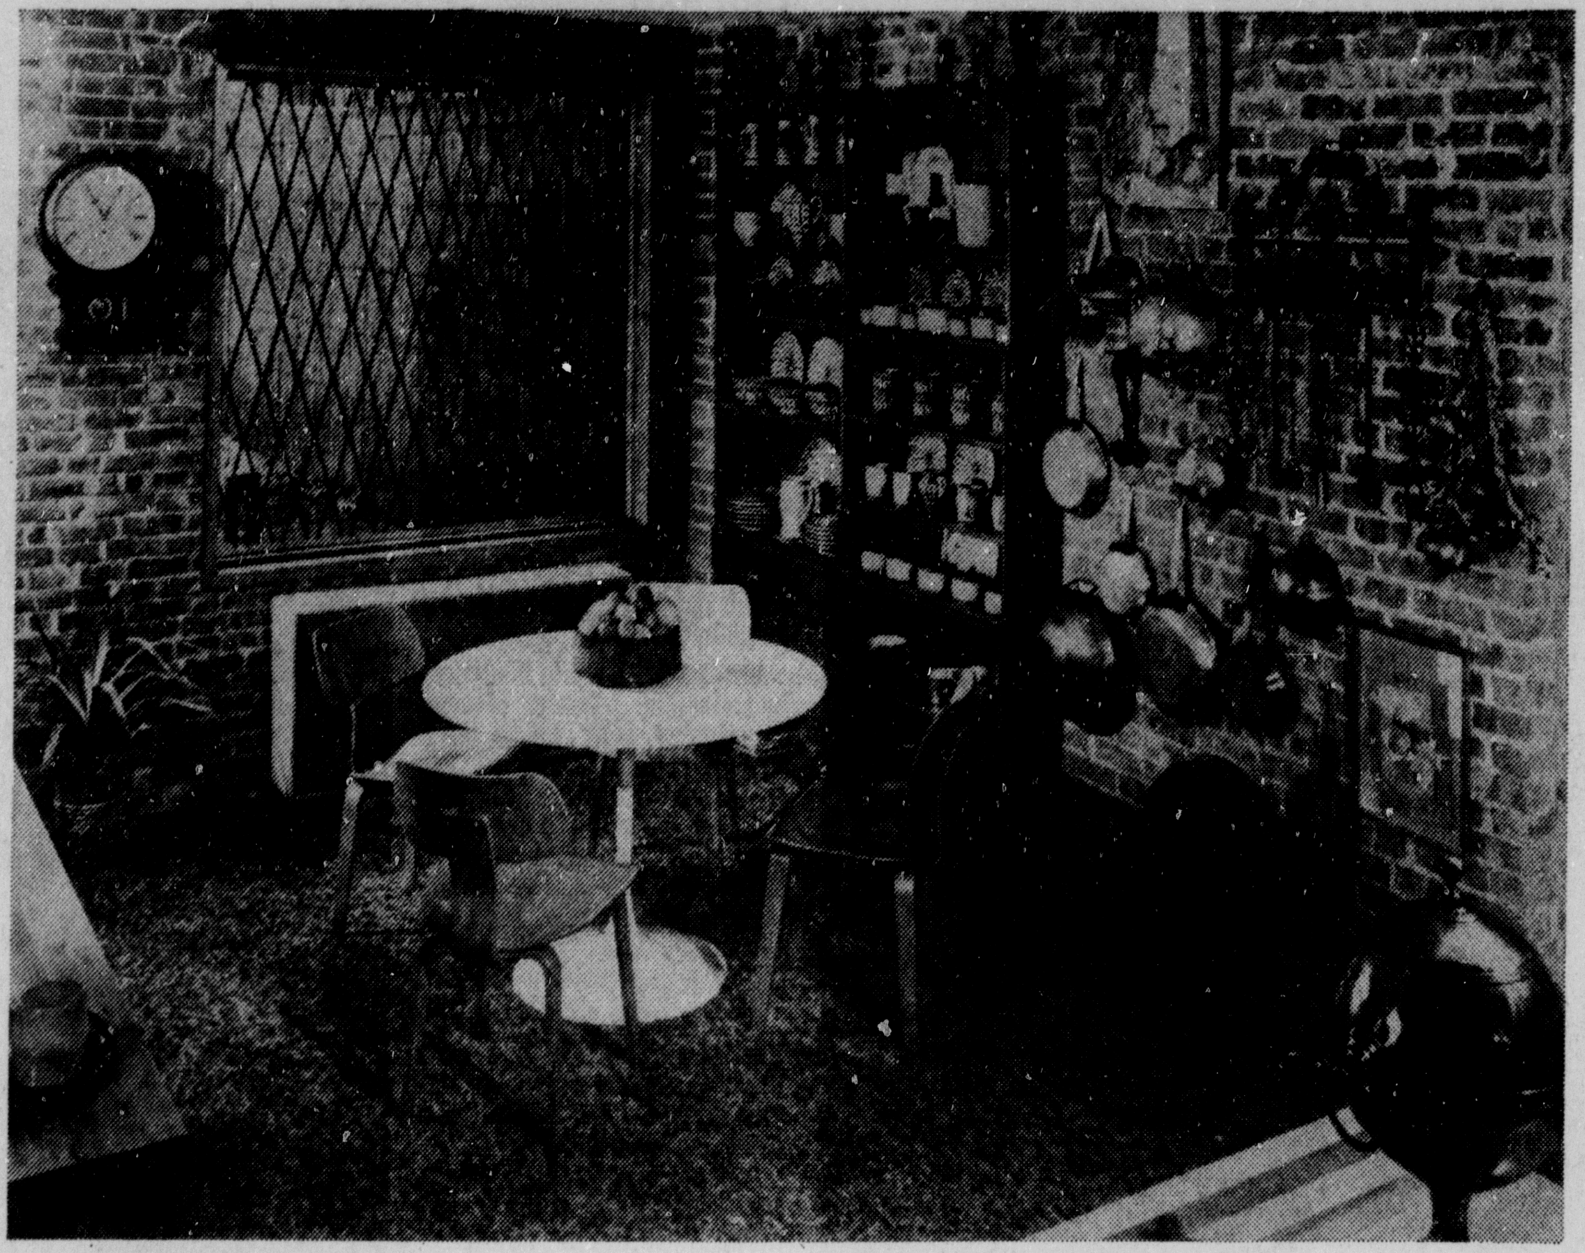
Mrs. Dawson went to work for a sand and excavating company to support herself and her two children. "I held office jobs, but come spring I had to get out," she says, explaining how she got into truck driving.

"I walked into the company and asked for a job," she recalls. "They didn't think I knew how to drive a truck." A boyfriend had introduced her to trucks and her former husband drove semis.

"When I first started," she says, "one guy's wife began a petition against me, but nothing came of it."

One reason is Mrs. Dawson's work philosophy:

"Work hard and earn every bit of the money you make. If you make $1 an hour, put out $1.10 worth of work." (Los Angeles Times Syndicate)



PRACTICAL, DOWN to the floor, this family gathering place is an integral part of the kitchen, yet with its foot-easing Lees carpet and brick walls it's as nice as any room in the house.

Special Care For Kitchen Carpet

By CAROLYN S. MURRAY
General Features Corp.

We haven't heard much talk lately about carpeting in the kitchen. Can't tell whether that's because people are accustomed to the idea or because they have just stopped thinking about it. Either way, there is news on the future of kitchen floor coverings; and that naws involved the use of a protective coating on more and more carpeting.

No carpet manufacturer claims total immunity from stains. But what they are able to provide is a carpet that will let go of its dirt. The finishes are not only helpful in the kitchen, they'll change floor care all over the house.

HOWEVER, THE kitchen still seems eligible for softening up, and a carpet can ease the everyday wear and tear on the walkingest member of the family — the housekeeper. That means me, you and you.

The kitchen shown features another kind of easy-care carpet. It's made of nylon in a short shag. While the owner leans toward the contemporary in furniture, she is an old-fashioned cook who uses naturally grown fruits and vegetables.

IN KEEPING with this no-nonsense approach is the way she stores her collection of pans, tableware and accessories. Simple open shelves, used-brick wall surfaces and chopping block counters are all part of the naturalism she wants her family to appreciate. Yet, when it comes to household maintenance, only the best examples of contemporary technology get her "good housekeeping" stamp of approval.

Question Of Sweet Vs Teen Acne

I-J Special Report

PALO ALTO — Teen-agers may be able to gulp cola and still not get pimples, according to a dermatologist at Stanford University.

"Clinical tests have not substantiated any correlation between chocolate, peanut, milk or cola consumption and worsening of acne," according to Dr. E. Dorinda Loeffel.

She reported on a study she conducted at the University of Missouri in the current issue of "California Medicine," the monthly professional journal for California Medical Association's 25,000 physician members.

In week-long tests, college students consumed either 8.5 ounces of chocolate, four ounces of peanuts, a quart of milk or 24 ounces of cola a day and showed no signs of acne flare-ups.

Dr. Loeffel says that when irritating, oily secretions plug hair follicles, they rupture to produce that curse of adolescence, acne.

"The influence of foods on this process is now being questioned," according to Dr. Loeffel, and special diets for teenagers appear to be unnecessary.

Lagunitas Board Gives Pay Hikes

Trustees of the Lagunitas School District last night approved a $542,000 preliminary budget for 1972-73 and gave both teaching and nonteaching employees 5.5 per cent cost-of-living raises for next fiscal year.

The budget, which is not expected to increase the present tax rate of $4.46 per $100 assessed valuation, is up about $56,000 over the current year, Asst. Supt. Harry F. Roche said.

While the tax rate is expected to hold steady, Roche said, the district expects income from higher assessed valuation to increase $108,000.

Roche said the bulk of the budget increase can be traced to increased salaries and instructional expenses.

Affected by the raises are 25 teachers and eight noninstructional employees. In addition, nonteaching workers were granted longevity increments.

The board, after a closed session, appointed Anna Mae Kondratieff as business manager-secretary at an annual salary of $11,000. She had been serving only as secretary.

The board also appealed to citizens wishing to serve on a district committee study school facility use next year to attend a trustees' session at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in San Geronimo Valley Elementary School.

Leader Of Almonte Sanitary Panel Quits

Edmund J. Prosch, president of the Almonte Sanitary District board, announced his immediate resignation from the board last night and a second member said he would step down in a month.

The announcements were made at the regular board meeting.

Prosch, who is moving to Samoa, and the other board member, David J. Beasley, who is nearing retirement age, did not seek reelection earlier this month. No one filed to run for their seats, however.

Board member John J. Crncich said today the board welcomes citizens interested in filling the vacancies to attend the July 24 session at 8 p.m. at the district office, 226 Shoreline Highway.

In other business, a 1972-73 budget of $26,617, down from $27,610, was adopted by the board. Crncich said a revenue surplus will enable directors to reduce the general operating tax rate levied on residents from 35 cents per $100 of assessed valuation to 30 cents.

Because of added work, Crncich said, the budget includes small raises to the board president and Dist. Secretary Betty Davis.

Motorcycle Crash Helmet Measure Dies To Applause

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —With a "lobby" of Hell's Angels looking on and applauding its demise, a Senate committee Monday killed a bill sought by the California Highway Patrol to require motorcyclists to wear safety helmets.

The measure by Republican State Sen. Craig Biddle was rejected following an applause-punctuated hearing when none of the eight committee members present offered a motion to bring it to a vote.

As soon as the bill was pronounced dead, the Hell's Angels—numbering about 100—stood up, applauded and cheered.

The proposal, similar to legislation rejected in the past, was denounced by a string of witnesses, many of whom said helmets would be a hazard to and not protection for riders.

"I don't want to be killed, dig? So don't make me buy a helmet," Pat Coughlin, a young, fatigue-clad motorcyclist from Sacramento told the committee. Coughlin said he was not an Angel.

Charles Clayton of Long Beach, publisher of Cycle News Magazine, said the bill "sets a terrible precedent for the deprivation of individual liberties."

"I can't understand or comprehend this cart-before-the-horse attitude," said Mike Henshaw, a representative of the American Motorcynle Association, urging stricter licensing examinations.

"As it now stands a motorcyclist has to demonstrate little more skill than being able to balance a bike between his legs."

But Biddle said his measure, which would have taken effect in mid-1973, was an attempt to "cut down on some of these deaths." He said it would "protect life and limb."

Final No-Fault Measure Heads For Senate Test

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—California's last surviving major no-fault car insurance bill, a compromise drawn along lines favored by Gov. Ronald Reagan, headed for a crucial hearing in the Senate today.

The hybrid measure was fashioned by Assemblyman Jack Fenton, D-Montebello, and Sen. Alfred Song, D-Monterey Park, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Some observers believed the proposal contains the ingredients for enactment this session of a modified nofault bill. Two other major rivals were killed Monday.

Under a pure no-fault system, a motorist's own insurance company pays his damages regardless of who is to blame for causing the traffic accident.

The compromise, known as the Fenton-Song Act, would establish a modified no-fault system in California from 1974 to 1979, at which time the legislature would decide whether to make it permanent.

The maximum amount recoverable for any single accident would be $5,000 per person, half of the $10,000 Fenton had sought. The bill also contains a provision enabling a person to sue for extra damages once his medical expenses had reached $1,000.

Reagan met privately with Fenton and Song last month and detailed what he wanted in a no-fault bill.

The Senate Finance Committee earlier in the day shot down in rapid order two separate bills sponsored by Song and Senate Democratic leader George Moscone of San Francisco.

The Song measure was supported by the California State Automobile Association and was drafted by a special task force of the Judiciary Committee. Moscone's was sponsored by the State Bar and supported by the Consumer Confederation of California.

The powerful California Trial Lawyers Association lobbied heavily for defeat of both.

No-fault has been the target of wildly conflicting claims over whether insurance premium rates paid by motorists would be reduced, stabilized or increased.

At least seven favorable Finance Committee votes were required for passage of the legislation to the floor. Moscone's bill was defeated 2-7, and Song's 4-6.

Funds To Fight Drugs To Floor

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —In a reversal of an earlier vote, the Assembly Ways and Means committee has approved a $20 million bill to step up the state's program combating drug abuse.

The measure by Assemblyman William Campbell, R-Hacienda Heights, was sent to the floor Monday on a 13-2 vote. It was defeated last week in the committee, but Campbell asked for reconsideration and amended it to remove its offending features.

Beginning next year, the proposal would require that all counties maintaining a Short-Doyle mental health program to include a drug abuse treatment program prescribed by the bill.

Teamsters Local Supports Guards

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Teamsters Union Local 960 will hold a strategy meeting of labor leaders June 30 to discuss Gov. Ronald Reagan's decision to grant state correctional officers a 5 per cent pay hike.

Barney Apfel, secretary-treasurer and business manager of the local, Monday invited representatives of the California State Employes Association and California Correctional Officers Association.

Apfel called Reagan's decision "capricious, arbitrary and ill-advised" and said the guards deserved a bigger pay boost.

Development Faces Slice Of 50 Units

The Novato Planning Commission recommended last night that the proposed Pacheco Ranch development, south of the city and west of Highway 101, be limited to 650 dwelling units.

The plan also includes office and commercial areas and 384 acres of open space.

Commissioners approved the plan by a 5-1 vote but set 20 conditions, including a reduction in density. The vote was 5-1 with Commissioner Gail Wilhelm dissenting. Commissioner James F. Picchi was absent.

Among the conditions were that 15 per cent of the units be low and moderate income housing dispersed throughout the project and that some single-family detached residential units be provided.

The Novato Planning Commission Also:

CHERRY STREET — Approved an application by Donald Perry to rezone 18 acres at the east end of Cherry Street from limited agriculture to planned residential.

SUNSET PARKWAY — Denied an application by William Gottschalk to rezone 38 acres on the east side of Sunset Parkway, north of Merritt Drive and Rafael Village, from limited agricultural and duplex to single-family residential with 20,000-square-foot lots and planned residential.

DELICATESSEN — Approved an application by Marvelle Shaw for a use permit to operate a delicatessen at the Pacheco Plaza between the Safeway market and the Bank of Marin.

SAN JOSE VILLAGE — Approved a tentative map of San Jose Village, 79 townhouses on 15 acres at the end of San Jose Boulevard, adjacent to Indian Valley Colleges campus.

REZONING — Approved rezoning the Baccaglio property on South Novato Boulevard, between Lauren Avenue and Yukon Way from limited agricultural to planned residential.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

A Fair Exchange At Table Assures A Diamond Contract

When you must lose a trick, give it to the opponent who cannot do you any harm. This principle may lead to some very strange tricks.

JUST SUPPOSE

Suppose declarer takes the ace of spades, discarding a club, draws trumps and ruffs a spade. If he then finesses with the ten of clubs, East wins and returns a heart. West wins the heart finesse and returns a club.

Sooner or later, South must lose another heart. The story is the same if South decides against a club finesse.

The trouble is that East always manages to lead a heart during the early stages of the play. This gives West a heart trick while he can still get out safely.

KEEP EAST OUT

You can make the contract if you keep East out of the lead. Your chance comes at the very first trick. Let West win the first trick with his king of spades. Discard a club from the South hand.

This gives West a spade trick, to be sure, but it robs East of a later club trick.

LEADS A CLUB

After getting that first strange trick, West leads a club. You take the ace of clubs, draw one round of trumps with dummy's king, discard a second club on dummy's ace of spades and ruff a club. This prevents East from gaining the lead with a club.

You return to dummy with a second trump and ruff dummy's last club. You then get back to dummy with a third trump and lead a heart for a finesse. West wins this finesse but cannot get out safely. If he returns a heart, you get a free finesse; and if West returns anything else, you ruff in your hand and discard the losing heart from dummy.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - J 8 6 5 2

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid four spades. This shows five trumps, a singleton or void and not more than nine points in high cards.

Innocent Plea By Mill Valley Pair

Two Mill Valley teen-agers charged with possessing antique guns stolen from a Mill Valley home have pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court.

A preliminary hearing for Kevin P. Quinn, 18, was set for July 6. Thomas K. Lester, 19, is to appear for the hearing July 25.

The pair were arrested last Monday by Mill Valley police who found the guns hidden in woods near the victim's home and staked them out until Lester and Quinn arrived.

Unknown Writers On Stage

By PAT PERRY

Rehearsals have started at College of Marin on two new plays by unknown playwrights, their production financed by the Office for Advanced Drama Research, (OADR) with funds from the Rockefeller Foundation.

And while the bald announcement sounds bureaucratic and sterile, it represents a continuation of a system that has kept the dramatic arts alive for thousands of years . . . patronage.

In Shakespeare's wealthy noblemen like the Earl of Southampton anted up the cash to put on a play by an unknown playwright. Today, funds come from more impersonal sources, yet the result is the same — a play is performed in public that might otherwise have remained on paper.

The University of Minnesota runs the OADR program under chairman Arthur Ballett, and 1,500 new play scripts are read each year. The few plays chosen for patronage are performed by drama groups of top professional standing nationwide.

The College of Marin's drama department was chosen to produce "Psalms of Two Davids" by Joel Schwartz with OADR funds last year. It was a resounding success and has since been performed by six universities.

The current rehearsals are for two new OADR financed plays, which will be performed at the old Festival Theater in San Anselmo in repertory from July 20 through August 12, together with the department's production of "Comedy of Errors."

The first is "You In Your Small Corner And I In Mine" by Carol Roper.

Carol Roper is a stunning 27-year-old New Yorker. At first sight she does not appear to be a struggling unknown playwright. And when she says offhandedly that she earns her living writing film and television scripts she doesn't appear to be one on second sight either.

"Actually this is my third play," she explained. "My first was produced and directed in New York by Herbert Bergoff. My second play still has an option for a screen play."

Then why did she feel a need to submit her latest work for a subsidized production?

"I was writing this play with 16 characters — it was too expensive to put on."

She said her play is "all about people and human beings reaching out for each other. It's a family play about a family and their children."

Harvey J. Susser, associate professor of drama at College of Marin, who, together with drama department chairman James Dunn, will direct the plays, described Carol's play as "very funny, very direct on the dilemmas of women today."

The second play is "Ambrose Bierce Takes On The Railroad" by Philip Bosakowski. And in his way the young unknown playwright presents as much of a paradox as Miss Roper.

For while his biographical-style drama is about a fantastic San Francisco journalist, the author had never been to San Francisco until after he arrived in Marin recently.

So how did he come to write a play about Bierce?

"I came across an article about him in a magazine once and made a mental note," he said enigmatically.

He actually wrote the play two years ago under a grant from the Schubert Foundation in New York, and it was submitted to the OADR by the foundation. Bosakowski said he researched Bierce's life by reading . . ." and I was in touch with a scholar in Arizona who gave me some information."

But by whatever devious long distance means Bosakowski wrote his play, it is described as "very funny, mixing serious drama with comedy," by Susser.

The plot revolves on a true incident in Bierce's life when he sought to expose graft and corruption in the leasing of public lands to the Western Pacific Railroad.

There are 16 characters in Bosakowski's play too, and the drama department has recruited a cast of 34 to play in the three plays. Most performers are students, but there are also actors and actresses from the community.

Rehearsals will continue mornings, afternoons and evenings for four weeks, with the young authors collaborating with the directors in interpreting their works.

It is a situation which might make many stage directors pale, with its inherent threat of conflict.

"But we don't anticipate any problems," said Susser, "because the playwrights and the directors are on the same wavelength."

Court Ruling On Obscenity Delayed

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Supreme Court has set the stage for a major ruling next term to fix standards of obscenity that could bring the court out of the "morass" in which one justice finds it has placed the entire issue.

The court had been expected to act during the current term, which ends Thursday, in a California case that clearly presented the issue of whether states may set up their own obscenity standards or must defer to national standards.

Instead, the court Monday called for reargument next term on this issue plus two related cases and agreed to hear three more, specifically to determine: if sexually oriented films and magazines can be constitutionally displayed if the public is notified of their nature, and if there is reasonable protection against exposure to juveniles.

In past rulings, the court has said there should be national standards.

The court created the problem in part in 1957 when it said material may be considered obscene when "to the average peson, applying contemporary community standards, the dominant theme of the material taken as a whole appeals to the prurient interest."

The court gave a bare hint of its thinkino in an unsigned opinion Monday in which it overturned the conviction of an underground newspaper editor for publishing an allegedly obscene poem and two pictures of a nude man and woman embracing in a sitting position.

"A quotation from Voltaire in the flyleaf of a book will not constitutionally redeem an otherwise obscene publication," the court said. But it found the pictures relevant to a news story about a photographer who had a similar picture seized.

In the case of the poem, "an undisguisedly frank, play-by-play account of the author's recollection of sexual intercourse," the court found, "it bears some of the earmarks of an attempt at serious art."

"While such earmarks are not inevitably a guarantee against a finding of obscenity...this element must be considered in assessing whether or not the 'dominant' theme of the material is to prurient interest," it said.

The court said the "contemporary community standards" rule "must leave room for some latitude of judgment..."

Justice William O. Douglas concurred but said he did so "because neither logic, history nor the plain meaning of the English language will support the obscenity exception this court has engrafted onto the First Amendment."

He called the case of former Kaleidoscope editor John R. Kois "further testimony to the morass in which this court has placed itself in the area of obscenity. Men are sent to prison under definitions which they cannot understand and on which lower courts and members of this court cannot agree."

Concert Will Benefit Art Scholarship

Violinist William Pynchon, with Shirley Winther Bracco at the piano, will present a scholarship benefit recital Friday at 8:30 p.m. at the Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley.

The concert is under the auspices of the new San Francisco Academy of Music and Arts, a small school for exceptionally talented young people of professional caliber.

A student of Naoum Blinder, concertmaster for 25 years of the San Francisco Symphony, Pynchon also studied in Italy and Switzerland. He teaches violin.

The first half of the program will include the Sonata in D Major of Handel, the Sonata in A Minor of Faure and "Choses Vues a Droite Et a Gauche" by Satie.

For the second half of the program Pynchon will play "Poeme" by Chausson, "Nigun (Improvisation)" by Bloch and six of Bartok's Romanian folk dances.

A Gambling Spree

STATELINE, Nev. (UPI)— Thomas J. Elizalde, 23, a change boy at a casino, was arrested on grand larceny charges after removing $900 from his change belt and losing it in a gambling spree at a competitive club, police reported Monday.

FBI Shadowed Coretta King, Anderson Tells Black Caucus

"It is no secret that the late, redoubtable director of the FBI, J. Edgar Hoover, hounded the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. from Montgomery to Memphis," Anderson said. "Now the FBI has zeroed in on his widow, Mrs. Coretta Scott King."

Anderson made his statement to a hearing of the congressional Black Caucus where he described FBI files on other black leaders including Floyd McKissick Jr., a supporter of President Nixon.

"To the FBI, apparently, anyone with dark skin who dares to open his mouth is viewed as subversive," he said.

Anderson's prepared testimony did not say whether the surveillance of Mrs. King continued afteR Hoover's deatl when L. Patrick Gray was appointed acting FBI director. But an Anderson assistant, Les Whitten, told UPI Anderson was referring only to the Hoover days, "although we wouldn't be surprised if it continued under Gray. We just have no evidence one way of the other."

Saying he had with him some of the FBI's secret files on Mrs. King, Anderson said he would read nothing but innocuous quotes because "I have no desire to spread across the land the plethora of half-truths and misinformation that is contained in the FBI files."

He read from one 1966 entry he said contained nothing but trivial information, "but it does indicate the pains taken by the bureau to keep her under surveillance.

"The memo notes that Coretta Scott King arrived at the Tampa International Airport at 12:55 p.m. on March 10 and went directly to St. Petersburg, Fla. 'Her appearance in concert at the Pasadena Community Church...,' wrote an agent, 'and her stay at the Princess Martha Hotel were without incident.'

"This intelligence was considered so important that it was 'disseminated to Secret Service...Tampa, Fla.; Office of Special Investigations, Robins Air Force Base, Ga., and Office of Naval Intelligence, Charleston, S.C.'"

Anderson said King's successor as head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, Dr. Ralph D. Abernathy, also had come under surveillance, including an investigation of his passport files and his bank accounts.

Anderson said McKissick's speeches were closely followed by "federal sleuths."

Drake High Teacher Calls Raise Unfair

A Drake High School teacher told Tamalpais High School District trustees last night he thought it unfair that district teachers had been given only 3.25 per cent salary increases for 1972-73 while the superintendent and his assistant got 5 per cent hikes in April.

At last week's board meeting teachers in the district were given an across-the-board raise of 3.25 per cent and a .97 per cent increase in medical-dental plans.

In April, Supt. Hawkins' salary was upped by 5 per cent to $31,500 and his assistant, Robert D. Torrey's pay went up to $27,300.

Hawkins said trustee David D. Ring told Brown that teachers received annual increments by rising in seniority which averaged out at 4 per cent.

"If you add that to the 3.25 per cent you get an increase of 7.25 per cent," said Hawkins, "and Ring pointed out that there was no similar salary schedule for the superintendent and his assistant."

Brown had appeared before the board to protest the district's policy on extra-service contracts under which people like coaches, band directors and drama coaches get paid for extra-curricular duties.

The board approved Supt. Hawkin's recommendation that the $47,308 allocated for the contracts be distributed to the schools and allocated by principals and their staff.

According to Supt. Hawkins, Brown said there was no guarantee that varsity football coaches, for instance, would receive the same pay at the different high schools.

He said trustee Bette Wallace said the board was not prepared to pay an automatic annual increase for the extra-service contracts.

In budget cuts to off-set the approved salary increases, the board deleted $95,000 from the preliminary budget. Items deferred included resurfacing tennis courts at Tamalpais High.

Supt. Hawkins said the board also voted to quit supporting the Alumni News to the tune of $4,000 a year. In the future it will be sold on subscription.

With last night's cuts, Supt. Hawkins said the district's budget remains at a total of $9,961,255, requiring a tax rate of $2.28, the same as last year. It will be adopted for publication at the board's July 10 meeting, with a public hearing for formal adoption on Aug. 7.

The Tamalpais High School District board also:

NEW COURSES — Approved two new courses of study for Tamalpais High School: home repair and maintenance, and cross-age teaching one and two.

FIELD TRIP — Approved a Canadian field trip in August for Redwood High Summer School students.

CIVIL DEFENSE — Readopted the district's civil defense and disaster policy first set in 1968.

Services Drop Psychiatric Test

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—The Navy and Marine Corps have abandoned recruit screening by psychiatrists because it was not effective enough to be worth the time.

A team of Navy psychiatrists said that after a study of the service careers of 11,000 sailors and 14,000 marines, they found that prospective recruits could be screened just as effectively, or better, by the petty officer at the recruiting station, using a simple chart.

Waste Plan For Boats Is Attacked

WASHINGTON (UPI) —New government standards aimed at eliminating within five years sewage discharge from boats — including 550,000 pleasure crafts —have come under attack from special interest groups on both sides of the issue.

The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) issued the new rules last week and already boat owner groups and conservationists say the rules are unfair.

The EPA standards cover all boats with sanitary facilities operating in U.S. waters and would end sewer discharge by 1977.

The rules, however, contain exceptions: if owners of existing boats install devices which churn up and chlorinate waste within the first three years of the five-year period, they may continue to use such devices indefinitely. If they wait for the final two years before making the change, they may use the devices only for three more years after the initial five-year period ends.

If boat owners do not act within the first five years, they will have to install holding tanks which must be pumped into dockside sanitary facilities.

Boat owner groups say they are being forced to meet clean-up standards that are tougher than those imposed on major polluters.

Richard Schwartz, Executive Director of the Boat Owners Association of the United States, told UPI over the weekend he was "quite disappointed" with the new rules. He said his organization may file a court challenge.

The government, Schwartz said, is "imposing much tighter standards on boat owners than on municipalities or industry".

Ted Pankowski of the Izaak Walton League said that the main problem with the whole issue was that the government rules cover only U.S. navigable water —rivers, streams and lakes where a vessel can travel from one state to another. He said land-locked lakes or other bodies of water entirely within a single state would not be covered unless the individual state has its own rules.

Narrow Behr Victory On Bay Agency Substitutes

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—A bill allowing county supervisors on the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission to appoint other public officials to represent them has been narrowly passed by the Senate.

After a floor fight, the measure by Sen. Peter Behr, R-San Rafael, went to the Assembly Monday on a 21-15 vote, the minimum required for passage.

Opponents charged the measure would enable elected supervisors to appoint someone to the commission who would not be directly responsible to the voters.

Behr, a former county supervisor, said in recent years attendance of supervisors at commission meetings has been scarce and "BCDC has had difficulty getting quorums."

His bill would allow a supervisor member of BCDC, subject to full confirmation by the full board, to name another official to represent him and vote on his behalf. The official could be either an elected or appointed officer.

But Sen. Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, who said he voted "reluctantly" for the bill, argued that the commission should "publicize" the reason for the bill as being that the supervisor members "have failed to carry out their responsibilities."

Marks, whose November election opponent is Democratic San Francisco Supervisor Ronald Pelosi, argued that under the procedure proposed by Behr supervisors could avoid "answerability."

Marks said he voted for the bill because he feared that without it BCDC might "go down the drain.

One Southern Californian, Sen. Alfred Song, D-Monterey Park, said that "if an official doesn't attend the meetings, he should get off that particular body."

Behr said the measure was endorsed by seven of the nine BCDC counties, the BCDC and the Save the Bay Association.

Clark Warns Of Police State

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Former Attorney General Ramsey Clark says that, by spending millions of dollars on sophisticated armaments for local police, the United States is "slowly buying ourselves into a police state."

Much of the money provided by the Justice Department is going to control blacks and other minorities instead of protecting them against the crime that wrecks their neighborhoods, Clark told a Congressional Black Caucus hearing on governmental lawlessness Monday. He said federal funds were being used to buy electronic surveillance systems, high powered guns, riot control devices, airplanes and helicopters.

"How can you justify saturation policing when you are killing programs that would help feed people in the area," he said.

Sea Life Hunt Could Bring Jail

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The Department of Fish and Game announced yesterday it was stepping up enforcement of regulations banning the collection of sea life in tide pools.

The department said that up until now, violators of the four-month-old rules have been warned with a few receiving citations.

Robert Kaneen, who is in charge of marine law enforcement for the department, said that now violators can expect to be prosecuted.

The Fish and Game Commission adopted the regulations in the "face of the increasing threat posed by tourists and students particularly who swarmed over the beaches by the thousands collecting everything in sight."

Judge Approves Construction Of Television Tower

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A judge Monday turned down attempts by an Environmental Law Society to halt the construction of a 980-foot television tower atop San Francisco's Mount Sutro.

The tower, now half completed, will be the tallest structure in the city. On a clear day it will be visible for 50 miles in any direction.

Superior Judge Clayton Horn said a request to invalidate a building permit would be "an exercise in futility" and lectured law Prof. Paul L. McKaskle and his associates at the University of San Francisco for seeking to "reverse the river of time."

The $12 million project will be used by local television stations for transmitting when it is completed.

Copter-Ambulance To Be On Display

A helicopter-ambulance will make a fly-in to the Northgate Shopping Center in San Rafael on Friday at 8 a.m.

The vehicle, part of the emergency service offered subscribers by Alert Identification Directive Service Inc. of Oakland, will be on display until 4:30 p.m.

STREETS NOT SHUT

Downtown San Rafael Becomes Film Location

Downtown San Rafael took on a different atmosphere last night as traffic was diverted around Fourth Street for making a movie, and the curious swarmed around the area.

The area barricaded extended from Lincoln Avenue to D Street and the side streets from Third Street to Fifth Avenue, according to police who said similar filmingand barricading will take place tonight, tomorrow and Thursday from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m.

Even the San Rafael City Council was concerned because the streets were blockaded without its permission. During an appearance last night before the council to discuss salaries, Police Chief Joseph J. Brusatori explained the situation.

Mayor C. Paul Bettini said that the chief explained that the streets were not closed and that anyone who actually wanted to could go through the private barricades.

San Rafael became "Any Town U. S. A.", a film being made by Lucas Film Limited of 8 Laurel Street, Mill Valley. The firm took out a license to make the film in San Rafael.

"They worked with our department and hired three off-duty officers to control the traffic, Brusatori explained during his council appearance.

The film company asked the merchants to leave their window lights on if they wanted the advertising, he said. It is a 1962 vintage movie, so if new model cars went through the barricade, the film company moved somewhere else on the street, he said.

Some complaints were registered, but there were many more curious who came to watch, he said.

Death Plot No Joke, Jury Rules

By LARRY MOWELL

A Marin Superior Court jury ruled yesterday that Una Mettam's plot to kill her husband wasn't the joke she claimed it was.

The jury of seven women and five men found the 42-year-old former San Quentin accounting clerk guilty of soliciting the murder of her cab driver husband in an auto accident. She would have collected $69,000 in insurance money.

Mrs. Mettam, who cried through much of the trial, began sobbing again when the jury returned its verdict after only an hour of deliberation.

During deliberation the jury reheard a tape recording of a telephone conversation in which she advised an Ignacio service station operator how to kill her husband so she could collect insurance.

Mrs. Mettam claimed she was joking and laughing during her telephone conversation with Marino Guerra on Jan. 13, the day before her arrest. She had testified that the whole plot to arrange an "accident" for her estranged husband, Frank Ronald Mettam, was a joke she thought a friend was playing on her.

The jury didn't see it that way after listening to three and a half days of testimony on the solicitation.

The prosecution version of events began in December when Mrs. Mettam learned that Guerra might be able to arrange her husband's death when a friend made a casual remark about him.

Guerra contacted the sheriff's department and Mrs. Mettam was arrested at her home the day after inspector Harry E. Bock taped the telephone conversation.

She admitted those events took place, but insisted John A. Pedroli, a mechanic who told her about Guerra, had been closely tied to the plan so she was convinced it was a joke. Pedroli denied he ever mentioned Guerra except the one time in December.

Judge Henry J. Broderick set sentencing for July 17 to obtain a probation report.

Kentfield School Raises Approved

Salary raises of up to 5.3 per cent for all district personnel were approved by the Kentfield School District board last night.

The salary hikes are included in the district's preliminary $1,648,575 budget for 1972-73, up $10,000 from last year. But Supt. Anthony G. Bacich said the board is confident the tax rate will be lowered.

Currently the school district's tax rate is $3.115 cents per $100 of assessed valuation. "We expect to have a tax rate next year of between $2.99 and $3.09," Bacich said.

The board approved a basic salary schedule raise of 5 per cent for certificated teachers. This will make a new range for Kentfield District teachers from $7,685 to $15,370.

Classified personnel were also granted a 5 per cent hike.

Administrative personnel were given raises averaging 5.3 per cent, said Bacich. His own salary will go up to $24,900 a year, while the principals' salaries of the different schools will be as follows:

Greenbrae: $17,200; Kent Jr. High $18,700; Wolfe Grade $19,500; Kent elementary $19,500. The district psychologist will get $18,950 and the business manager $13,000.

The board also approved paying .7 per cent increased premiums for medical insurance for all district employees.

Supt. Bacich said classified employees are still seeking reclassification of jobs, and his board will meet in closed session with him on July 10 to instruct him how to proceed in negotion with the employees.

At this meeting the principals' request for a definite salary schedule will also be discussed.

Discussing the preliminary 1972-73 budget of $1,648,575, compared to last year's $1,638,865, trustees cut one proposed item, said Supt. Bacich, by deciding not to purchase a $2,000 video tape recorder.

Mill Valley Commission Revives Controversy

The Mill Valley Planning Commission injected some life into an old controversy last night by approving a variance waiving offstreet parking requirements for William E. Cullen. According to planning secretary Evelyn B. McCrary, Cullen is seeking to convert the old Mill Valley Library, 52 Lovell Avenue, into a duplex and for more than a year has battled neighbors of the building who have complained that parking on Lovell is already in short supply.

The first variance, allowing Cullen to convert the library into three apartments without providing five offstreet spaces was overturned by the city council on the basis of neighbor complaints.

Although no one appeared at last night's meeting to speak against the variance, one letter of protest was received, Mrs. McCrary said.

A second variance granted Cullen last February allowed him to remodel the building into a single-family residence and an office and waived requirements for four spaces. Cullen sought the latest variance after deciding he would rather turn the structure into a duplex.

The Mill Valley Planning Commission Also:

REPAIR SHOP — Approved a conditional use permit to allow Philip Menzio to operate an auto repair business at 475 Miller Avenue.

CHURCH — Granted a conditional use permit and variance to the Buddhist Churches of America to allow the group to operate a church in Brown's Hall, 390 Miller Avenue, without providing 50 offstreet parking spaces required by city regulations.

RESTAURANT — Approved a variance to permit Stell and Leo Douglas to remodel the old Pat and Joe's Restaurant, 71 Throckmorton Avenue, in preparation for opening a new restaurant. The variance was needed because the remodeling envisioned is greater than the city permits in a nonconforming structure.

Hike In Power Rates Forecast

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Electricity costs to the consumer will rise sharply in the future as public and private utilities expand generating facilities to meet ever-growing demand, the American Public Power Association was told Monday.

APPA president D.W. Hill, Columbus, Neb., said one of the most difficult problems facing producers will be to meet costs and hold down charges to consumers.

"The increasing concentration of ownership of fuels—coal and uranium, as well as oil and gas —by a few major petroleum companies looms as an ominous threat to the future prices and supply of fuel," he told the association's annual convention.

Tower Transfer To Interrupt KTIM

Anticipated interruption of Radio Station KTIM's AM broadcasts did not materialize today since technical difficulties delayed transfer of its transmitter to a new tower.

The station announced that it now expects the transfer to take place tomorrow with consequent interruption of AM programs for several hours beginning at 8 a.m. KTIM-FM operation will not be affected.

Prince To Frigate

LONDON (UPI) — Prince Charles will be posted to the frigate Minerva in November after taking shore courses at Portsmouth, the Defense Ministry said today. Charles joined the Royal Navy last September and has been on service with the guided missile destroyer Norfolk.

Bridge Books Due On Sale

New interchangeable Golden Gate Bridge District ticket books, valid for up to one year instead of 90 days as before went on sale yesterday at bus and ferry terminals, at the Golden Gate Bridge and at ticket agencies in Marin, Sonoma and San Francisco.

Two ticket books are available, one with 20 of the 50-cent tickets, the other with 20 each of 25-cent and 50-cent tickets. Cost of the books is $10 and $15, respectively.

The new tickets may be used at bridge toll gates or on district buses or Sausalito ferry. Bus and ferry fares are cut by 25 cents when the convenience tickets are used instead of cash for transbay service.

Parked Car Loses Some Major Parts

George Edward Willis of 10 Parkway, Larkspur, told Larkspur police yesterday that during the five days his car was parked 300 feet from his home last week a mechanically-minded thief removed bits of it — the drive shaft, the universal joints and a cross member.

According to Larkspur police Willis parked the 1964 Lincoln in the road on June 10. When he went to move it on Thursday he noticed oil spots beneath the engine. On examination he found the parts missing.

Adobe School Budget Trimmed

The Old Adobe School District board, Petaluma, has trimmed $24,000 from the proposed 1972-73 budget, saying it hoped a tax rate increase could be avoided.

Schools Supt. Dean D. Magowan said the board reduced the budget to $1,780,000 at its meeting Thursday night, but hoped the funds could be restored before the financial budget is adopted in August. He said the $24,000 in cuts was made in all parts of the budget.

Magowan said the board would await a report on state aid and on assessed valuation before making further decisions. He said the board hopes funds will be available to maintain the current tax rate of $2.39 per $100 assessed valuation.

Cornell 'Typifies College Problem'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—An argument going on at Cornell University typifies what's wrong with colleges in America, says University of Chicago President Edward H. Levi. The argument, he says, involves "whether they should give students employed in a people's garage credit for their work. I think it's all wrong....

"There is a national drive for mediocrity. They want every young adult to go to college, then they change the college to make it a more comfortable and attractive place to be."

East, West Finally Near Serious Talks

By TAKASHI OKA
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

BONN, West Germany — Like brilliant fireworks, detente seems to be exploding all across the skies of Europe.

At long last, East and West — so long locked in military confrontation — seem on the verge of serious negotiations aimed at reducing, though not eliminating, this confrontation and at enlarging areas of cooperation and understanding.

For the first time in many sessions, the semi-annual ministerial meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization concluded its recent meeting here with a rare show of hope on the fruitlessness of East-West talks and with only a minor caveat about the need to keep up the alliance's own defenses.

Secretary of State William Rogers told a press conference here that the alliance must maintain a "delicate balance between defense and detente." He and his NATO ministerial colleagues (except France) warned against any "unilateral relaxation of the defense efforts of the allies."

But in general, the accent was resolutely on the positive in the magnificent skyscraper overlooking the Rhine where the ministers held their two days of deliberations. Even the French, sticklers for punctilious language, raised few questions over the final communique, which came out in record time.

None of this diminshes the fact that while President Nixon may have broken the ice with his summit agreements on strategic arms limitations in Moscow, tough negotiating sessions on a wide variety of topics lie ahead before detente can be brought down out of the sky and planted solidly on the wrinkled earth of Europe.

Three sets of negotiations will be taking place, more or less simultaneously, to make detente a reality if no hitch develops between the brilliant toasts exchanged in the St. George Hall of the Kremlin and the billiard-cloth tables at which ministers and ambassadors still seem to favor facing each other in their more formal conversations.

The first will be between the two Germanies, East and West. These negotiations have nothing to do with the western alliance, but divided Germany is at the heart of the problem of a divided Europe. With the signing of the four-power agreement on Berlin June 3, and with Bundestag approval of the Bonn-Moscow and Bonn-Warsaw treaties, the way is clear for West German Chancellor Willy Brandt to crown his ostpolitick with a modus vivendi allowing both Germanies to take their place in the United Nations and to enjoy something close to normal interstate relations.

The second set of negotiations will be between eastern and western powers having troops in the two Germanies. The aim is to build confidence and lower budgets in East and West by reciprocally reducing troop level in both sides.

On the western side will sit the United States, Britain, Canada, Belgium, the Netherlands and West Germany. France, which has two divisions stationed in West Germany, is opposed to the wholeconcept of force reductions, arguing that with the U.S. withdrawing 3,000 miles and the Soviets only 500, such reductions can only work to the advantage of the Soviet side.

France did not, therefore, associate herself with those portions of the NATO communique proposing "multilateral explorations on mutual and balanced forces reductions . . . as soon as practicable" but left open the question of whether she would participate once the talks actually got going.

The third set of negotiations will involve all the countries of Europe, East and West neutrals as well as the committed. The United States and Canada also will be included.

This conference, from the American viewpoint, has long been the most controversial. The French would like three commissions for security, economic cooperation, and cultural exchange. They hope of course without trumpeting these hopes that by de-emphasizing bloc-to-bloc confrontation in an all-European forum they will encourage East European states like Poland and Hungary to loosen themselves somewhat from the Moscow embrace. The Soviets, on the other hand, are interested mainly in getting Europe-wide recognition of post-war frontiers.

The NATO ministers agreed that the all-Europe conference and the talks on multilateral force reductions should be separate. The United States has pledged that even allies not included in the talks on force reductions will be consulted fully at all stages, even as NATO members were during the SALT meetings.

Butterfly Land Fund Drive Set

The Bolinas Planning Group agreed last night to hold a fund-raising drive to collect $7,500 toward purchase of a 1.8-acre monarch butterfly preserve in that community.

Judith Weston of the planning group's administrative committee said the property is owned by Hurford Sharon and located between Terrace and Ocean avenues.

Sharon is asking $15,000 for the land and Marin Audubon Society has offered to contribute half the cost, Mrs. Weston said.

Capsule Fails To Nab Robber

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The first West Coast use of a gas capsule designed to immobilize bank robbers failed Monday when it didn't discharge, police reported.

A teller at a Wells Fargo Bank branch said she complied with the robber's request to fill the bag with money but added the special gas capsule.

Officials said it was the first test of the capsule, which has been used in East Coast banks.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Pool Accident Prevention Involves More Than Fence, Lock

A suburbanite came to the office sobbing and trembling like a leaf. "Last month our back yard pool was completed and I told neighbors and friends that no one was to swim in it unless I was present. I thought the rest was up to them, but I was wrong."

"This man had reason to be upset. The day before, a child's body had been discovered floating face down in the pool. Our visitor had followed the usual precautions, such as surrounding the pool with a fence, but somehow the youngster managed to open the gate. The owner learned the tragic way that he is liable for the safety and welfare of any person who uses the pool, invited or not.

Family pools dot the nation's back yards and it is time owners took precautions for their own safety as well as that of others. Accident prevention involves more than a five-foot fence and a self-closing gate with a tamperproof lock.

THE POOL SHOULD be located where it can be seen from the house. At any rate, all adult members of the household must learn to swim, rescue, and resuscitate a person in distress. Some believe that every person who buys a pool should take the Red Cross lifesaving course.

Proper sanitation is vital and information on this subject usually is available thru local authorities and those who install pools. The water must be tested regularly for purity, acidity, and alkalinity. A filter must do an excellent job of keeping the water clean; otherwise it must be changed periodically. An ordinary cane pole, or inner tube close at hand may save a life.

POOL VACUUMS and skimmers remove larger particles of debris. A bath or shower before the dip is an excellent idea because a swimming pool is not a large bathtub. Colds, ear infections, and skin disorders often are traced to the back yard pool. If proper precautions are taken, the swimming pool can be one of the most pleasant aspects of summertime.

HALF PINT A DAY

J. J. writes: What harm could come to the liver of a man, 61, who drinks one-half pint of whisky (diluted with water) every day? He eats and sleeps well and is never ill.

REPLY

Eight ounces of whisky daily is a lot of booze, but the liver may escape if this man eats a well balanced diet and the organ never has been damaged by poison or hepatitis.

VACCINE AND SHINGLES

V. T. writes: Why is smallpox vaccination given as part of the treatment of shingles?

REPLY

Smallpox vaccine is of no value in shingles (herpes zoster) even though both shingles and smallpox are of viral origin. This vaccine is used occasionally in treating fever blisters (herpes simplex); repeated vaccinations lessen the chance of recurrence.

ALCOHOL AND EPILEPSY

W. E. writes: Why does alcohol bring on epileptic seizures?

REPLY

Possibly because alcohol stimulates the brain waves to produce the changes that trigger a seizure. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on epilepsy.

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches, and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

3. Protect and insure the adequacy and usefulness of public and private development as they relate to each other and to the neighborhood or area.

4. Give guidance to the functioning, appearance, and locations of buildings and improvements so as to maintain and enhance a balance between private prerogatives and preferences and the public safety and welfare.

C. It is further necessary and essential to a rational and continued improvement of our City that we prevent the erosion of beauty and decay of environmental amenities by:

1. Stimulating creative design for individual buildings, groups of buildings and structures, and other physical developments;

2. Encouraging the innovative use of materials, methods and techniques;

14.11.05 CRITERIA FOR APPROVAL OF APPLICATIONS:

Review shall be guided by the following criteria for the purpose of assuring that with regard to buildings, structures and physical improvements each proposed development shall accomplish the purposes set forth in Section 14.11.01.

A. Competent design: Development has been designed by and bears the signature of a person who under the building code has been designated as legally competent to submit such development proposal. The overall design may be directed towards buildings of any architectural characteristic. However, there must be a consistent organization of materials and openings, and a harmonious relationship of major elements; and decorative parts must relate to the character of the design.

B. Preservation of landscape: the natural landscape shall be preserved in its natural state, insofar as practicable, by minimizing tree, rock, and soil removal; grade changes shall be minimized and shall be in keeping with the general appearance of neighboring developed areas. Open areas shall be preserved to the extent practicable.

C. Relationship between structures within the development and between structures and the site: there shall be a harmonious and pleasing relationship between the various structures of the development on the site and between the structures and the site itself. The proposed structures should be designed to fit the site and not vice versa.

D. Relationship between development and neighborhood: Proposed structures and site development shall be related harmoniously and have good space and relationship to the terrain and to existing structures and development in the vicinity. The design shall show that due regard has been given to orientation of structures to streets, climatic considerations, and, especially, the creation and utilization of vistas and open space. Overdevelopment of the site shall be avoided.

E. Materials and colors used: soft and muted colors in the earthtone and woodtone range and natural materials are preferred and generally should predominate. Other colors and materials may be accepted if the applicant can demonstrate that they are appropriate to the style, are appropriate accent colors, and are harmonious with the site or compatible with the character of the neighborhood.

1. Earthtone colors are considered to be various shades of reddish-brown, brown, tan, ochre, umber, gold, sand and green. The following are ordinarily not so considered: blue, canary yellow, red, orange, violet, magenta, bright green, silver, gray or metallic finishes.

2. Natural materials include adobe, slump block, brick, stone, redwood, exterior wood wall covering, or wood shakes and shingles, California tile roofs.

3. Windows and glass: bronzetone or other glare reducing and color harmonizing finishes may be required on glass surfaces when they constitute 50% or more of a wall or building face, when such wall or face is exposed to the direct rays of the sun for any substantial part of the daylight hours. Similar treatment is to be used to reduce see-through capacity where glass surfaces would otherwise permit a view of pipes, utilities and other service units attached to a ceiling or roof. Mirror-type glass shall be avoided.

4. Roofs (including equipment, but excluding skylights) are to be composed of nonglossy earthtone or woodtone finishes that minimize reflectivity.

5. Metal buildings or finishes: unpainted metal, galvanized metal or metal subject to ordinary rusting may not be used. Metals that develop an attractive oxidized finish may be used: copper or weathering steel are examples of such materials.

6. Concrete surfaces must be colored, textured, sculptured, patterned and/or serve a design function as opposed to a mere structural function.

F. Walls, fences or screening: shall be employed in a skillful manner and in harmony with the design of the development to conceal and to screen parking and loading areas, garbage and refuse collection areas and mechanical equipment from public view from adjoining streets, from persons residing on or working in the development, or from persons residing or working in the neighborhood.

G. Surface water drainage: special attention shall be given to proper site surface drainage. Storm waters shall be removed and carried away in an adequate drainage system. Surface water and all paved areas shall be collected at intervals so that it will not obstruct the flow of vehicles or pedestrian traffic and will not create puddles in the paved areas. The details of such drainage systems shall be subject to the approval of the Director of the Department of Public Works.

H. Drives, parking and circulation: with respect to vehicular, bicycle and pedestrian circulation (including walkways, interior drives and parking) special attention shall be given to location and number of access points to the public streets, waterways, shorelines and open space areas, general interior circulation, separation of pedestrian from vehicular traffic and arrangement of parking areas that are safe and convenient insofar as practical. Such facilities should not detract from the design of the proposed buildings and structures or from adjoining or neighboring properties. The effect of the development on adjoining sites and properties must be considered and the loading capacities of adjoining streets must also be considered.

I. Utility service: utility connections shall be installed underground. Proposed method of sanitary sewage disposal for all buildings shall be indicated. Garbage and refuse collection areas shall be located in areas convenient both to users and to persons who make collections and be of adequate size. There shall be adequate ingress and egress to all utilities.

J. Signs: when submitted as part of the development, shall be so designed as to be skillfully integrated into the development and not detract from the overall appearance of the project or of surrounding areas or developments.

K. Exterior lighting: light sources shall not create a glare or hazard on adjoining streets or be annoying to adjacent properties or residential areas. The location of lights and electric conduits in landscaped areas shall be coordinated with the landscaping and irrigation plans.

L. Landscaping: shall be well designed with appropriate variations and shall be included as an integral enhancement of the site and, where needed, for screening purposes. Plant materials shall be suitable for the functions to be served. Irrigation systems may be required, and their location shall be coordinated with the plan for the location of plants. All landscaping shall be maintained in good condition and any dead or dying plants, bushes, or trees shall be replaced with new healthy stock of a size compatible with the remainder of the growth at the time of replacement.

M. Temporary visual and air pollution resulting from construction: shall be minimized through retention of natural vegetation, rock formations and topography until applicant is prepared, once he starts grading, to continue immediately with the construction applied for through to completion as one continuous process. The period of construction shall be of a duration reasonable to the size and complexity of the development. During grading, dust prevention must be emphasized to avoid unnecessary annoyance to persons living or working in the area.

N. Any or all of the above criteria may be waived by the Planning Commission in developments showing exceptional design merit, which carry out the objectives of this Chapter and which are consistent with the General Plan.

14.11.06 APPROVAL, CONDITIONS, AND GUARANTEES:

A. An application for design review may be approved, approved with modifications, conditionally approved, or disapproved.

B. The City may require that the applicant contract with the City to complete the development proposed in accordance with the design review approval given, and also may require the posting of a bond to guarantee performance, which shall be in such amount as the City may fix.

C. An approved application, and all other related and approved maps, drawings, and other supporting materials constituting a part of the approved application, shall be so endorsed by the Planning Director or his authorized representative.

D. The Building Inspector shall review construction drawings, final plans, and other similar documents for compliance with the approved design review, any conditions attached thereto, or any approved or required modifications thereof. He shall when performing building inspections on the site also inspect for compliance with Design Review requirements; and promptly shall report to the Planning Director any deviations therefrom, either in the plans or on the site.

14.11.07 DEDICATION AND IMPROVEMENT:

Dedication, relocation, installation and/or improvement of rights-of-way may be required where essential to prevent congestion and/or hazards which may result from the use of land proposed.

14.11.08 NONCOMPLIANCE:

A. In addition to any other fines, penalties or enforcement provisions set forth in this Code, failure to comply in any respect with an approved design review application shall constitute grounds for the immediate stoppage of the work involved in said noncompliance.

B. An occupancy permit shall not be issued in part or whole for any building or group of buildings subject to design review unless and until the work specified in the design review approval has been completed, including landscaping. If for any valid reason full compliance cannot be made, a cash bond shall be posted for the work to be completed within a reasonable period of time as determined by the Planning Director or his authorized representative.

14.11.09 REVOCATION, EXPIRATION AND EXTENSION OF APPROVAL:

A. When demolition or removal of any existing structure is a part of design review approval, said demolition or removal shall be completed, and all debris removed from the site, within ninety days of design review approval or the entire design review permit shall be deemed to have expired for cause as of midnight on the 90th day unless the Planning Director shall grant an extension of time for such work.

B. Design Review Permits shall expire in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 14.88 of this Title, which Chapter sets forth an automatic expiration in one year unless a different expiration date or unlimited expiration is stipulated at the time of approval. Prior to the expiration of a Design Review approval, the applicant may apply to the Planning Director for an extension of not more than one year from the original date of expiration. The Planning Director shall grant the extension, and may make minor modifications of the approved design at the time of extension, if he finds that there has been no substantial change in the factual circumstances surrounding the originally approved design. Any further extensions beyond one year shall require Planning Commission approval.

DIVISION 4. If any section, subsection, sentence, clause or phrase of this Ordinance is for any reason held to be invalid, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this Ordinance. The Council hereby declares that it would have adopted the Ordinance and each section, subsection, sentence, clause or phrase thereof, irrespective of the fact that any one or more sections, subsections, sentences, clauses or phrases be declared invalid.

DIVISION 5. This ordinance shall be published once in full before its final passage, in the Independent-Journal, a newspaper of general circulation, printed, published and circulated in the City of San Rafael, and shall be in full force and effect thirty (30) days after its final passage.

Sonoma Students Plan Trip To Africa

A group of 30 students from California State College, Sonoma, will leave July 3 for a six-week tour of Western Africa.

The trip will take students to University of Ghana at Legon and University of Lagos, Nigeria. They will also tour other parts of western Africa and will stay with African families.

Local students on the tour will include Marilyn Connolly, Phyllis Bala, Phyllis Thompson and William Trowbridge of Cotati, Letrice Whitlock and Jane Udofia of Rohnert Park and Josephine St. John of San Rafael.

The group will also include Olatunji Vidal of Nigeria, a member of the Sonoma State Music Department. Mrs. Udofia is also a Nigerian.

Funds for the trip have been provided by private doners and many organizations including the Negro Business and Professional Women's Club of Santa Rosa. Contributions are still being sought since an additional $1,500 is needed for the trip.

It is hoped that next year a group of African students can spend six weeks in Sonoma County.

Political Contribution Returned By Sen. Smith

A Stinson Beach man, who impulsively mailed a $1 political contribution to Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, was flabbergasted yesterday when he received a thank-you note and his dollar bill as well.

"I'm not active politically," he said, "in fact, I'm a registered Democrat. But when I saw her on TV a few weeks ago, I just thought she was charming . . . so spry . . . and she was saying her opponent in the Maine primary was a millionaire . . . so I decided to send her $1 with my best wishes."

Yesterday, Anderson received his dollar bill stapled to a letter from Mrs. Smith, the nation's only woman senator and victor in Maine's Republican primary:

"Thank you for your letter and your contribution for $1 which you enclosed.

"I do hope you will understand and not be offended when I say that I'm still trying to go the way of not taking contributions except the automatic minimum one that the National Republican Senatorial Committee gives to all incumbent Republican senators and I deeply appreciate your thoughtfulness."

First Ordination Of Homosexual

SAN CARLOS (UPI) — A young man believed to be the first self-declared homosexual ever ordained by a major religious group has become a minister of the United Church of Christ.

William R. Johnson, 25, was ordained Sunday before a capacity crowd of almost 300 worshipers at a 90-minute ceremony in the community church of this San Francisco suburb.

Road Projects Are Approved

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — The California Highway Commission has voted a total of $39,100 for improvement projects in Marin and Sonoma counties.

The state Division of Highways will pay half the $20,200 costfor a turnout and bus stop lane on Paradise Boulevard south of Stewart Drive. Tiburon will pay the other half.

The other funds were voted to provide new guard railing and modify existing railing in order to shield signposts along Highway 101 against out-of-control vehicles running off the roadway. The $29,000 project will concentrate on the San Rafael and Santa Rosa areas.

Holtzman Discusses Ambition After Blanking Rangers

But what would make it that much sweeter for the lanky hurler?

"I'd love to pitch against Chicago in the World Series," Holtzman said Monday night after getting his 11th win of the season, a 3-0 job over the Texas Rangers in which he got an inning and two-thirds relief help from Darold Knowles.

Holtzman came to Oakland from the Chicago Cubs during the off-season in a trade for Rick Monday. And nobody was happier than Holtzman.

"This (Oakland) is a happier team than Chicago," he said. "It's as good an overall team. It's the best team in the American League. Dick Williams is a completely different kind of manager (than Leo Durocher of the Cubs).

"Both of them are sticklers on fundamentals. But Leo had a communication problem with the younger players.

Although the 90-degree-plus heat got to Holtzman in the eighth inning and he had to share his shutout with Knowles, he had a big reason to grin after the game since he had driven in the only run Oakland needed with a double which boosted his batting average this season to .256.

"I don't actually work on my hitting so much," Holtzman said, "but I concentrate a lot at the plate. A pitcher needs to help himself every chance he can get, and after all it was a 0-0 game at the time.

The occasion was the seventh inning when, after two were out, Tim Cullen singled. Holtzman then lined a double just inside the left field line. The ball struck the edge of the bullpen dugout and bounded away from left fielder Tom Grieve, allowing Cullen to race home.

Oakland got two more in the eighth on five straight singles.

Running around the bases on that double tired Holtzman considerably, and when he went into the dugout briefly at the end of the top of the seventh he was not sure he could continue throwing.

"Let me go out and see what I can do," Holtzman told Williams. Holtzman proceeded to get the Rangers out in order, but he was weakening fast.

"If I get anybody on next time come get me," he told Williams. After getting one out in the eighth Holtzman walked Ted Kubiak and that was all for the night. He had given up only three hits.

"He got awfully tired," Williams said of his pitcher. "It was this heat. That double he hit really tired him out. I'll tell you he's really a good hitting pitcher. Of course we have another pretty good one on this team in Catfish Hunter. After all, he hit .350 last year."

SPORT NOTES

The Return Of Roving Richard

By RALPH CHATOIAN

After a week in the outdoors away from newspapers and radios, I usually find after grabbing a few back issues that I really haven't missed much.

There's still war, death and taxes.

But this time, after a week of family camping near the Feather River in Plumas County, I found one sports item that really made news in the Bay Area:

The "return" of Richard Francis Barry III.

After years of battles in the courts of law rather than on the courts of basketball, Warriors' owner Franklin Mieuli finally won his fight to get back Barry, the man who jumped across the Bay from San Francisco to Oakland and then across the county to Washington, D.C., then Virginia, then New York.

DURING HIS ABSENCE, the Warriors have changed their name from San Francisco (The City, as it said on their jerseys) to Golden State. They no longer play in the Cow Palace, but in the Oakland Coliseum. When Rick made his first move, the short one from S.F. to Oakland, it was after playing the 1966 and '67 seasons with the Warriors.

He switched affections from the National Basketball Association to the American Basketball Association and joined his father-in-law, Bruce Hale, then coaching the Oakland Oaks. He had to sit out a year, but played for the Oaks in 1969 and like he did in the NBA in 1967, he led the ABA in scoring that year. Then came Rick's eastern swing, started by Oakland's franchise switch to Virginia and then a trade to New York had Barry playing for the Nets the past two seasons.

While doing all this switching around, Barry had signed a 1969 contract with the Warriors, claiming Oakland's move to Washington, D.C., invalidated his ABA contract.

DURING THE FIVE years of Barry's escapades, Mieuli, a very patient man who kept insiting he would get back his wandering star, waited. After U.S. Federal Judge Alfonso J. Zirpoli ruled last week that Barry would have to honor his 1969 Warrior contract, Franklin got out Barry's old uniform and grinned from ear to ear.

The judge's decision came only days after the Barry $150,000 home in Orinda was sold. It had been on the market for two years. But maybe Rick can get the sale contract invalidated. He's pretty good at those things.

Anyway, Rick's mother-in-law said yesterday that Rick wouldn't be in the Bay Area until after he defends his title in the Nugget celebrity golf tournament which starts tomorrow in Sparks, Nev.

Mrs. Hale is keeping care of the Barry's youngest son, 6-month-old Brent, in Orinda. Rick and Pam have their other two boys with them.

IF BARRY does abide by the court decision, he will be a big drawing card for the Warriors. He is handsome, has charm, and a good jump shot from anywhere on the court. In his one Marin County appearance, back in 1967 when the Warriors held a game-type scrimmage in the College of Marin gym prior to the start of the regular season, Rick had to sit out with an injured toe.

But Franklin Mieuli was there. And he was smiling, too.

State Golf Rise By 4 Marinites

The weather that tormented the U.S. Open at Pebble Beach last week visited San Francisco yesterday but four Marin County golfers survived the bluster to advance in regional qualifying for the state amateur tournament.

Ray Leach of Novato and Brigham Young University finished second among the 212 contestants with a 36-hole score of 76-71—147 over the Ocean and Lake courses of the Olympic Club in the City.

Bob Cranston of Sausalito shot 72-77—149, Richard Thompson of Sausalito fired 86-76—162 and Mat Palacio Jr. of San Rafael shot 80-83—163. Palacio needed a birdie on the first playoff hole to make it.

The low 95 golfers qualified for the next phase of the tournament, the statewide qualifying July 10-11 at Cypress Point and Pebble Beach. Five others were exempt from qualifying because of high finishes in last year's amateur.

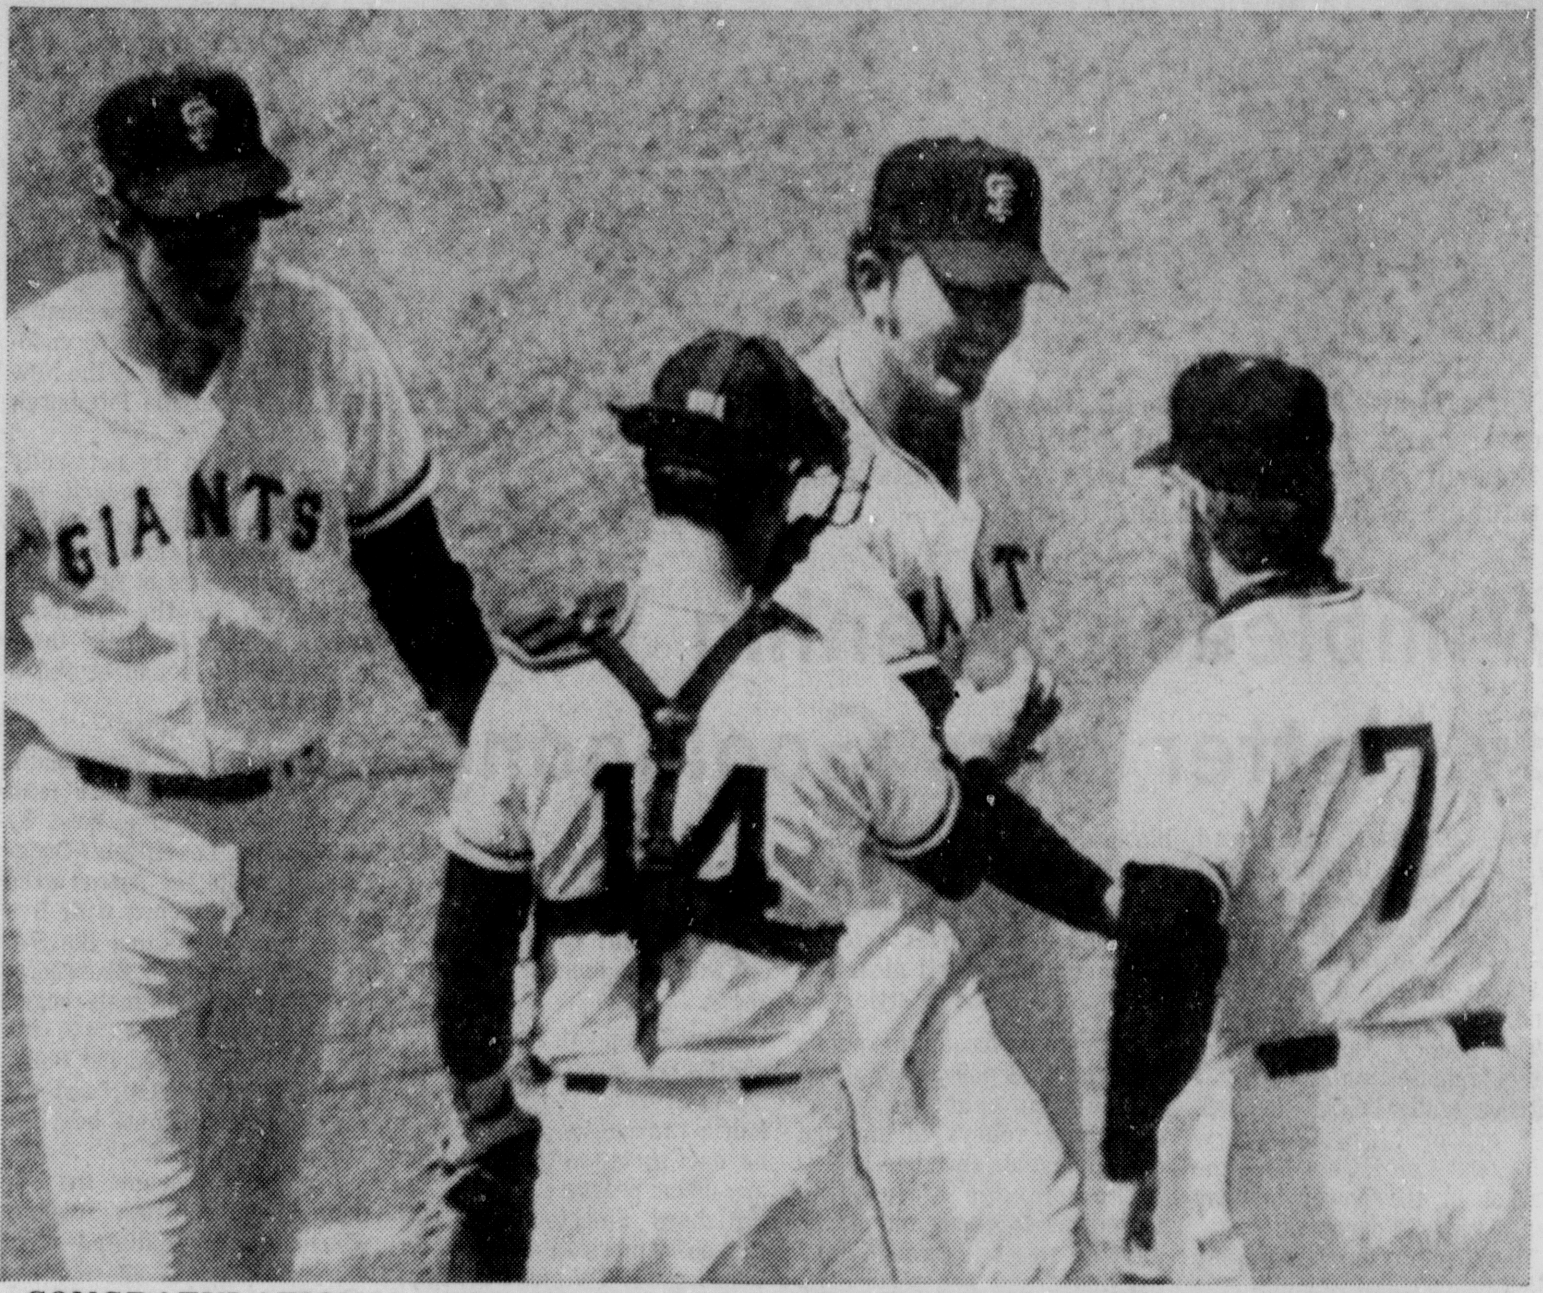
The 100 golfers from Northern California and another 100 from the Southland will be reduced at that time to the 64 who will actually compete in the match-play tournament, July 12-16 at Pebblo.

Yesterday, the medalist was John Cranston of Los Altos, last year's San Francisco City Amateur champion. He shot 72-73—145, two shots ahead of Leach.

Neither Leach nor Bob Cranston (John's brother) appeared especially bothered by the winds and rocklike greens that forced scores into the 80s. Twelve golfers failed to break 80 in either round but still qualified. Highest qualifying score was 163, 19 over par.

Sohner Wins Pair

Sohner Tree Service of San Anselmo last night defeated Hamilton Air Force Base in a softball doubleheader, 3-1 and 3-2, behind the pitching of Herb Dower and Mal Smith.



CONGRATULATIONS — San Francisco Giants pitcher Ron Bryant received a congratulatory handshake from team manager Charlie Fox (7) as teammates Dave Rader (14) and Ed Goodson looked on yesterday at Candlestick Park. Bryant had just blanked the Atlanta Braves, 3-0, his second straight shutout. It was the Giants third victory in a row.

THE END — Referee Johnny LoBianco held onto challenger Roberto Duran of Panama as lightweight champion Ken Buchanan of Scotland dropped to the canvas at the end of the 13th round of the 15-round title fight in New York's Madison Square Garden. Duran was awarded a 13th round technical knockout and the lightweight crown after the referee ruled Buchanan was unable to come out for the 14th round.

Duran Hammers Champ In 13

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ken Buchanan looked like he had been mugged in a back-alley. His left eye was cut and partially closed. There was a slit under his right eye and his groin was throbbing with pain.

Buchanan was hammered into submission by a questionable punch from a two-fisted dynamo, Roberto Duran, who fought his way out of the slums of Panama to the lightweight championship of the world at Madison Square Garden Monday night. The 21-year-old Duran, young and confident after 28 straight wins, pummeled Buchanan with hard rights and lefts until the Scotsman fell to the canvas after the bell sounded the end of the 13th round.

Buchanan, far behind on points on all three officials' cards, grabbed his groin indicating he had been fouled. He crawled to his corner and was hoisted onto his stool by his handlers.

Referee Johnny Lo Bianco looked the champion over and ruled he could not continue. "He wasn't able to go on," said LoBianco "so I stopped it."

"I told the referee I could continue boxing," said Buchanan. I wasn't going to lose my title that easily. All I felt was a ping between my legs."

Bryant Stops Atlanta, 3-0

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The fuss is over between San Francisco Giant pitcher Ron Bryant and manager Charlie Fox, but the Atlanta Braves suffered from the fallout.

Bryant continued his campaign to convince Fox he's a better pitcher than he's given credit for by pitching a three hit shutout to beat Atlanta 3-0 Monday at Candlestick Park.

"I felt I had to say what I did. I'm not going to say anything more," Bryant said.

A week ago he blasted Fox for not having confidence in him, and he convinced Fox of his argument by tossing a two-hit shutout to beat the Chicago Cubs.

"I think the pressure is off now," Bryant said. "I hope it is. This game isn't easy. I got some good plays behind me at the right time."

Bryant walked three batters in the first inning but Earl Williams then hit the first pitch for an inning-ending double-play.

"Having 18 straight shutout innings is really something," Bryant said. "In Chicago I had the wind on my side and this time the defense helped."

He held Hank Aaron, Rico Carty and Williams hitless in 10 trips to the plate.

How did he pitch to Aaron?

"You're supposed to pitch him up and in but that's not easy for a left-handed pitcher to do. I tried to keep the ball away from him because it looks like all he's trying to do now is hit home runs."

The Giants collected eight hits off loser Ron Reed who, gave up all three runs.

Rookie Ed Goodson had a double and two singles, scored a run and drove in another. He played first base in place of injured Willie McCovey.

Jim Howarth took over for injured Garry Maddox in centerfield and turned in two outstanding fielding plays. He raced to the fence in left-center field to make a leaping catch of a long drive by Carty in the ninth inning.

Meanwhile, Maddox was named National League Player of the Week by league president Charles S. Feeney. Maddox batted .310 with nine hits in 29 at-bats during the week of June 19-25, including two three-run home runs.

Fox was impressed by his youngsters who now have won three games in a row — the first time they have done so this season.

"Maybe we're over the hump," Fox said. "Six in a row would be nice."

He said Bryant was successful because he was getting his curve ball over the plate.

How about the fuss?

"I think Ron grew up a little after what he said," Fox said.

Bryant-Fox Furor Mellowed By Humor

Ron Bryant and Charlie Fox kept the just concluded road trip of the Giants from becoming a routine, reportorial job for baseball writers traveling with the team. The southpaw and the manager provided some colorful copy.

In St. Louis Bryant stormed off the mound after Fox took the ball away from him in the eighth inning of a game in which the Giants were leading 3-0. The bags were loaded and there were two out in the eighth when Fox took the ball away from the southpaw and gave it to Randy Moffitt, a righthanded rookie.

Bryant was so red necked because Fox didn't permit him to face one more batter, in this case the powerful right-handed swinger Joe Torre, he threw things around the clubhouse. And when Torre muscled a bat handle blooper to shallow right center off Moffitt to clear the bags and tie the score 3-3, Bryant picked up a telephone and called the baseball writers traveling with the team.

"I wish they'd traded me instead of John Cumberland," said Bryant. "The worst Torre could have done against me was a grand slam."

WELL, THE CARDINALS went on to win that game 4-3 in the 11th and the Giants went on to Chicago where the Cubs scored 22 runs in the first two games to extend their streak to seven-in-a-row. Bryant faced the Cubs in the series finale.

"This," said the southpaw before the game, "is the biggest of my career."

"I'll be the first to congratulate him if he wins," said Fox. "I'll go out to him on my hands and knees if he shuts them out."

Bryant did shut out the Cubs 4-0 on a two-hitter and Fox did drop to his hands and knees before Bryant, salaaming to the southpaw.

Bryant momentarily was confused by the manager's salaaming. The southpaw thought Fox tripped after dashing out of the dugout. He actually started to help Fox to his feet when Fox jumped up and grabbed Bryant in a bear hug. Bryant got the idea of it all then and smiled. "Thanks, Skip," said Bryant to Fox.

"HOW," Bryant later said to baseball writers, "Can you stay mad at a guy like that. Everything's going to be all right."

Bryant now is 5-4 for 1972, put his record over the .500 mark by blanking the Atlanta Braves Monday 3-0. He never has been above .500 in a full season. But then he has been in the big time only two full seasons.

He was 5-8 in 1970 and last year he was 7-3 before the All-Star break, 0-7 after it. So he finished 7-10. Still, Bryant felt he deserved a raise. He finally got it although Jerry Donovan, Horace Stoneham's contract negotiator, wasn't impressed by Bryant's logic.

Bryant told Donovan that if he had been 0-7 in the first half of 1971 and 7-3 after the All-Star break, instead of vice versa, there wouldn't have been any question about a raise.

"IF YOU HAD been 0-7 during the first half you wouldn't have been around for the second half," Donovan told Bryant.

Nevertheless, Donovan did go to Stoneham in Bryant's behalf and got an okay for a modest raise that still leaves Bryant slightly under the $20,000 bracket.

Bryant won't have any trouble jumping into higher salary brackets once he discovers the secret of consistency instead of being brilliant in one performance and a puzzle in the next.

DOWN BUT NOT OUT — New York Mets' Willie Mays hit the dirt hard after a wild pitch thrown by Pittsburgh Pirate pitcher Bob Moose in the fifth inning at New York's Shea Stadium last night. Mays regained his feet and grounded out, but the Mets won, 4-2.

Wimbledon Opening Win By Netter Miss Goolagong

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI)-Evonne Goolagong of Australia opened defense of her Wimbledon tennis title today with a straight set victory over Maralyn Pryde of New Zealand.

The bouncy Australian won the 42-minute match 6-3, 6-4 without really being extended. Her opponent ran for everything, but she did not have the strokes or the power to deny her 20-year-old opponent.

The Center Court was again filled to its 15,000 capacity on a dull, overcast day. There was a threat of rain and it was chilly.

Miss Goolagong led 2-0 but then made three careless volleying errors to drop her service. She came back for 3-1 and never was troubled after that.

In the second set the ponytailed New Zealander matched the champion shot for shot until the ninth game when she was broken at 15, Miss Goolagong scoring with her rapier-like backhand passing shot down the line.

Miss Goolagong quickly secured three match points in the 10th game. A careless backhand volley into the net cost her the first but she wrapped things up on the next with a smash into the righthand corner.

The strong left arm and stamina of Roscoe Tanner of Lookout Mountain, Tenn., held out for five gruelling sets to take him into the second round. He beat Juan Velasco of Columbia in their resumed match 6-3, 2-6, 6-4, 7-9, 7-5.

It was the kind of contest Wimbledon fans love: a tense battle between well-matched players of contrasting style.

The slender Columbian teased his opponent and stayed alive for five sets through floating line drives and service returns that Tanner could only blink at as they whipped past him.

Tom Gorman of Seattle, Wash., paced himself carefully and successfully to topple Belgian Davis cupper Bernard Mignot 6-4, 7-5, 6-2.

Gorman, the sensation here last year with his win over Rod Laver which took him to the semifinals, said the cold weather had worried him. He served at only three quarter pace and scooped under many shots that he could not fully stretch to retrieve.

"I have to nurse my back in this cold weather and just couldn't give an all-out effort. Just to be safe I changed my wet shirt between sets.

"I pulled up very sound and I'm content my game is picking up well for tougher matches ahead."

Mignot's smooth stroking and nimble return of service tested Gorman repeatedly but the fourth ranked American placed his own shots too well to suffer any undue pressure.

Richard Stockton, the 14th ranked American from Port Washington, N.Y., took the final set from Brazil's Tomas Koch to complete an 8-9, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2, 6-4 victory in a match which was called Monday because of darkness.

The American, who ran for everything Monday to keep his hopes alive, refused to give ground today. In the fifth game of the decider he reeled off five straight points after the Brazilian led 40-love and then hung on to clinch his victory in the 10th game.

Stockton got to deuce when Koch served a double fault; reached advantage when the Brazilian dumped a volley into the net and got the break with a cross-court backhand which Koch could only get his racket to.

The crowd on this ladies day was eager for the Wimbledon debut of Chris Evert, whom they have dubbed "Little Miss Icicle".

Koosman Is Mets' Happy Winner, 4-2

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Jerry Koosman is so happy just to be winning again, he isn't going to worry about being unable to finish what he starts.

The blond lefthander, troubled with arm miseries the last three years after breaking into the National League as a 19 game winner, came within one out of pitching his first complete game in 10 months Monday night before being replaced by Tug McGraw.

FIFTH WIN

McGraw got Dave Cash to pop out to shortstop Bud Harrelson with two men on base and Koosman was presented with his fifth consecutive victory after three losses as the New York Mets beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-2.

The victory in the nationally televised contest enabled the Mets to snap a three-game losing streak and climb back to within two games of first-place Pittsburgh in the National League East. In their three losses, the Mets had scored a total of two runs.

REDS WIN

The Cincinnati Reds maintained their half-game lead over Houston in the West by whipping the Los Angeles Dodgers, 5-0, while the Astros were tying a club record with five home runs in routing the San Diego Padres, 14-7. Elsewhere, the St. Louis Cardinals edged the Montreal Expos, 4-3, the Chicago Cubs ripped the Philadelphia Phillies, 11-1, and the San Francisco Giants beat the Atlanta Braves, 3-0.

Gary Nolan became the National League's first 10-game winner as he scattered eight hits and struck out six Los Angeles batters.

Doug Rader hit two homers and Jim Wynn, Lee May and Cesar Cedeno collected one each at San Diego. Cedeno also had a pair of singles and scored three times, including the goahead run in the seventh when Houston snapped a 7-7 tie.

Rick Reuschel, making his first major league start, limited Philadelphia to six hits—three of them in the first inning—and his Chicago teammates supported him with a 15-hit attack.

Mays' First Hit

NEW YORK (UPI)—Willie Mays' first major league hit was a home run off Warren Spahn of the then Boston Braves.

A.L. ROUNDUP

Two Pitchers' Ninth Innings

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

The games were one inning too long Monday night for both Bill Slayback and Skip Lockwood.

Slayback, making his first major league appearance, pitched no-hit ball for seven innings and two-hit ball for eight innings while Lockwood pitched one-hit ball for eight innings.

Neither pitcher, however, managed to get a batter out in the ninth inning although they both got credit for the victories. Slayback got help from both Fred Scherman and Chuck Seelbach as Detroit downed New York 4-3 while Lockwood was bailed out by Ken Sanders as Milwaukee blanked Baltimore 2-0.

In the other games, Oakland downed Texas 3-0, Cleveland downed Boston 7-3, Minnesota routed California 7-4 and Kansas City downed Chicago 4-1.

Eric Soderholm's grand slam homer in the seventh inning sparked Minnesota to the victory over California. Soderholm's homer made it 7-0 and enabled the Twins to survive four unearned runs, three on Vada Pinson's homer.

Graig Nettles hit a two-out, two-run double to trigger a six-run sixth inning and lead Cleveland to the victory over Boston. Ray Culp blanked Cleveland for the first five innings until the Indians exploded in the sixth. Nettles' two-run hit was followed by a walk and a two-run single by Ron Lolich. Frank Duffy then wrapped up the rally with another two-run single.

Cookie Rojas' two-out, two-run single in the third inning paced Kansas City to the victory over Chicago behind the five-hit pitching of Bruce Dal Canton. The Royals were nursing a 2-1 lead when Rojas tagged Wilbur Wood for the two-run single that wrapped up the game. Wood slipped to 117 this year.

Olympic Bid Help For 2 Jailed Stars

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

NEW YORK — Correction Board chairman William Vanden Heuvel announced Tuesday of a citizens committee to urge that Olympic officials allow two imprisoned American athletes to compete in the 1972 Munich Olympic Games.

The German Olympic Committee has reportedly said it would not welcome participation by the men, Bobby Lee Hunter, a boxer, and Gene White, a trackman, even with the concurrence of penal authorities.

"Both Mr. Hunter and Mr. White have had the help of correctional authorities in developing their athletic talents and in finding themselves so that they can live constructive, contributing lives in their communities," Vanden Heuvel said in a statement.

"Youth around the world will find an inspriring example in their success which confirms the reality of hope and the possibility of redemption for all of us."

Among those on the committee are city correction commissioner Benjamin Malcolm; Correction Officers Benevolent Association president Leo Zeferetti; Monte Irvin, the former New York Giant outfielder now a special assistant to baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn and Cus D'Amato, former manager of Floyd Patterson.

Football

BALTIMORE — Carroll Rosenblum, owner of the Baltimore Colts since 1953, may end up owning the Los Angeles Rams if a complicated franchise swap can be worked out.

"I have made a committment," Rosenbloom said Monday. "We will just have to wait and see if it can be worked out."

Melvin Durslag, of the Los Angeles Herald Examiner, wrote that "as a gesture of good faith ... the prospective buyers of the Los Angeles Rams have given the ownership a $5 million deposit."

He said the money came from a group headed by Robert Irsay of Skokie, Ill., and William Keland of Racine, Wis.

If the deal is finalized, Durslag wrote, "it will result in the Rams' buyers trading the club to Rosenbloom for the Baltimore Colts."

National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle denied Monday that any final deal had been made.

"Every transfer of stock of an NFL team has to be submitted to the league for approval," Rozelle said. "Nothing can be done before discussions can take place."

Golf

NEW YORK — Jim Jamieson's $30,000 winner's share Sunday in the Western Open, his first triumph on the Professional Golfers Association tour, carried the chunky 29-year-old from Moline, Ill. from 26th place on the money-winning standings to 11th place with a total of $77,942.

Jack Nicklaus and Lee Trevino, neither of whom competed in the Western Open, remained first and second, respectively, on the money list. Doug Sanders, who tied for 11th at Winnetka, Ill., winning $3,300, took over 10th place from Juan (Chi Chi) Rodriguez, who fell back to 12th.

Baseball

Campanella, who recently was elected to baseball's Hall of Fame, was admitted to Grasslands Friday in "critical" condition but a spokesman for the hospital said there had been some improvement since then.

The spokesman said Campanella was suffering from respiratory difficulties "somewhat" connected with the paralysis he suffered as the result of an automobile accident in 1958 that ended his baseball career.

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — Outfielder Billy Conigliaro, who left the Milwaukee Brewers without a word Sunday, told the club Monday he wanted time to "reevaluate his personal life," leaving Brewers officials thinking he may return to baseball.

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. — The Minnesota Twins announced Monday night that they are putting star right fielder Tony Oliva on the disabled list for the rest of the season so he can undergo a second knee operation.

Quarry Brothers To Fight

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Muhammad Ali, whose mission in life is to regain the heavyweight boxing title and earn a few million dollars enroute, battles Jerry Quarry, a rough California customer, tonight in a scheduled 12-rounder on a doubleheader fight program.

The bouts will be on closed circuit television at the Richmond Auditorium, starting at 6:30 p.m. Tickets for the presentation on a black and white screen cost $6 per person.

The Ali-Quarry fight is billed as a heavyweight elimination but the winner is not assured of a crack at champion Joe Frazier, who is playing hard to get since he has beaten both men before. Ali's only defeat in a career of 37 pro fights was a 15-found loss to Frazier on March 8, 1971.

Foster, 33, a towering 6-foot-3½, is a ringwise boxer and stunning puncher. He won the title in 1968 with a fourth-round knockout of Dick Tiger, who was floored with Foster's favorite punch — a left hook to the jaw. Foster's record is 47-5 and he has knocked out 40 of his victims.

that. He was hurt several times in the fight by Duran, a brawling street fighter who never stays off his man. The two men traded blows as the bell sounded to end the 13th and their bodies cracked together. Suddenly Buchanan was down, his face twisted by pain. A right hand to the mid-section had done the damage. Or did the punch land below the belt?

"I hit him a good punch to the stomach," said Duran. "I won it legal. In the late rounds I hurt him. The guy, he was running and he have no chance to fight his fight."

Buchanan, disappointed in the ref's decision, agreed that Duran was effective. "He was cutting the ring off on me," said the ex-champion. "I didn't have much of a chance to box him. He's a good fighter, a hustler. He kept coming forward, throwing punches like a desperate player in the final rounds. He's a good puncher." The controversial finish rubbed some of the patina off Duran's victory. He took the fight to Buchanan and outslugged him in almost every round.

"We have this little thing," Holtzman said, "on our batting. The one with the most hits wins. I'm ahead 12-8 right now. I don't know what the prize will be, but it will be a lot of fun whatever it is."

The prize might be the Chicago Cubs in the World Series, and that, for Holtzman, would be the biggest prize of all.

Those Happy Days Are Here Again

By AL GIDDINGS

Happy days are here again! Mary, my wife, after two weeks in a hospital, made a rapid recovery and is home. She was desperately sick several days, and my thanks to all the well wishers who brightened up her days with the most beautiful flowers. My daughter's wedding took place with Mary in the hospital, but we all made it with the able help of the Deer Park Villa personnel. As I said, Happy days are here again . . . even with the fishing.

Striper fishing in San Pablo around the Brother Islands is good . . . probably 50 boats there over the weekend. Noted four fish hooked at Tiburon's Elephant Rock, by the shore anglers casting with bugeyes and streamers. It's a tough place on lures . . . ten anglers lost perhaps fifty assorted lures to the snags and rocks there last Saturday.

DOWN AT LIME Point and the Yellow Bluff area inside "the Gate," the night anglers were out. Two arrests were made there Saturday at 3 a.m. Sunday, same place, same time, the game wardens were out-witted by the gang there, when look outs were posted as a safety measure. Can you imagine eight anglers sitting on the rocks near the surf at 3 a.m. saying they were waiting in the pitch black of the night for the legal time to roll around? Legal time was 4:49 a.m. Like warden Russ Ild says, "you can't win them all." No one had a fish that could be seen.

Some fair fishing was reported by the Richmond Bridge out by the channel. Harold Lansing of the Chevron Station right there at Loch Lomond caught a 47-pound striper trolling with a bugeye and spoon setup. If you want to see a happy fellow stop and say hello; you'll see!

SALMON FISHING has been good too, with good numbers of big fish being taken. Bob Locki of the boat, the "Lo Hat," had his usual crew of five out this past week plus a guest.

The guest, 14-year-old Tom Miller of San Rafael, was haivng a field day, with most of the old pros letting him play their fish for awhile. Most of the fish were in the six-to-10 pound class (they could afford to be so nice). Then suddenly Tom had about a 30-pound Salmon on. The fish jumped, and so did Locki! It was his rod, so young Miller didn't know what was happening when suddenly he lost the rod to Locki's excited grab. Even old pros get excited on 30 pounders!

YOUNG SCOTT Foster of Woodacre showed me a couple of duck tag returns he had received from the Fish and Wildlife Service. One was from a canvas back that had been tagged at White Eye, Alaska, in 1961. That old bird was at least 12 years old. A second bird, a black sea brant, was tagged in 1967 in Kasiglook, Alaska. It was at least 2 when tagged, so it was about 6 years old when taken.

In April of this year, the "N.B. Scofield," a Fish and Game research boat started a tagging program of market crabs for growth and migration studies. The trapping of the crabs was conducted in inshore areas at depths between 6½ and 28 fathoms in Bodega Bay, and off the Pt. Reyes-Double Point areas, and in the South Bank area just south of the San Francisco main ship channel. Ten 46-inch traps were set at each of the 28 stations occupied. The fishing time for each trap set was approximately 24 hours. Squid and rock fish carcasses were used as bait. A total of 2,288 crabs consisting of 1,575 males and 713 females were caught at the 28 stations.

SUB-LEGAL (less than 6¼ inches) males constituted 96 per cent of the male catch, and 66 per cent of the total catch. No 1972 crabs were caught. Only crabs, male and female which were undersized, were tagged. The total number tagged was 1,636 with 70 per cent of these males.

Patrick Collier, the Fish and Game Marine biologist is now tagging market crabs in the Paradise Park Pier area near Tiburon. He has caught approximately 800 to date and all were undersized. (I wouldn't crab there if I were you; besides, the season closes June 30.)

Kennedy Net Tourney Set At Forest Hills

NEW YORK (UPI)—Senator Edward Kennedy and Mrs. Robert F. Kennedy announced a pro-celebrity tennis tournament to be held at Forest Hills on August 26, just before the U.S. Open championships, for the benefit of the Robert F. Kennedy Memorial foundation.

Mrs. Kennedy, her leg now in a walking cast following a skiing accident, said she hoped to be able to play, "if I can find a good partner—like Pancho (Gonzalez) or Stan Smith or Charlie Pasarell."

Aparicio Is Out

BOSTON (UPI) — Shortstop Luis Aparicio was placed on the disabled list and will be lost to the Boston Red Sox for at least three weeks, the team physician said Monday, because of a fractured and dislocated middle finger on the 38-year-old ballplayer's left hand.

Redwood's Prep Crew In Meet

The Marin Rowing Association champions, who had been looking in vain for a post-season match to test their skills, finally have landed one, according to advisor Bob Cumming.

A crew from Seattle, Wash., will arrive in Marin Friday to meet Redwood Saturday morning at 8:30 on Corte Madera creek. The winner will be entitled to go to the National Junior Rowing Championships in Philadelphia July 13-14.

Saturday's race will be a 1,500-meter affair for four-oared boats. It will start opposite 1050 South Eliseo Boulevard and will end opposite Greenbrae Lanes, 100 yards west of Highway 101.

Chicago Hockey Star Hull Switches Loops

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI)— Superstar Bobby Hull of the Chicago Black Hawks jumped to the new World Hockey Association today by signing the first of two contracts that total $2.5 to $3 million.

The 33-year-old Hull signed a $1 million contract with WHA Properties Ltd., the league's marketing arm, in St. Paul this morning and prepared to fly to Winnipeg in the afternoon to sign a 10-year $1,5 million plus contract with the Winnipeg Jets.

Hull, second highest scorer in National Hockey League history, was met by St. Paul Mayor Lawrence Cohen at Holman Field on his arrival shortly after 10 a.m. for his meeting with WHA officials.

The smiling Hull signed his contract with the WHA, providing for endorsements among other things, and then was given a $1 million check on cardboard about one by two feet.

Annis Stukis, general manager of the Winnipeg Jets, called Hull's jump to the WHA the "biggest sports story of the last 10 years."

Stukis said the deal totals "somewhere around $3 million, give or take a couple of hundred thousand." Included is a five-year playing contract for the 33-year-old Hull, and a provision for him to then go into management.

"If and when that happens," Stukis said, "Bobby expects to move to Winnipeg and settle down."

The signing today was to end six months of negotiations between the Jets and Hull, who has scored 604 career goals in 15 NHL seasons, second only to Gordie Howe's total of 786.

"It's the biggest sports story of the last 10 years," Stukie said. "It's comparable to the signing of Mickey Mantle."

Hull's brother, Garry, already has signed a one-year contract with the Ottawa Nationals of the WHA, but brother Denis remains with the Black Hawks.

Bobby has expressed disenchantment with the Black Hawks in the last two years, and his four-year, $150,000 contract with them expired this year. Further, his signing with the Jets would give him an opportunity to return home to Canada, where he began his hockey career with St. Catherines, Ont., of the Ontario Hockey Association.

Torre Sustains Lead On All-Star Ballot

NEW YORK (UPI)—With ballots from fans continuing to pour in and nearing the one million mark after three weeks, Joe Torre of the St. Louis Cardinals remained the biggest vote-getter in the National League for the honor of playing in the All-Star game in Atlanta, July 25.

Surprisingly, the fans seem to have passed up the players with the highest batting averages since none of the leaders in the balloting at any position are presently among the top ten batters in the league.

Some Jurists Show Return To Reality

Court decisions often leave us feeling like we have been listening to a conversation from the Mad Hatter's tea party. Seeking to thread their own ideas of social planning through a maze of legalities, learned judges sometimes produce rulings which have little relation to common sense or reality.

Of late, however, we have seen some encouraging signs of down-to-earth common sense breaking through. We commented yesterday on one such decision, in which Judge Joseph Karesh of San Francisco Superior Court simply read the law and took it to mean what it said.

THE U.S. SUPREME Court (which has produced its share of Alice in Wonderland decisions) also seems to be regaining a grasp on reality — or at least, a majority of the justices do.

We were struck particularly by the court's finding last week in one case which failed to make the headlines.

A convicted murderer had appealed on the grounds that a confession which had been obtained unconstitutionally had been used in his trial.

By 5-to-4 vote, the high court refused to overturn the conviction. The reason cited by the court's majority was that there had been ample evidence to convict without using the disputed confession.

In other words, the guilty shall not be set free because of a legal error which did not affect the finding of guilt.

This is common sense. This is returning the law to the uses of justice, instead of courtroom game-playing.

UNFORTUNATELY, this application of common sense to the law does not seem to have permeated to the California District Court of Appeal in Sacramento.

That court last week freed Michael L. Alford, accused of burning an American flag on the state capitol steps, because it held the law under which he was charged is unconstitutionally broad.

The statute, noted retired Judge Fred R. Pierce, who presided for the case and wrote the decision, defines a flag to include "every picture or representation" of a flag. That, he said quite reasonably, could apply even to a decal on a car window — which the owner might want to scrape off some time.

We cannot argue with Judge Pierce on that. We agree the law is too broad.

But Michael L. Alford was not charged with scraping a decal off a car window. He was charged with desecrating the United States flag by burning it on the steps of the state capitol. And that desecration was declared legal by the appelate court ruling.

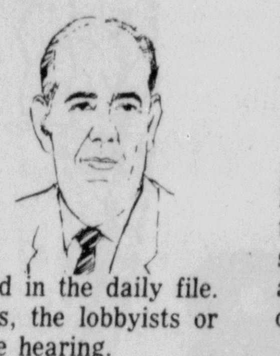
Scaring Birds

Birds are generally considered an asset in Marin gardens, but in the lettuce and berry patches and certain other places they can be a nuisance. Many kinds of devices have been used to try to frighten birds. All kinds of loud noises, bright lights, scarecrows, amplified distress calls of the birds themselves, electric shocking devices, chemical repellants — all have been tried with varying degrees of success.

If all else fails, we can resort to wire or plastic.

SACRAMENTO SCENE



Assembly Violates Law To 'Save Environment'

By EARL G. WATERS

In an amazing display of speed, the Assembly whipped up an Environmental Protection Act and passed it through its first hurdle, the policy committee, before the ink was dry.

It was better than that. The bill wasn't even available for the public to read before it had been approved by the committee.

To appreciate this unusual alacrity it must be realized the passage of legislation is supposed to follow the State Constitution. Article 4, Section 8 of that document provides: "No bill other than the budget bill may be heard or acted on by committee . . . until the 31st day after the bill is introduced."

Additionally, the Assembly rules require notice of all bills set for committee hearing must be published in the daily file and "two full days . . . shall intervene between the day of first publication and the day upon which the bill is heard."

THE MEASURE in point, AB 2376, was introduced in the Assembly on June 14. Less than 48 hours later it was reported out of the Committee on Natural Resources and Conservation. This action took place at 8:30 a.m. Copies of the printed bill were not available to the public until 10 a.m., fully 90 minutes after it had been "heard" and approved by the committee.

No notice of the bill being set for hearing ever appeared in the daily file. Few among the press, the lobbyists or the public knew of the hearing.

The bill is the product of months of labor by Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg, D-Sacramento, and weeks of negotiations between him and the administration forces. It has the blessings of the governor and the Sierra Club. It may be a very good bill.

Regardless of its merits and the good intentions of its author, the governor and the Sierra Club, the trampling over of the Constitution and Assembly rules hardly seems warranted.

EVEN THE BILL'S author was apologetic about the fast action. "We had to do it," Z'berg said, "because Speaker Bob Moretti said all bills had to be clear of policy committees before the session met today (Friday, June 16)."

Moretti's zeal in expediting the Assembly's work comes a bit late. The Legislature has been in session for more than five months. During most of this time he has permitted the Assembly to meet three days a week. He has tolerated intolerable absences of the members from the floor and from committee. Now, with a target of a July 7 recess, he is stampeding legislation through.

The whole idea of legislative process, spelled out in the Constitution and legislative rules, is one of due consideration to give adequate time for the public to study proposals and to have the opportunity to express its views.

Moretti's mandate for swift action exhibits an unpardonable ignorance of the responsibilities of the Legislature or an outright contempt of the public's rights in the process of legislation.

THE MONUMENTAL size of his disregard, in this instance, of the public can be fully realized only when all of the facts are known. The bill would create a new superagency to control environment. In so doing it abolishes five existing agencies, adds 136 sections of law, amends 67 others, and repeals nine sections. These provisions affect 11 law codes and fill 80 pages of the bill.

It would take a battery of lawyers weeks to fully understand the provisions and all of their ramifications. The gross unfairness to the public in giving committee approval to so complicated a bill before it is even in print seems inexcusable.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

'Remember When' Brings Back Unhappy Incident

Thought you might like to know that your "Remember When" column under "20 Years Ago" on the editorial page of the June 22 issue of the I.J. did indeed make me "Remember When." That story cost me some $200 and to almost be kicked out of the USAF even though I was some 7,000 miles away when it was originally printed. The story referred to a Cpl. Leonard Pratt of Hamilton AFB who had confessed to attempted extortion of attorney Vince Hallinan's family.

Several months prior to that item, I had co-signed a note with a local bank so that Corporal Pratt, who worked for me, would have sufficient funds for a "hardship" leave due to family problems at his home (in N.Y., I believe). I was shortly assigned to duty in Germany and had forgotten the entire incident when, in June of 1952, I was advised by the bank that Pratt was in jail for the Hallinan incident plus an attempt to extrot funds from "Horsetrader Ed" Shapiro, the S.F. used car magnate, and that I would have to pay off the loan at once, in full —this on a second lieutenant's pay yet!

I wrote to the bank asking them to attempt to secure any funds that Corporal Pratt might have available, assuring them that I would pay off whatever remained on the balance of the loan.

Another letter came from the bank and only after reading part of it did I realize that it was not addressed to me but "To the Commander of" and then to my name and address. Fortunately for me, some postal clerk had also missed that line and delivered the letter to me. The letter advised "my commander" that I had "refused" to pay off the note I had co-signed and asked him to take appropriate action (in those days, this would have been cause for my dismissal from the service, a fact that the bank was surely familiar with as they had a branch at HAFB and dealt with the military all of the time).

Needless to say, I sent a check for the full amount by return mail. I learned two things from this incident — I have never again co-signed a note nor done business with that particular bank.

Picture Story Of Bird Delightful News

Congratulations! Your lead story on the front page on 21 June was what a lot of us needed — good news that there really is a little love in our lives. Eight columns featuring the little mother bird threatened by progress but respected in her plight was truly a humane delight. The photography was quite a feat, Mr. Kean — but the joy was not "strictly for the birds" but for a lot of readers of the I-J.

Chamber, Council Act Only When Forced

The chamber of commerce approved amending the Corte Madera zoning ordinance to lower density only after a recall of Mayor Norville was under way. They then passed a resolution opposing the recall.

Does this give you an idea of where the chamber of commerce and the town council of Corte Madera stand?

They will only act on high density when forced to by a recall.

Nixon Can't Keep To High Road If Associates Take The Low

It is hard to believe that any sane Republican politician would have authorized the effort to wiretap and spy upon the Democratic National Committee's offices in Washington.

The most plausible hunch is that the group of CIA alumni and Cuban exiles cooked up the scheme on their own, hoping to sell the results to Republican officials later on. If this is true, it exhibits a rather familiar kind of spy and exile phobia. People get that way.

Of course, an even more intriguing hunch would be that they were trying to help the Democrats, which they certainly did.

THE NIXON CAMPAIGN cannot stand many episodes of this sort. Already the images of wiretapping, of secret deals with big business, of misleading rhetoric, of fancy propaganda and manipualtion of opinion, are altogether too rife.

And, conversely, the image of Sen. George McGovern as a simple, straightforward open-faced minister's son continues to build despite the frequent changes and retractions in his public positions. He even seems to enhance an impression of candor by admitting past mistakes.

The problem President Nixon has had to face since his earliest political days was that of over-zealousness. Down through the years, from the days of his campaign fund provided by affluent friends and the Checkers speech, he has had a lot to explain. Perhaps much of this is plain bad luck, and shrewd propaganda against him. Most politicans have had campaign funds provided by affluent friends. Mr. Nixon has indeed been the target of a lot of ideological and personal political attack.

But the fact remains, it seems to me, that not the least of the major campaign factors which will be decisive in November is the image he presents to general public opinion, compared to the image of his probable opponent. That is why an episode like the break-in at the Democratic National Committee's office is particularly damaging even if it is fully and satisfactorily explained.

PRESIDENT NIXON and his advisers will have to consider their campaign tactics very carefully. Can they successfully carry water on both shoulders? That is to say, can the President campaign loftily as that Great White Father, skillfully conducting world programs of pacification, while his associates, such as Vica President Agnew and his campaign manager, John Mitchell, go after Senator McGovern with tooth and claw?

Some people think it is going to be a very dirty campaign, with Republican hatchet men fiercely attacking McGovern as the candidate of "pot, amnesty, and abortion."

I do not believe they can have it both ways. I do not believe both kinds of campaign can be waged successfully at once.

If Mr. Nixon restrains his oft-attributed "instinct for the jugular" and campaigns as world leader, it seems to me he will have far better results. But he will get a lot of contrary advice.

SENATOR McGOVERN'S public positions, as hitherto expounded, are sufficiently vulnerable as not to need the low-road type of campaigning. Moreover, if personal images are important, Mr. Nixon would only hurt himself by donning the old image and abandoning his great opportunity to run as President.

Mr. Nixon must keep his associates under control. If any of them were involved in supporting the raid on Democratic national chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien's offices, they should be sternly rebuked. And they must be more scrupulous in the future.

There also is an impression, fostered by recent testimony of Air Force officers concerning unauthorized bombings in Vietnam, that command control is none too good in Washington.

If such indiscipline and fanatical zeal infiltrates the law enforcement system, we are in for bad trouble. Above all, it has no place in political warfare.

I am not naive; I know dirty tricks have been played by henchmen in both political parties for a long time. Sometimes they may have worked. Usually they are dismal and fatuous failures.

If President Nixon's campaign emulates Caesar's wife, he will be the big beneficiary.

Kennedy Will Sit It Out To Benefit Of Sen. McGovern

WASHINGTON — The efforts of prominent and well-heeled Democrats to sidetrack George McGovern with a moderate center candidate have all but run out of steam. The McGovern sweep in New York, with the attraction it holds for wavering delegates not anchored to one of the also-rans, is a clincher.

Lingering hope had fixed on the possibility of a draft of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy. This, too, has faded. Kennedy has said he will not be on the ticket this year either as No. 1 or No. 2.

This report is convinced Kennedy will continue to say no regardless of how he may answer hypothetical questions about his duty to his party and the plea that only he can defeat Richard Nixon. There are many reasons why this should be so. That at the age of 40 he can afford to wait it out is perhaps the principal reason. If he should wait through four presidential elections he would still be younger than Sen. Edmund Muskie, who at 58 is not an ancient.

ANOTHER REASON is evidence that the Republican National Committee is compiling a record on the tragedy of Chappaquiddick that runs to several volumes. While Kennedy's staffers discount this and the senator himself has dismissed it by saying that a campaign could not be based on merely repeating the details of a tragic accident, revival of the tragedy in which a secretary, Mary Jo Kopechne, was drowned would be painful for the members of his family.

While the bugging foray at Democratic National Committee headquarters was a disaster, Republican investigators have come up with what is in the Republican view a blockbuster. It is the secret report of the grand jury that, under the prodding of Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis, investigated the Chappaquiddick accident.

After hearing several witnesses the jury reported thatit found no grounds for a criminal indictment. An inquest into Miss Kopechne's death had been held and the proceedings subsequently made public. They were put into a booklet that was widely sold at $1.25. Dinis insisted that the case be reopened with an autopsy. This was denied by Chief Justice G. Joseph Tauro of the Massachusetts Superior Court. Having pleaded guilty to the charge of leaving the scene of an accident, Kennedy was given a two-month suspended sentence, the minimum penalty under Massachusetts law.

The grand jury transcript would show little more than what was developed at the inquest, according to members of Kennedy's staff. Moreover, it is illegal to publish such a record. If it were leaked out, however, prosecution would be unlikely.

By 1976 Chappaquiddick would be a very old story. With his able staff, Kennedy could rack up a favorable record in the Senate with issues such as medical care and others that touch the mass of voters. If McGovern should be elected, the Kennedy prospect would go over to 1980, when he would be 48.

But with his sure feel for politics — his brother, John F. Kennedy, once said that Teddy had a better political instinct than anyone in the family — the senator from Massachusetts knows which way the wind is blowing. Running against an incumbent President is always tough. The party is in disarray and this does not look like a Democratic year.

AS ONE ELDER statesman, who put a lot of money on Sen. Edmund Muskie and is now writing off his stake, sees it, a re-elected president Nixon will face very hard sledding. A lot of gas is being fed into the economic balloon to get through November. This may help lower unemployment so that by October it could be down from just under six per cent to just under five per cent. But it could also stoke up inflation, which is already threatening to break out in a new round of higher food prices. Wage-price control has been largely cosmetic and the new year will see rampant demands for higher wages to keep up with rapidly rising prices. This is the "mess in Washington" that a Democratic president would inherit. So leave it to Richard Milhouse.

Kennedy did not run as a delegate because he was determined to stay out of the shot and shell at Miami Beach. The present intention is to follow the proceedings on television at the Kennedy compound on Cape Cod. That should be a safe distance from vain calls for a draft.

Construction was begun on a highway underpass north of Puerto Suello Hill to link Santa Venetia with San Rafael Meadows.

Marin County Supervisor William D. Fusselman denied that plans for Bon Air Road had been "buried in committee" by the board of supervisors.

Railway Good For Income

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am an 80-year widow living on Social Security and $900 yearly income. I hold 100 International Harvester, 50 Southern Railway and 50 Union Pacific, all on the New York Exchange. I get less than 4 per cent return on these stocks and wonder if I'd be better off in bank bonds. My rail shares have been held 20 years, International for 12 years. — B.H.

A. Your three common stocks worth about $11,000 pay $400 in dividends annually, a return which could easily be improved. I would not, though, advise selling all your holdings at this juncture. Southern Railway will split its shares 2-for-1 early in July. Earnings have been particularly strong, up 22.5 per cent in the March quarter — as a result the quarterly rate was raised from 75 to 80 cents a share. These shares should be retained. Sale of Union Pacific and Inter. Harvester would release about $6,000 for the purchase of bank bonds. These obligations, generally yielding about 7 per cent would add $180 to your income.

Q. What is a three-for-two stock split? This was mentioned for Season-all Industries. — C.C.

A. This manufacturer of aluminum combination windows and doors will pay shareholders three new shares for each two currently held. Holders of record June 12 will receive the split shares after the June 28 payment date. Instead of holding 200 shares trading at $20 each, you will hold 300 worth $13.33. In each instance, your principal in these ASE-listed shares remains unchanged at $4,000.

The split should prove beneficial to shareholders since the floating supply of stock is less than 259,000 shares. The company president controls 37% of the common. March quarter sales set a record for that period at $2.68 million.

The $33,000 deficit was half that of the previous year's first quarter, traditionally an unprofitable period in the building industry. A significant improvement over the $1.35 per share profit of 1971 is looked for this year.

Brink's Dividend

CHICAGO (BW) — The board of directors of Brink's Inc. has declared an increased quarterly dividend of 7½ cents per share.

SKI AND SPORTS SHOP

In just one year, The Seasons Ski and Sports shop at 40 Greenfield Avenue, San Anselmo, has become a major sporting goods outlet in Marin. It specializes in backpacking and camping equipment, water and snow ski, and tennis equipment. It has just opened a professional tennis shop at the store. In photo above, owner Mike DeLuca explains the workmanship of the Head Master tennis racket to Gene McGuidi.

Market Weak; Prices Are Mixed In Early Trading

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market showed little strength Tuesday as prices turned mixed around noon after some early firmness. Trading on the New York Stock Exchange was moderate.

Shortly before noon, the Dow Jones industrial average of 30 selected blue-chip stocks was off 0.15 at 936.26. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index was up 0.23 at 107.71.

Advances led declines by a narrow 617 to 504 among 1,519 issues across the tape. Turnover during the first two hours amounted to more than 5,420,000 shares.

Investors' eyes were riveted on Europe where finance ministers said they have put up the money to rescue the U.S. dollar and Italian lira in an attempt to offset the effects of Britain's decision to allow the pound to float. The results of the activity will not be known until Wednesday when money markets reopen.

Meanwhile, the actions have thrown caution into the stock market. Fears still persist an international monetary crisis is at hand with the Smithsonian agreement in danger.

Airline Loses

NEW YORK (BW) — American Airlines Inc. has reported a net loss of $3,365,000, or 12 cents per share, for May.

Payless Drug Store Will Close; Under New Name Next Month

Payless Drug Store, located in downtown San Rafael for 25 years, will close up shop on Friday, to be replaced sometime next month by Merrill's Drugs.

Robert T. Gray of Novato, owner of Payless Drug stores in San Rafael and in Napa, said he will retain his Napa store which he has owned for 14 years. Gray's two stores are separate and independent from the large Payless chain headquartered in Oakland.

The Payless chain, which is about to open a large new store at Northgate Mall near the new Sears store, will take over the Payless name from Gray's San Rafael store. Gray said the Payless chain will also buy the existing inventory from his San Rafael store at 866 Fourth Street. The store was formerly at 1122 Fourth Street for eight years and moved to the present location 17 years ago.

James D. Reese of Kentfield, general manager of Merrill's Drugs and Discount Centers, said his drug store will open probably in late July. He has not yet named the manager for his new San Rafael store.

Merrill's Drugs, founded in 1940 by Reese's father, the late W. Merrill Reese, has three stores in San Francico and one each in downtown Vallejo and downtown Napa. The San Rafael store will be the sixth in the chain.

Merrill's Drugs in San Rafael will be open seven days a week from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. It will have liquor, cosmetics, photo department, toys, pharmacy, vacation and sporting goods, hardware and small appliances, and other drug and discount merchandise.

AIR EQUIPMENT Hydraulic, located in San Francisco for the past four years, will move to San Rafael about the first of next month.

Robert (Dirty Old Bob) Jones of Santa Venetia, who owns the company with partner Jack Bullock of Petaluma, said they decided to move to San Rafael because "we got tired of commuting." Jones and Bullock repair and sell air compressors and hydraulic equipment.

Their new San Rafael location will be in the same building as Deming's Marin Tire and Brake at 666 Irwin Street. Air Equipment Hydraulic will be open five days a week from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

ROBERT C. BUTLER, formerly general manager of Home & Land Co. of Marin County, has opened his own real estate firm, known as The Robert Butler Company, at 50 Mitchell Boulevard, Northgate Industrial Park.

NIGHT LIFE coming to the quiet community of Stinson Beach?

No, not exactly. But beginning this weekend, the stores at Stinson Beach will stay open until 9 p.m. each Saturday for the convenience of shoppers.

In the past, the stores have all closed about 5 p.m. or shortly thereafter, so that visitors who spent Saturday afternoon at the beach could not shop in the evening.

Stinson shops that will be open Saturday nights include a crafts shop, art gallery, book store, bike shop, antique shop, and a grocery store. The Sand Dollar Restaurant, operated by Kenneth Rand, is open four nights a week, Thursday through Sunday.

NORMAN HART of San Rafael has been appointed manager of Roos-Atkins' Market Street store in San Francisco.

With the company for three years, Hart was department manager and assistant store manager of the Stanford store and manager of the store at Northgate Mall.

J. WENTWORTH FOSTER of Mill Valley was promoted to assistant vice president of the Oakland main office of United California Bank.

He joined United California Bank in 1969 in San Francisco and was appointed assistant manager. He was also assistant manager of the San Rafael office before his present assignment.

A HELICOPTER will land at Northgate Mall parking area near Sloane's Friday morning to give a day-long demonstration of a helicopter-ambulance service offered by a new Oakland firm.

The demonstration will be presented from 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. by a firm called AIDS (Alert Identification Directive Service Inc.) Those who pay for membership in AIDS will get heli-ambulance service when needed and other service to bring quickest transportation available from the place of emergency to the nearest available hospital equipped for the emergency.

Shirley Angel of San Anselmo, who opened the shop last month, is a painter and an art instructor. She gives lessons every day at any hour convenient to the student. Mrs. Angel studied art under Nevin Kempthorn and has 12 years of experience in the field.

Her shop carries picture frames, gifts, original oils, and a complete line of art supplies including Windsor Newton paint. The shop is open Tuesday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

THREE MEMBERS of the Equitable Life Assurance Society office in San Rafael recently attended the company's national leaders conference in Hollywood, Fla. They are Russell C. Troup (district manager), Alan Birch, and Paul L. Thurston. Alder A. Henrie also qualified but could not attend.

ALDO NICCOLAI of San Rafael has been appointed representative in San Rafael for the sales organization of Investors Diversified Services (IDS), the Minneapolis-based financial institution.

Niccolai will distribute shares of six mutual fund companies. He will work out of the San Francisco divisional office. He served as a major in the United States Army before joining IDS.
